Senate Suddenly Votes To Expand Gate Span Board

Bagley Bill Overcomes Collier Opposition; Back To Assembly

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The Senate yesterday passed legislation adding four directors to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board, but imposing tight fiscal controls on the body.

Passage of the measure came as a surprise. Earlier, Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, introduced a resolution asking study of the management and operation of the bridge district by a committee of the Legislature.

Capitol observers saw the resolution as a ploy in Collier's battle to protect the bridge district and he was expected to use it when the upper house debated the bill, by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The bill was approved 37-0 and sent back to the Assembly for consideration of a major amendment.

That change would give San Francisco two of the four new members and the other two would come from Marin and Sonoma counties.

As passed earlier by the Assembly, the measure would have given Marin and San Francisco each two of the new directors. But Sen. Collier had insisted the bill be amended to make Sonoma County's representation equal to Marin's.

The bill also requires local governing bodies to review their appointments to the bridge board every two years. This, in effect, would shorten the four-year terms of directors to two terms.

The legislation also requires the district to put out for competitive bidding all contracts worth $5,000 or more.

Mass Protest Set For Visit By Humphrey

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Peace group leaders say they'll have 25,000 antiwar demonstrators on hand during Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's three-day campaign tour of California. (See other politics stories on page 19.)

The vice president is expected to arrive today for a meeting with the California delegation to the Democratic National Convention. He will meet with them tomorrow at the Century Plaza Hotel, and the demonstrators said they'll be there too.

The demonstration is being staged by the Peace Action Council, which mustered 10,000 pickets outside the Century Plaza last year during a visit by President Johnson. Some 50 people were injured when police and pickets clashed, but council leaders said tomorrow's demonstration will be peaceful.

This will be Humphrey's second attempt to bring his campaign to California. Flu caused him to cancel similar plans two weeks ago.

Children Flee Novato Blaze

A babysitter and three children escaped injury yesterday as flames severely damaged a home near the San Marin area of Novato.

Asst. Fire Chief Jack W. Kidder said the babysitter, a 17-year-old youth, safely escorted the children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Freeze away from the couple's home at 11 Nova Lane after smelling smoke. The children are ages 1, 3 and 6.

Kidder said a lighted cigarette apparently started the fire in a dressing room off the master bedroom. He said Mrs. Freeze had left the house about 4:15 p.m. and the fire was reported at 5:03 p.m. by Mrs. Ray Johnson of 15 Nova Lane, next door.

The babysitter, identified as Bob Bobo, was in the kitchen when he smelled smoke. He took the 1-year-old child out. The other children were playing outside.

Cleveland's Police Pay Last Respects

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The curfew imposed on Cleveland's East Side Negro area the last two nights was lifted for tonight, 1,200 National Guard troops left the city, and police returned to regular duty hours.

Mayor Carl B. Stokes announced the easing of the emergency security measures this morning following a night of quiet in the area where 10 shooting deaths Tuesday night were followed by looting and arson on the next two nights.

About 1,500 National Guard troops remain on duty for tonight.

About 400 policemen marched from the mall at the center of the city to St. John Cathedral where a requiem mass was held today for three policemen slain by sniper bullets.

Seven out-of-state police delegations were in the solemn pa-

Syrian Chief Hits Anglo-U.S. 'Plot'

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Premier Youssef Zayyen accused U.S. and British secret services today of plotting to stage a coup d'etat in Syria.

Runaway Syrian politicians in neighboring Lebanon, he charged, are being recruited and financed by the two Western intelligence services to spearhead the alleged plot.

Zayyen added, however, that the Syrian army and people are "alert and poised to crush all plots against the Socialist revolution in our country."

"Those who dream in Beirut (the Lebanese capital) that they could hire a bunch of agents to restart the game of military coup d'etat in Syria are deceiving only themselves," said Zayyen in a speech inaugurating Syria's newly built oil harbor at Tartus on the Mediterranean.

Algiers Frees Some Of Jet Passengers

ALGIERS (AP) — Algeria Saturday freed 10 women and children who were aboard the El Al airliner hijacked in flight last Tuesday and forced to land in Algiers.

Two police sedans drove the captives to Dar el Beida Airport and within the hour for Geneva.

Twenty non-Israeli passengers were released immediately after the hijacking, carried out by three members of an Arab terrorist organization.

The 10 included three El Al stewardesses, four woman passengers and three children.

The seven male crew members of the flight and five other Israeli men passengers on the hijacked flight were reported still being held.

Stolen Car Is Deadly For Youth

The California Highway Patrol said the man, Jeffrey D. Putt, crashed the auto into a rock embankment at high speed north of the Waldo Tunnel on Highway 101.

Officers said Putt was crushed against the steering wheel. The impact turned the auto's front axle perpendicular to the fender.

Officers estimated Putt was traveling at more than 70 miles per hour when he lost control of the southbound vehicle at 3:45 a.m. Officers measured 125-foot skid marks.

The auto, a 1954 Chevrolet, had no registration in it. A check with the state Division of Motor Vehicles revealed that the car had been stolen a few hours before in Santa Rosa.

Asst. County Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine said that Putt had left active duty with the Navy July 11 and was placed on reserve status. His family home was in Dillsburg, Pa., but he had been living in Santa Rosa.

Autopsy was to be performed today at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

Putt becomes the 19th traffic fatality in Marin County this year, one less than at the same time in 1967.

Rioting Racks Mexico City; Nine Hurt

Hospital reports placed the number of injured at nine, including students, two riot policemen and a woman who was reportedly thrown in front of a passing car by a mob of students.

The riot grew out of a week-long series of demonstrations by students against what they charged was police brutality. Student leaders said the city's tough "grenadier" riot police beat up several students while breaking up a fight between two student groups earlier in the week.

Hit-Run Raid On U.S. Base In Thailand

Attempt To Cripple Viet Air Power Seen

COMBINED AP & UPI

UDORN AIR BASE, Thailand (AP) — Thai intelligence officers questioned today a guerrilla captured in last night's raid on this big Thai-American base near the Mekong River.

At the same time, full battle gear was being issued for the first time to the 6,000 American airmen at the base.

Two of an estimated 20 terrorists were killed in a one-hour battle as they fought their way on the runway hurling satchel charges of high explosives at parked planes.

The captured terrorist's nationality was not known but informed sources said he was a Thai or Vietnamese Thai.

Four Americans were wounded and one Thai killed in the raid, the first ever against an American base in Thailand.

One of the Americans, critically wounded, was evacuated by air to Clark Field Hospital in the Philippines this morning.

The first guerilla attack on a U.S. base in Thailand was aimed at crippling American air raids into North Vietnam, military sources said today.

They said the band of guerrillas that penetrated this northeastern Thai base and opened fire Friday night were intent on destroying U.S. warplanes that bomb the North.

The Americans wounded in the raid were all inside a C141 jet transport heavily damaged by fire in the assault.

Another plane, an RF4D reconnaissance jet, was lightly damaged. A power plant nearby took several hits.

U.S. officers declined to call the raiders Communists, although they carried Red Chinese-made AK47 rifles, the kind used by Communist soldiers in Vietnam.

The installation is joint headquarters for the U.S. 7th and 13th Air Forces and is a nerve-center for rescue operations for downed pilots in North Vietnam.

Reds Down Two More U.S. Planes

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON — Two more American planes have been lost in the air war over North Vietnam, raising to 872 the total of U.S. aircraft lost in combat north of the demilitarized zone in the war.

In a delayed report, U.S. spokesmen said a Navy F4 Phantom and a Marine A6 Intruder were downed by enemy ground fire in North Vietnam's panhandle Thursday. Three of the four crew members are listed as missing, and a fourth was rescued after surviving 20 hours in enemy territory.

Maj. Curtis Lawson, 37, of Sharon, Pa., the Intruder pilot, parachuted into a North Vietnamese antiaircraft battery. He hid in a river and directed air strikes against the enemy guns until they were silenced and a rescue helicopter was able to reach him.

U.S. B52 bombers flew seven missions yesterday and today, hitting enemy supply routes and troop concentrations near the Cambodian border north of Saigon and the northernmost 1st Corps area.

Novato Urged To Woo Plants With Leases

The City of Merced purchased land around its airport several years ago, then found it was surplus and leased it to industries for $1 per acre per year for 50 years.

E. B. Cooper, manager of the Merced Chamber of Commerce, described the plan to the Novato Chamber of Commerce board Thursday and urged Novato to do the same thing to attract industry to the area. He recommended most types of industry for the area.

Cooper said Marin County or the City of Novato could purchase land for one purpose and if it found it did not need it for that, lease it for another use.

"We haven't been challenged by a taxpayer's suit yet," he said when questioned about the legality of such a move.

He said he did not know how much Merced paid for its industrial land, but noted 11 industries employing more than 1,000 people had been added in the last three years. Payrolls and sales tax generated by the industries compensate the city for its loss in revenue on the land lease, he said.

He urged the Novato chamber to work closely with the city government to do things the city could not do for itself. The Merced chamber has an annual budget of $66,000, with half coming from the city, he said. Of that, $25,000 is for industrial promotion.

"I've driven around your city and I think your streets are terrible," Cooper flatly told chamber members. He said the Merced chamber is spearheading a $3 million street bond issue for its city.

He also noted that Novato is handicapped in attracting industry and business because of numerous utility agencies. "Industries and businesses like to deal with as few agencies as

ANNIVERSARY SPEECH — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro is joined on the stand by delegations from North Vietnam, North Korea and Viet Cong forces. He spoke yesterday in Santa Clara, Cuba, to mark the 15th anniversary of his revolutionary movement. (AP Wirephoto)

All's Not Rosy In Cuba, Castro Says

SANTA CLARA, Cuba (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro, marking the 15th anniversary celebration of the revolutionary movement, admitted that his country is suffering from food and consumer shortages.

"People need things," the bearded leader said in a speech that was unusually short—less than two hours.

"But the revolution cannot give what it does not have. And it must distribute what it has in the most fair way," he told a mass rally in the main square of this gaily decorated capital of Las Villas Province.

The speech, given under a blazing sun, was marked by its lack of reference to communism and anticommunism in other countries.

Castro discussed Cuba's internal problems and made his usual call for more work and dedication to communism.

The government has begun rationing of milk products and some other items.

In an apparent economy move, Castro announced that future mass celebrations would be limited to "one or two a year" and military parades to one every five years or so.

The city, which lies some 240 miles east of Havana, was brightly draped with flags and thousands of banners marked with the number 26.

There was street dancing, loud music and plenty of beer and rum.

The annual 26th of July celebration marks the day in 1953 when Castro and a group of rebels began the revolution with an attack against army barracks in Santiago.

The attack failed and Castro was jailed for two years. In January 1959 he finally overthrew the regime of President Fulgencio Batista.

Police Grab Anti-Castro Protesters

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifteen members of an anti-Castro Cuban exile group have been arrested on disorderly conduct charges after they tried to throw eggs at the Cuban mission to the United Nations.

Gerardo Sanchez, one of the group, told newsmen later the demonstration last night was an "attack" to protest the 15th anniversary of Fidel Castro's 26th of July movement.

Those arrested identified themselves as members of the Cuban National Movement but replied "no comment" when asked if the group had been involved in any of the 12 bombing incidents in the metropolitan area since April 22.

The latest blast occurred early yesterday at the offices of the Evergreen Review. The building was evacuated in the afternoon after an anonymous caller threatened that the offices would be bombed again.

Police sources said four other bomb scares in a six-hour period during the day were apparently inspired by anti-Castro Cuban elements in the city.

Reservists Challenge Duty Call

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The call to active duty for 24 months has been challenged in U.S. District Court by 113 Army Reservists from Cleveland, Ohio.

The soldiers, all members of the 1002nd Combat Support Group at Ft. George G. Meade, Md., asked Friday for a three-judge panel to hear their charges that the call-up on May 13 has "no rational basis."

They argue that Congress has not declared war in Vietnam and the President has not declared a state of national emergency.

The suit claims violation of the right of equal protection under the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

The reservists say their activation has caused hardship in their homes, their jobs and their health and well-being.

The soldiers have asked for release from Meade under a habeas corpus order, a declaratory judgment stating their constitutional rights, and a court order for government officials to perform their lawful duty.

They have also asked for an immediate temporary injunction to keep the case from being removed from the jurisdiction of the federal court in Baltimore.

No Bulletproof Vest Seen For James Earl Ray Trial

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Authorities say James Earl Ray will probably not have to wear a bulletproof vest when he stands trial in the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"We do not anticipate any extra type of paraphernalia in the courtroom," Sheriff William N. Morris Jr. said yesterday. "Our security will be of a perimeter type."

Morris, meeting with newsmen for the first full-fledged session since Ray was returned July 19 from England, indicated that getting into the courtroom when Ray is on trial will be most difficult.

Reporters covering the trial will be given special identification cards bearing their photographs and fingerprints. But they and other spectators will have to be searched and be video taped before being admitted.

Morris said Shelby County already has spent about $6,600 to provide special security for Ray and another $50,000 worth of security work is going on at the jail—not directly connected with Ray's safety.

FOOD LOCKED UP

Costs directly attributable to keeping Ray safe range from $3,000 for a closed-circuit television surveillance system to $35 for a locked, stainless steel box in which his food is delivered to his cell.

The picture Morris painted of Ray, probably the most closely protected prisoner in Tennessee history, was of a man who is eating and sleeping well and getting his exercise.

"He does pushups and walks," Morris said. "He reads, plays gin rummy with his guards. He talks with his guards, but he doesn't discuss the case with anyone but his attorney."

And Ray's attorney, Arthur Hanes of Brimingham, Ala., agreed his client is fine. After spending two hours and 45 minutes with Ray Friday, Hanes said he was "in a good mood" and was "very optimistic. He had very little to complain about."

Morris said Ray had been examined by a physician "and the report would indicate he is in good condition." He said Ray eats the same jail food as the other prisoners "and on almost any given occasion he cleans his tray."

TWO VISITORS

Only Hanes and Hanes' son, Arthur Jr., have visited Ray in his cell, Morris said. He said Ray and his attorneys would draw up a proposed list of visitors which the sheriff's department then would approve. Any visits will be in the cellblock where Ray is kept since Ray is not expected to leave there until his trial.

Ray has received some mail at the jail and a few of the letters contained money, Morris said. "There was one check for $100," he said, but added that the total received was "much less than $1,000."

None of the mail was threatening, Morris said, and there have been no threatening telephone calls to the sheriff's office or the jail. "We have received no threats on anybody's life," he said.

Persons in India speak more than 800 languages and dialects, ranging from Hindi, spoken by about half the population, to Assamese tongues used by merely a handful.

State Facing Epidemic Of Hepatitis

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California drug users have set off an epidemic of serum hepatitis by sharing their contaminated hypodermic needles, a public health researcher said yesterday.

James Chin, of the state virus laboratory, said California's predicted 2,000 serum hepatitis cases this year will be more than half the number for the entire United States.

"This can almost be called a California disease," he commented.

DRUGS BLAMED

Chin said that illicit use of drugs will account for up to 70 per cent of the serum hepatitis cases in the state in 1968. Blood transfusions from donors infected with the disease will be responsible for most of the remainder.

He said that one way of combatting the disease would be to abandon the use of city and county jail inmates as blood donors. Chin said studies show that prisoners have a higher incidence of hepatitis in the blood than other persons.

Chin blamed the growth of the disease on the expansion of drug use in California. He said the epidemic does not appear to be shared by the nation as a whole.

OTHER VARIETY

Besides serum hepatitis, California will have as many as 12,000 cases of infectious hepatitis this year, Chin said. The infectious variety usually is acquired by eating food contaminated with the hepatitis virus.

Both varieties affect the liver and are sometimes accompanied by jaundice, or yellowing of the skin.

Chin said cases reported to the state Department of Public Health will be only a fraction of the true number.

Bay Water Poisoning Denounced

OAKLAND (AP)— Substances poisonous to water life are being dumped into large areas of San Francisco Bay at levels which "exceed prudent limits," a polution control expert said yesterday.

William S. Hyde, assistant project director of the Bay-Delta Water Quality Control Program, said those substances are the most difficult to remove by contemporary sewage treatment processes.

He said subtle changes in water life already have been created by such discharges south of the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge and into the northern estuary east of the Carquinez Bridge.

Hyde said those substances in municipal and industial wastes — toxicants and biostimulants— are "the most critical yardsticks for measuring undesirable effects so far developed" in the $2.5 million study nearing completion of a 12-county pollution control plan.

His remarks were in a statement to a joint meeting of the Bay Counties Water Problems Committee and the Bay Area League of Industrial Associations.

Faw Elected Head Of Hub Homes

David Few has been elected president of the San Anselmo Homes Association, replacing Don Mansell, who has moved to Venezuela on business.

Other new officers elected were Paul N. Brand, vice president; Sarah Nome, recording secretary; Patricia Stamper, corresponding secretary, and Bruce Belknap, treasurer.

Directors at large will be Richard C. Berger, Ernest Braun, William L. Kapranos and Thomas J. Peacock.

The association also made plans Thursday to sponsor a public tour of the new Robson-Harrington Park, including the house of the former estate, on Sept. 15. Time of the tour was not decided.

Youth Sent To Jail For Selling Drug

Montey Leon Miller, 18, was given a suspended state prison term, then ordered to serve seven months in County Jail in Marin Superior Court yesterday for selling methedrine.

Judge Harold J. Haley also placed him on two years probation. Miller, of San Rafael, had pleaded guilty March 25 to selling $20 worth of methedrine to an agent of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau.

Third Bear Killed

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI) — An Air Force major told a hearing at Yellowstone National Park Friday that he killed an eight-foot grizzly bear after it threatened his family campsite.

Maj. Jack Newell, Belleville, Ill., told a U.S. Commissioner the incident occurred July 16. He said he emptied his .357 Magnum pistol at the charging grizzly before it finally retreated into the woods and fell.

It marked the third reported shooting of a bear in or near the park after attacks on people in recent days.

NEW YORK (AP) — British archaeologist Louis S. B. Leakey says tools found at digs in California's Calico Mountains prove man has lived on this continent at least 40,000 years.

Leakey discussed his discovery of what he says are man-made tools going back at least 40,000 and possibly 100,000 years.

On the NBC-TV show, "Today," he said he plans to call a conference or symposium in December and invite doubting colleagues to investigate the site near Barstow.

Biafra Appeals

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Biafra appealed to the world today for a massive airlift of food and accused Nigeria of sabotaging aid to its starving people.

The secessionist state said it would not object to Nigerian observers inspecting air cargoes of relief supplies, according to a statement broadcast by Biafra radio.

Federal and Biafran representatives negotiated without success in Niamey, capital of Niger this week on a proposal to open a corridor south of Enugu for passage of food supplies into territory still held by the rebel Biafrans.

Negotiations on relief supplies and other problems arising from the war will be taken up at peace talks scheduled to open Aug. 5 in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

LBJ Wins Passage For Housing Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is expected to sign shortly a $5.4-billion housing bill that opens new vistas of federal aid to low income families and takes the first step in his 10-year goal to erase city slums.

The measure, a signal victory for Johnson after a year-long see-saw battle with Congress, passed the House yesterday 226 to 135 and was sent to the White House.

The bill is an authorization — actual appropriations for the programs are expected to fall below the $5.4 billion.

Key feature of the compromise bill authorizes $300 million to help 500,000 families in the $3,000-$6,000 income range buy homes.

The government would pick up part of the interest cost over one per cent and in extreme cases all interest above one per cent.

To be eligible, families in general would have to have an income not more than 35 per cent greater than the level established in their own communities for admission to public housing.

They would have to devote 20 per cent of their income to housing with the subsidy based on the difference between that amount and the actual payments.

The bill also authorizes $1 billion for the model cities program of urban renewal, $400 millionf or stepped-up construction of public housing, government help for establishing new towns, government backing for flood and riot control insurance and new lending authority for savings and loan associations.

Most of the measure's projects would be for three years and administration officials have said that the bill makes possible the first third of Johnson's 10-year housing program.

Guevara Diary Has Bolivia In An Uproar

Some Bolivians believe it could result in the downfall of Barrientos.

"The irony of the diary is that Che is hurting Barrientos more dead than when he roamed the jungles with his guerrillas," said one local commentator.

Bolivian politicians and journalists speculated that Barrientos might lose the all-important support of army general Alfredo Ovando and be replaced by a military dictatorship.

Foreign observers said the political acumen that has brought Barrientos through past crises would see him through this one.

Barrientos said rumors of a coup were guerrilla tactics from a small minority.

MILITARY SILENT

The military has been silent publicly, but meeting in private.

The crisis involving a mass cabinet resignation, a bloody demonstration and Barrientos' loss of support from his vice president has this background:

When Cuba first published the diary of Guevara's hardships leading a ragtag guerrilla band in eastern Bolivia, most people here believed the army was responsible for the document reaching Cuba.

The army would not tolerate this kind of publicity, especially after the government spent $3 million tracking down Guevara and his band. Besides, the army had hopes of selling the diary to Western publishers.

TEXAS VISIT

Barrientos, meanwhile, visited President Johnson in Texas, and picked up a promise of $12 million in budget backing.

His position seemed secure as a president could hope for in this frequently violent land with the lowest per capita income in Latin America.

Arguedas fled to neighboring Chile and announced he was a "Marxist-humanist" admirer of both Guevara and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. He added that he sent the diary directly to Castro "with a personal" note" by airmail.

BOLIVIANS IRATE

The leaking of the diary fell squarely on Barrientos and his administration. That the president harbored an admirer of Castro, his worst foreign enemy, in his Cabinet was too much for many Bolivians to stomach.

Opposition parties—from the once-Fascist Falange party to exiled President Juan Lechin's Leftist Revolutionary party—were quick to capitalize on Barrientos' embarrassing situation.

They organized an anti-Barrientos demonstration last Saturday. One person was killed and several opposition legislators were arrested despite their claim to immunity.

Interests Widen For 'Youth Power'

More than 30 Marin County high school and college students met today at the Civic Center to plan activities of a new organization, "Youth Power," which would include membership on advisory county commissions.

After discussing the commissions — parks and recreation, human rights, aviation, juvenile delinquency and juvenile justice — the group found itself toying with various activities disassociated from county government.

Peter Harrington, member of the Marin County Peace and Freedom Party, demanded the formation of committees to discover "who are the people behind (the supervisors)," whom he accused of denying food to hungry children in Marin County and to urge draft counseling in Marin high schools; student rights and a noncredit experimental college at the College of Marin.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr told the meeting he supported voting membership of a representative of the county youth on the juvenile delinquency prevention commission.

"I have my doubts on the other commission," he said. "It may seem important to you now to have a vote, but it may not be so important. The important thing is to have younger viewpoints represented."

Pierre Joske, director of the county department of parks and recreation, said "I would be very interested in knowing what the youth of this county desires in the way of parks and recreational facilities."

Cosmetics Firm Faces U.S. Lawsuit

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Department of Labor has filed a complaint in U.S. District Court against Holiday Magic, Inc. of San Rafael for alleged violations of the federal wage-hour law.

The suit comes about six weeks after 29 emplyees of the cosmetics firm were reportedly discharged in a general cutback to improve efficiency and reduce unnecessary expense.

The suit charged the company with violations of the overtime, shipping and recordkeeping provisions of the law.

When the employees from "top to bottom" were reportedly let go last month, Harold Lipska, executive vice president, said the company was engaged in upgrading its data processing system and installing new equipment.

The court was asked to restrain the firm from any future violations of the law and to award back wages found due employees of the firm.

The suit was filed following investigation by the Labor Department's Wage-Hour Division under the direction of Charles D. Haas, field office supervisor at San Francisco.

The San Rafael office of the firm, owned by William Penn Patrick of Tiburon, is engaged chiefly in processing of orders.

The budget which the commission has submitted for the council's consideration is $236,500. It includes a $175,000 expenditure for a new community recreation building at Albert Park.

Other items include $50,000 for development of a park yet to be acquired, adjacent to Don Timoteo School in Terra Linda, and $8,000 for lighting improvement of the baseball field and tennis courts at Albert Park.

More than 80 thousand units administer federal, state and local governments in the United States.

Three Sought In Beating, $2 Robbery

Sheriff's officers today were seeking three young men who robbed and kicked a 19-year-old Corte Madera resident Thursday night.

David W. Reichard, 326 Corte Madera Avenue, told deputies he and two companions, Kenneth Raymond Ashley, 19, of 348 Bretano Way, Greenbrae, and Ginger Hazel Solmonson, 17, of 267 Locust Avenue, San Rafael, were awaiting a ride near the Marin City overpass on Highway 101 about 10:55 p.m.

A nearby hitchhiker asked Reichard if he had any money, according to the report, then struck Reichard, knocking him down.

Deputies said two companions of the hitchhiker then appeared from nearby bushes, and Reichard was robbed of $2 and kicked in the head. A dime also was taken from Solmonson, according to the report.

The trio, described as Negro and of ages from about 16 to 20, ran when a cruising Sausalito police car approached, officers said. Reichard did not require treatment.

Rulings Awaited On Robberies, Murder Trial

Ruling on motions by murder suspect John Arceo, 31, to dismiss two robbery counts was scheduled yesterday in Marin Superior Court for 2 p.m. Monday.

Judge Harold J. Haley also is expected to schedule a trial on the murder charge at that time. Arceo, of San Rafael, is accused of the Dec. 6 murder of Wesley L. Marshall, 68, of San Rafael, and with robbing Julian's Shell service station in Strawberry on Nov. 27 and Don's Market in Fairfax on Nov. 30.

He has asked dismissal of the robbery counts on grounds that the grand jury indictment doesn't show sufficient cause for filing of the charges. Setting of a trial date for a co-defendant in the murder, Dennis C. Novotny of San Rafael, is also scheduled Monday.

An appeal to the District Court of Appeals in San Francisoc by Novatny on a denial to move his trial from Marin County has been refused.

Outside Judge Hears Larkspur Suit On Store

Suit by the City of Larkspur to stop the use of an addition to the Dollars 'n' Sense building for retail sales was heard in Marin Superior Court yesterday.

Visiting Judge Ralph McGee of Amador County scheduled filing of final briefs for Sept. 10. The case will then be taken under study.

The suit seeks an injunction to require Russell and Helen Merret, owners of the shop in the Murray Park Shopping Center, to put a 1,600-square-foot addition to the building at Magnolia Avenue to use for storage, the purpose for which a city permit was granted a year ago.

Swimming Set For Handicapped

A swim program for neurologically handicapped children will be inaugurated Monday under the sponsorship of the Marin Chapter of the California Association for Neurologically Handicapped Children.

Mrs. Charlotte Dyslin, director, said that techniques similar to those used to teach cerebral palsied children to swim will be used. The classes will be held weekdays at 10:30 a.m. for two weeks in a pool at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Caldwell, 72 de La Guerra Road, Terra Linda.

Parents interested in enrolling their children may call Mrs. Dyslin, at 348 Orange Blossom Lane, Terra Linda. There is a $25 fee for the course which will be used to pay instructors, one for each child.

Herrera Describes Fatal Struggle With Washburn

Clenching his fist and gesturing for emphasis, Joaquin Antonio Herrera yesterday described a death struggle with Ronald Lee Washburn in a weed-strewn vacant lot Jan. 9.

Herrera, a miniscule El Salvador native, said he had "arrested" Washburn at gunpoint to take him to police with a confession of misdeeds with Herrera's wife, but said Washburn attacked him and wrestled for the pistol.

Herrera is on trial in Marin Superior Court for Washburn's murder.

He told the jury he remembered the gun going off in the struggle and "I remember only the strike . . . right there," pointing to the center of his chest. He said he did not remember anything after that and could not believe he fired the three other shots into Washburn's head.

"I have the impression two other people were in that place. . . . I cannot think of it as reality," he said.

Herrera, the first witness in his own defense, contradicted major points of testimony given by prosecution witnesses.

He insisted that his father-in-law, Rev. Frederick A. Bloomer, was the one bent on vengeance against Washburn, not himself, and that Bloomer threatened to annul his marriage to Kathy Herrera if he did not help get Washburn.

"I was going to arrest Washburn," Herrera said of the killing. "He resisted arrest . . . and in the line of duty . . . it seemed that I was the one who shot him."

He said he had a tape recording in which Washburn had admitted over the telephone of having forced Kathy into sexual activity in 1966.

He also testified that Mrs. Bloomer told her daughter she would "get rid of me one way or another even if she had to kill me" after the couple was married.

As for testimony by Frederick A. Bloomer Jr., who said Herrera had asked him to help "take care" of Washburn, Herrera said he did not remember ever talking to young Bloomer, and was surprised to learn in court that he was his brother-in-law.

Herrera told at length of his stay in Seattle with Kathy before they were married. He said they lived together as brother and sister, and he treated her for and cured her of gonorrhea.

In Seattle, he said, she told him of being forced into sexual acts by Washburn and three other young men. After learning that, Herrera said, he heard "the voice of justice . . . printed on my mind" that he had to bring the men to justice.

He had taken Kathy to Seattle, he said, because she was miserable in San Rafael and threatened suicide if he left her. Her parents were not taking proper care of her, he said, and it became his moral duty to care for her.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson ordered the trial to resume at 10 a.m. Tuesday for its seventh day.

He said industry and business are most attracted to towns with junior or four-year colleges and endorsed the plan of the Novato chamber education committee to work toward development of a north Marin campus of the College of Marin.

Cooper was in Novato Thursday and yesterday to work with the chamber of commerce on its programs for community development.

Fighting from behind the tanks, the Marines killed 40 Communists before the battle broke off near An Hoa, 40 miles south of the U.S. war bastion at Da Nang, the spokesman said.

Twenty-five Communist rocket and mortar rounds slammed into the airfield at Da Nang early today, causing over-all light damage and casualties, U.S. officials said. One Marine A6 Intruder, laden with 22 500-pound bombs for a strike into North Vietnam, was destroyed in a blast heard for miles.

Hunt Boasts Of Defeating Kuchel

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Oil millionaire H. L. Hunt says he was "instrumental" in the defeat of Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., by Max Rafferty in the California primary.

Hunt, long a champion of politically conservative causes, made the statement yesterday as he warned he will try "by influencing votes" to block the bid of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., for renomination.

"I think he and Kuchel are the two worst men in the Senate. I was instrumental in Max Rafferty's defeat of Kuchel," he said.

Public Records Bill Gets Ahead

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill defining public records and directing that they be open to public inspection has been given a unanimous "do pass" recommendation by the Senate Finance Committee and sent to the upper house floor.

The bill (AB 1381) was authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Some exceptions would be allowed by the bill, such as personnel and medical files or records of investigations.

Bagley has said the bill will clarify the "maze" of present law and "make certain that all public officials have a basis for decisions on what is a public record and what is not."

The bill passed the Assembly July 10.

rade led by mounted and motorcycle squads.

Represented in the march were policemen from Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Birmingham, Ala., Gary, Ind., Detroit and the Pennsylvania State Police. From within Ohio came marchers from departments in the Cleveland suburbs and Cincinnati, Akron, Columbus and the Ohio Highway Patrol.

City Councilmen were in the march, and Mayor Stokes and his cabinet sat together at the front of the church for the mass celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Quinn, vice chancellor of the diocese.

The bodies of the slain policemen were not in the cathedral but in funeral homes in their neighborhoods. The three honored were Lt. Leroy Jones, 47, and Patrolmen Willard Wolff, 30, and Louis Golonka, 37.

"We are grateful for their dedication to God and their fellowmen," the Msgr. Quinn said to his largely uniformed audience.

"They are heroes, just ordinary guys who pledged their lives and fortunes and honor to protect human rights, human dignity and to secure law and order that are the true measure of human freedom."

As the city quieted to near normal, Fred Ahmed Evans, 37, the man who boasted he planned the gunfight that took the policemen's lives was charged with their murders.

A Black Nationalist associate of Evans, Harllel Jones, 29, was arrested early today for curfew violation. Jones, a former city employee, was questioned in connection with carrying a concealed weapon.

Meanwhile, some Negro leaders complained neither they nor the mayor had been given enough credit for averting a racial bloodbath through black civilian patrols that operated Wednesday night with National Guardsmen and white police withdrawn.

POSTAL

tailing Saturday services across the country.

Late yesterday, however, the Senate voted to exclude the Post Office Department from a government-wide personnel cutback and the department said it would wait another week to give the House a chance to act.

The cutback had required all Federal agencies to fill only three of four vacancies until overall government employment was reduced to the July 1, 1966, level.

Postmaster General Marvin Watson said this would have meant a loss of 83,238 postal employees. San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy recently reported the cutback would begin to affect his office sometime after school begins in September.

Watson, however, said the Saturday curtailment will go into effect next week unless the House acts before then. Congress plans to adjourn Friday for the month of August due to the upcoming political conventions.

Changes Affect Vets' Pensions

Important changes have been made that affect pension benefits of certain veterans and their dependents, Marin County veterans service officer James V. Burdick announced today.

Affected by the change are those who receive annuities from the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C., in addition to Veterans Administration pensions which were obtained under the old law prior to July 1, 1960.

The Civil Service Commission recently increased its annuity benefits, which will have an effect on veterans or dependents who have waived a portion of their annuity in order to meet Veterans Administration pension income limitations.

Burdick urged all veterans or dependents in this category to notify his office without delay. The Veterans Service Office is located in Room 422 at the Civic Center.

Novatans Approve Coffee Shop Plan

Plans for a Hyatt Coffee Shop off Highway 101, south of Lamont Avenue, were approved yesterday by the Novato Plan Review Committee.

A free-standing, illuminated sign, measuring 84 square feet, also was approved for the restaurant, according to secretary Juanita Gibson.

The committee also approved the second phase of 64 units for the apartment development on Los Robles Road.

OBITUARIES

Educator Arthur G. Coons Dies

NEWPORT BEACH (AP) — Arthur Gardiner Coons, the Occidental College graduate who led his alma mater to national recognition and helped map the course of higher education in California, is dead at 68.

Dr. Coons died of a heart attack yesterday at his Newport-Lido Isle home.

Funeral services are pending.

Coons was graduated from Occidental in 1920 and returned to teach in 1927 after earning his doctorate in economics at the University of Pennsylvania. In 1946 he was named president of the school, a post he held until his retirement in 1965.

In 1959, Coons was named to head a survey team to study the state's burgeoning college system. The team's Master Plan for Higher Education in California, which provided for expansion and direction of state's schools, was the key to building California's acclaimed educational system.

Coons served as the first president of the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education, created after the master plan was drafted in 1960. He led the fight against the plan's opponents, who objected to the separation of roles of the state colleges and the university.

Dr. Coons is survived by his widow, Mary; a sister, Mrs. Ralph Seward of Laguna Hills; a brother, Rex, of Anaheim; a son, Arthur Jr. of Pasadena and two grandchildren.

Harbor Carriers Chief Counters Permit Charge

Harbor Carriers President Albert Elledge yesterday contradicted a statement by a Tiburon Councilman that his company is not certificated for operations between Tiburon and Angel Island.

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood said Harbor Carriers is running a ferry service between Tiburon and Angel Island without a permit either from the city or the state Public Utilities Commission. She said the company is calling the runs a charter service but it is a ferry service.

Elledge said, "We have prescriptive rights, rights acquired before the laws regulating such a service went into effect, to operate on-call service anywhere on the bay. These rights were confirmed by the PUC in a decision handed down in 1935."

He said on call service was essentially charter service.

The city staff is investigating whether Harbor Carriers is violating city or PUC rules.

Collision Hurts Novato Cyclist

A 14-year-old Novato boy suffered cuts and scrapes yesterday when his bicycle swerved into the path of a passing automobile on Hicks Valley Road near Novato, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The boy, James P. McCarthy of 1510 Buchanan Street, was treated at Novato General Hospital after colliding with an auto driven by Lydia K. Romero, 20, of San Mateo.

Officers reported that Miss Romero and McCarthy were both westbound when she sounded her horn to alert him that she was about to pass on his left. She attempted to do so, but he moved into the left lane and they collided, officers said. Miss Romero transported him to the hospital.

Bridge Repair Job Slows Commuters

Thousands of San Francisco-bound commuters were slowed to a crawl across the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday morning when repair work in a northbound lane by the highway maintenance department of the State Division of Highways required the closing of a southbound lane and three toll gates.

The work was done in the far right northbound lane. Two adjacent lanes were left for northbound traffic and this left but three for southbound rush-hour traffic instead of the normal four. The tie-up lasted 50 minutes, from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Commuters reported that up to 20 minutes was needed to cross the bridge during this period.

Teen-Agers To Show Self-Designed Styles

"Fall Futures" will be the theme of the second birthday fashion show to be staged Wednesday by Mill Valley's Valerie-Ann shop owned and operated by Mill Valley teen-agers, which features clothes designed and created by teen-agers for teen-agers.

The parade of fashions to be held at Maple Lawn, San Rafael, at 3 p.m. will present some 85 creations, among them design winners in the recent Valerie-Ann annual competition. Names of the winners will be announced and awards, consisting of fabrics, presented.

Jane Brenlin is producer for the show.

Among the "as-sew-ciates" whose clothes will be seen in the show are Jane Brenlin and Sue Torrey of Greenbrae; Vickie Gross (one of shop co-owners) and Cindy Norall of Mill Valley; Elaine Romanelli, Karen Shatkin, Becky Shepherd, Nancy Tabor, Midge Upshaw, Sue Upshaw and Jane Van Dyke of San Rafael; Colleen Fitzhenry and Robin Lachtman of Kentfield; Betty Henry of San Rafael; Peggy Johnson and Patti Mengel of Larkspur; Claudia Misner and Karen Van Kreidt of San Anselmo; Kathy Perry of Tiburon, Kay Simon of Corte Madera and Sandy Walker of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Also represented will be two out-of-Marin members, Linda Greer of Manteca, and one boy, John Lang of Fremont, who is studying costume design and creation and joined the group on the recommendation of his high school teacher.

Judges were Mrs. C. West Churchman, Mill Valley artist with special knowledge of design; Steve Chandler, fabrics specialist, and Maybelle Speckmann of the I-J Women's Section.

WINNER OF the Girl Friday Club scholarship is Julie Tyra, who was graduated last month from Novato High School. She plans to use the $100 award when she attends College of Marin this fall. She will go on to earn a degree in business at San Francisco State College. T/Sgt. and Mrs. George Terrell Tyra are parents of the winner.

The scholarship is given to a high school senior interested in business education and who is the dependent of an active or retired military member or of a civilian employee at Hamilton Air Force Base.

ATTENDING THE Baptist Youth Award Conference in Berne, Switzerland, this week is Martha Skelton of Novato. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Roger Skelton, she is on a three weeks tour of Europe.

A PUBLIC "Roaring 20's" box social supper will be held in the Odd Fellows Temple in Mill Valley Wednesday starting at 6 p.m.

It is sponsored by Blythedale Rebekah Lodge No. 305 and Mount Tamalpais Lodge No. 399, IOOF. Costumes are optional.

Ladies are to bring a box lunch for two, decorated if possible. There will be games and other entertainment and prizes for the best decorated box, costumes and other things.

Barney Foster is chairman and Mrs. L. A. Post, co-chairman.

MARIN USO Mobile Unit will meet Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., in room 413 at the Civic Center. Miss Beverly Fox of San Francisco will conduct the meeting for junior hostesses and will be assisted by Lillian Noland.

THE SOCIALITE Club of Ruth Chapter 5, Order of Eastern Star, will have its annual public luncheon tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Manzanita Center in Marin City. Mrs. Ethram Freeman, worthy matron, and Cleo Pace, worthy patron, are chairmen. Mrs. Essie Hardy is reservations chairman.

Long Life Predicted

By JOAN DEPPA

PARIS (UPI)—Pierre Cardin insured a long and healthy life for the miniskirt today by making 90 per cent of his collection thigh-high and giving it a novel three-dimensional twist.

The collection was the prettiest and curviest seen yet in Paris, beginning with a new fabric called "Cardine" which allows raised designs to be moulded into the fabric.

But that was just the beginning for the man who in the past had developed more of a reputation for hiding feminine curves than flattering them.

HE BEGAN by adopting two main dress lengths and sticking to them: one at only about three inches below the bottom and the other varying from midthigh to slightly below.

Only for evening did he experiment with assymetrical hemlines and then very successfully, often by using a cape effect dropping in a long point over one shoulder towards the back.

The long black or brown boots were worn almost continually for daytime. Sometimes they were only knee high and worn with black stockings. It was only with more dressed up outfits that he substituted black stockings and pretty high-heeled black pumps.

FOR EVENING he opted for a more bare-legged look, showing shimmering hose that blended with his beautifully colored gowns.

But long straight tunics that covered all but about an inch of the miniskirt beneath were important and so were cape dresses and coats that floated free except for being caught at the waist with a belt that tied some of it into the waist and let the rest fly free.

Trip To Poland Brings Many Surprises To Novato Woman

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Leaving her native Poland this month was under extremely different circumstances for Mrs. Alex Czubak of Novato than when she was forced to go some 27 years ago.

Then Sofia Czubak was among those taken away by train under guard to a German labor camp. This time she and her husband and 10 year old daughter, Eva, made a happy five week visit to Poland by jet. It was Alex's first trip back in 30 years and little Eva's first visit. They stayed with relatives during their vacation behind the Iron Curtain.

Sofia related that many changes have occurred in her native country since she lived there, with people having nicer homes and modern conveniences.

However, of the 50 relatives they have there, only two owned cars.

SHE RAVED ABOUT the food, and told of a country woman who goes door to door every other day to sell homemade butter and fresh rolls. Women still spend hours in the kitchen preparing food, she said.

Very small businesses are allowed to operate privately but all other businesses are government owned. The houses, however, are not owned by the government, she said.

Everyone goes to church on Sunday in the Iron Curtain country, and men sit drinking beer in the back yards of their homes in the afternoon, she said.

Housing is short, but there is no unemployment, sofia said. Freeways are becoming a common thing, and an education is given to all who want it, she reports.

MRS. CZUBAK WAS particularly interested in the styles, as she owns a tailoring shop in Novato.

She said that she was afraid that her own dresses would be too short when she arrived in Poland, and was surprised to see that all the women were wearing their dresses above the knee and the younger girls wearing the mini-mini skirts. She laughingly said that she sat down right away and hemmed up all of her dresses.

There is neither variety in color or materials in the women's clothes, and during a four day rain storm she saw women wearing raincoats all of the same style, either in dark green or navy blue. But the young men are wearing turtleneck sweaters, medallions on chains and bell bottom trousers, she said.

"I gave nearly all my clothes away and also Eva's before coming home," Mrs. Czubak said. Her friends and relatives loved the bright colors and miracle fabrics.

EVA CAME HOME having learned to speak Polish. In an exchange of languages, her cousin Barbara also learned how to speak English while the Czubaks were in Poland.

Her one big disappointment came on their return to the states when the customs officials in New York would not allow the Polish sausage and Polish vodka that they had hoped to bring home to Novato.

"I never forget the trip," says Sofia nostalgically.

MR. AND MRS. Donald Holton will make their home in San Rafael following their July 20 wedding at the Chapel of The Bells in Reno. Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Baysinger are parents of the bride and Mrs. Josephine Holton is the mother of the bridegroom. All live in San Rafael.

MR. AND Mrs. Richard Harrison Walker were married at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur July 20 and are making their home in Santa Clara. Mrs. Walker (nee Jane Marie Novacic) is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Novacic of Larkspur. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison M. Walker of Los Gatos.

SEW SIMPLE

Acceptable Results Require Care In Handling Leather

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE:

Some of my friends and I are going to try to make a fake leather skirt because they are so popular this year. Please give us a few hints on sewing with this material and don't make it too difficult to understand because we aren't very advanced in sewing. I never could have believed that anything could be as much fun as sewing. Thank you for your helpful hints.

MARY E.

DEAR MARY:

This is the kind of letter I love getting, from you younger girls who are sewing for the pure fun of it. I'll keep the instructions simple, and later I shall discuss sewing with real leathers.

Most of the fake leathers have a woven cloth backing. This is the kind I would begin working with. Before you begin, make the same pattern you wish to use out of a very inexpensive fabric or a piece of muslin. You must have a garment that is fitted perfectly before you cut into the leather. When placing the pattern on the leather, use weights to hold it down or else a few pieces of transparent tape. Never use pins, the holes will remain permanently in the fabric. Instead of pins for the seams, hold them together with paper clips or hair clips, removing them as you come to them when stitching.

Try to avoid a pattern with intricate seams or shaping, keep as straight and simple as possible. Use about 10 to 12 stitches per inch when machine stitching.

Many leather garments are top stitched about ¼ to ½-inch from the seams. Don't attempt this unless you can sew very straight and even; details should be avoided unless they can be done perfectly. If you have trouble with the leather refusing to budge when you are trying to top stitch, it may be necessary to rub a little petroleum jelly (sparingly) on the leather and the machine will glide along on this. You could easily ruin the leather if you use too much. Be sure to remove it after finishing your garment and wipe

Fortunately, fake leather isn't too expensive; you can experiment a little with scraps before you work on your garment. Lots of luck!

MRS. HARRY E. SEABURY, Fulton, N.Y., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her sewing hint.

"Many times when it is necessary to lengthen sleeves in growing children's jackts or coats, there is not enough lining to reach the bottom of the sleeve. Turn the sleeve inside out, cut lining just above the elbow and add about a 2-inch strip (or more if necessary) of any color lining. This can be done in a matter of minutes, and you don't even have to try to match the color of the old lining."

DEAR EUNICE:

With the new zippers that look just like an ordinary seam when they have been inserted, should one use a hook and eye at the top of the zipper at the neckline? I haven't been doing this and I have a short gap at the top of the zipper which doesn't please me.—MRS. C.S.A.

DEAR MRS. C.S.A.:

I have tried the zipper with and without the hook and eye at the top of the zipper. I personally prefer inserting the zipper at least ½-inch below the seamline at the neckline and applying a hook and eye. The effect is somehow more finished.

HELEN HELP US!

Punishment Brings Letter From Teen-Ager Seeking A Solution

DEAR HELEN:

I am a boy living on a farm with my mother, father and grandfather. I'm almost 14.

I admit I sometimes deserve punishment, but I wish my family would take turns dishing it out.

First my father says, "Come on son, it's my duty to teach you right from wrong." So he walks me out to the shed, cuts a switch and switches me until he is tired. Then I eat supper in the shed.

Next my grandfather takes me out behind the barn, pulls down my pants and whips me with my own belt.

It's my mother, though, that bothers me most. As I come in, she catches me by the collar of my jacket, jerks me across her knee and whacks me with a paddle. She has even done this in front of friends.

By the end of the evening, I have so many welts I can't sit, and besides, I have terribly broken pride.

What should I do? — SORE AND ACHIN'

DEAR SORE:

The question is: "What could a boy of 13 possibly do to rate this kind of punishment? The meanest kid on earth doesn't deserve a triple beating for the same offense. If your relatives can't be stopped, then authorities should find a better home for you.

Don't let loyalty keep you from asking help of an understanding neighbor or your minister. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Yes, I think there are accident-prone people, and my friend is one of them. She got her finger caught in a bowling ball. A few days later she caught her foot in a movie theater seat. Both times she needed all kinds of help to get her out and of course she was awfully embarrassed. She has only to walk in a room, and something breaks. She's got this reputation for unluckiness now, and everyone laughs! She thinks they are laughing at her, not with her, and she feels miserable.

She asked me to write the letter for her because she figured her finger would get stuck in the typewriter or something.

—FRIEND OF A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND:

Mainly by "thinking ahead." . . . And by working to overcome self-consciousness, which makes anyone clumsy.

A session at a good charm school would do wonders. There, a girl learns how to walk, sit, talk, manage her hands and feet, and generally feel more poised. Inquire at your local Y.W.C.A. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

"Struck with a Solution" must be some kind of nut. I imagine he's an old bachelor who doesn't know anything about teens except what he reads, so he thinks every girl is just panting to get seduced. His "solution" — make it a law that parents equip their daughters with The Pill and if the daughters get pg before marriage the parents should go to jail — is about the dumbest thing I ever heard. All parents need do is raise their children with understanding and a firm belief in their own worth, and The Pill before marriage won't be necessary. I'm glad my folks have done just that. When you love and respect your parents — and know they respect you — you do what is expected of you because you want it that way. — LUCKY TEEN

The club is offering English and Continental style riding along with the traditional Western this year for the first time.

DRAMA REVIEW

'A Thousand Clowns' Is Hard Not To Like

By GARY TISHCLER

Community theater productions have a stock quota of peculiarities about them. It takes a certain amount of license to enjoy them, but enjoy them you can.

The San Geronimo Valley Players' production of "A Thousand Clowns," the former Broadway and movie smash about an irresponsible, rebellious Murray Burns and his struggle against the establishment, has all the usual community playhouse trademarks. The audience is noisy, there are coffee and cookies at intermission, there are a fair number of blown lines, missed cues and repeated lines, and uncooperative props.

"Clowns" is an infectious kind of play that is difficult not to like, even though it never quite resolves its central dilemna — that of the traditional rebel refusing to grow up in what he belives to be a suffocating society.

The action revolves around Murray's halfhearted effort to keep his unadopted nephew, a precocious 12-year-old who was left at his doorstep by an errant mother. Murray must get a job to keep the boy and to Murray, who shudderingly recalls the time of his working days when he couldn't remember what day it was, a job is death and loss of freedom. In the process, he becomes involved with a china vase social worker who attempts to put some order in Murray's pell-mell life.

The San Geronimo players, all amateur faults aside, seem to have caught the feeling of the play. After a slow start, all of the actors seem to be comfortable in their roles, especially Bob Lea as Burns.

Lea, principal at Central School in Sausalito, will not challenge Jason Robards, but his Murray is less frantic and noisy, more rooted to his littered apartment and windblown life. Lea throws out punch lines like Groucho Marx in a T-shirt.

A pleasant surprise is Dave Kufner as Albert Amundson, the icy official from the welfare department, who is helping to investigate the Burns case and provides a perfect target for Murray's war against the unfeelers. Kufner, according to the program, has never appeared in a regular production, but you couldn't tell by his performance, a perfect imitation of a human being hiding under an eight-to-five coat.

Patti Burns is suitably confused in a fluttery sort of way as the social worker who feels too much and eventually moves in with Murray. The morning after scene between Miss Barnes and Lea is a perfectly controlled bit of farce.

Billy Horton is fine as the boy, as he lets the child in him break through now and then, especially in his outburst against Leo Herman, Murray's ex-boss, star of a children's show in which he portrays a chipmunk.

Chuck Vergara is the chipmunk Leo and despite some rough spots, comes through with a fairly moving job, as a man who is a walking, phony cliche with a tendency to bleed emotionally at the slightest pretense.

Gene Burris plays Murray's square brother Arnold in stolid, believable fashion.

If you go see "A Thousand Clowns" at the Woodacre Improvement Club, forget about all those community theater bits. Relax and enjoy it. It's fairly easy.

Performances will be tonight and Friday and next Saturday, all at 8:30 p.m.

Span Board Balks Over Redwood Empire Pact

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors balked yesterday at approving what in past years has been a routine annual contract with the Redwood Empire Association.

Director Lowell Edington of Napa County insisted that the contract require the association, a super chamber of commerce, "join the political fight to save this district, otherwise this may be the last chance we'll have to approve a contract with them."

Edington, citing proposals in Sacramento to dissolve the district, said "all the force we can regiment can't be too much. This contract is a publicity document, but where we need some help is in the political field."

Association representatives in the audience did not comment on Edington's statements, and the contract was referred for joint study to Edington's legislation committee and the public relations committee. No date for a hearing was set.

After the annual Sonoma County meeting, set to coincide with the Sonoma County Fair, Edington told the Independent-Journal that the association would not lose its tax-exempt status by politicking for the district. Tax laws require only that exempt organizations not be "mostly" pushing legislation, he said.

Director E. J. Guidotti of Sonoma County, however, sharply disagreed with Edington, arguing that the association "is absolutely beyond any public political purpose. I'm warning you, gentlemen, you're on the wrong track."

Bridge district directors voted two weeks ago to continue their annual $25,000 subsidy of the REA, despite complaints by directors Stephan C. Leonoudakis and John E. Dearman of San Francisco that the donation was a violation of the board's public trust.

The REA is a "businessman's organization," Leonoudakis asserted.

Planners Set Save-The-Bay Report Talks

Marin County Planning Commission members will open Monday's meeting with a discussion of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission's preliminary report on San Francisco Bay.

The meeting will start at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Civic Center.

The BCDC's report stresses the importance of retaining San Francisco Bay "as an irreplaceable natural resource" and urges that filling be limited to specific purposes "providing substantial public benefit."

Such purposes would include development of adequate port facilities, adequate land for industries that require access to deep water shipping, expanded airport terminals if there are no feasible sites inland and close-to-home recreational opportunities such as shoreline parks, marinas, beaches and fishing piers for the growing bay population.

Another major item on the planning commission agenda is an application for a 64-lot subdivision on 82 acres in Inverness Park, next to Point Reyes National Seashore.

Attorney Richard V. Bettini, representing Twin Creek Development Co., seeks a use permit and a tentative map for the subdivision south of Inverness Park, just west of the intersection of Horseshoe Road and Bear Valley Road.

Rezoning of the Keil Cove area just outside the Tiburon city limits from the present duplex zoning to single family residential will be discussed. Residents in the area, particularly along Mar East, contend that the lots are steep and the roads too narrow to permit duplex development.

The San Rafael Motorcycle Club wants a training site on five acres of land near Black Point, at the intersection of Highway 37 and Atherton Avenue. Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill denied a use permit, and the club is appealing to the planning commission.

If the time permits, the planning commissioners also hope to discuss a proposed antimissile site on Angel Island or Wolfback Ridge above Sausalito.

Killer Will Defend Self On Penalty

Robles — found guilty by a jury Thursday evening of slaying fellow-inmate Forrest W. Smith, 42 — had requested that his attorneys be dismissed.

Judge Harold J. Haley granted the motion, but asked the lawyers, Roger P. Garety and Howard K. Morehouse, to remain in the case as advisers to Robles. They agreed.

Following the jury's verdict, Robles, 23, had roundly cursed the attorneys, the judge, and the jury. He also withdrew his alternative plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

Had this plea remained, the 10 a.m. Tuesday jury session would have been to determine whether Robles was insane during the Nov. 6 killing. If found insane, he would not have been held responsible for the crime.

The penalty phase, however, is only for the jury to determine whether Robles shall die for the murder, or receive a life sentence in prison. He already is serving a life term for another murder.

The last coat of paint on the Eiffel Tower went on in 1961. It takes almost two years to apply 40 tons of paint to the 1,056-foot structure. Work is suspended during the tourist season, lest visitors be splattered.

Adam Bids Span Board Farewell

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — James Adam, controversial 70-year-old general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, was sent off into retirement yesterday by district directors with a resolution commending him for "outstanding and distinguished service."

Adam joined the district in 1939 as its public relations expert, and became general manager in 1954.

The resolution commending Adam was introduced by Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County, and was approved unanimously in a voice vote by the 10 directors present. Among the absent was Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco, Adam's most outspoken critic on the 14-member board.

"It is a source of gratification that I leave the Golden Gate Bridge to future hands with its structural integrity undaunted," said Adam in his final report to the board. His retirement is effective Wednesday, but yesterday was his last board meeting.

He is being replaced by Air Force Col. Dale W. Luehring, who retires from the service Wednesday and takes over as general manager Thursday.

It was "Fiesta de La Paz," complete with music, dancing, a style show, a soccer demonstration and refreshments at the new San Ramon Elementary School yesterday in Novato.

The 65 members of the fifth and sixth grade summer school entertained 25 of the 26 La Paz students at the fiesta from 9 a.m. to noon.

Both Novato and La Paz children danced to the recorded music of Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass to start the fiesta. The summer school orchestra, under the direction of Rosemary Edwards, and summer school band, directed by Gerald Ring, followed with concert music. The Mexican boys gave a demonstration of soccer and the Novato students put on a style show which was followed by refreshments of cupcakes, cookies and punch.

The Novato children who went to La Paz earlier this month and the La Paz children now visiting Novato are selling candy to try to raise money to repay the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce the $400 it loaned to bring the La Paz children to Novato, according to Mrs. E. T. Ghiradro, project chairman.

Novato merchants have donated a Polaroid camera and two transistor radios for prizes to the Mexican children who sell the most. To date the children have sold more than $525 worth of candy. Dr. and Mrs. James Cermak will host a potluck dinner for the La Paz children and their adult hosts at their home at 465 Fairway Drive on Aug. 3.

Sporting Goods Store Aghast At Gun Death

NEW YORK (AP) — Abercrombie & Fitch has temporarily closed seven gunshops in its branches around the country following the apparent suicide of a man in its New York store yesterday.

The 34-year-old man walked into the seventh-floor gunshop at the fashionable Madison Avenue sports store, bought $5.50 worth of shotgun shells, then loaded one into a gun on display and killed himself.

Police identified the victim as Vladimir Vorlicek, a Czechoslovakian who emigrated here within the past two years and had lived in Astoria, Queens, until a month ago.

Michael Raskin, a senior vice president of Abercrombie, said it was not clear how the man fired the gun since all firearms in the shop are either locked in cabinets or fixed with trigger immobilizing clamps.

"We are very upset," Raskin said. "We inspect our guns, we look at our guns, we're nervous as hell about our guns. That's why we have them locked up."

Tam High Board Meets On Bonds

Tamalpais High School District trustees will meet again at 8 p.m. Monday in the district office with the Citizens' Committee On Bond Campaign Organization to discuss how a $9.9 million bond issue can be stretched to cover $13.5 million in projects.

The board learned Monday that costs of the two proposed new high schools, San Geronimo and Tiburon, and construction and renovation at the three existing high schools in the district may be far higher than originally estimated.

The bond election has been slated for the November general election, and trustees, fearful that voters will not pass a bigger bond issue than $9.9 million, are trying to find ways to cut costs and also add funds from other sources.

Councilman Seeks Pizza Sign For Son

The Fairfax Design Review board will hear an application Thursday by Councilman Adelaide Wilson and her husband, Russell C. Wilson, for a sign announcing the pizzeria which their teen-age sons run in their Christiansen's Bakery, 71 Broadway, on weekends.

Duncan Wilson, 14, and Cameron Wilson, 16, offer pizza, soft drinks and coffee Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons.

The board will also hear an application by Frank A. Fuchs for a sign for the used car lot he owns adjacent to his Automatic Transmission business at 31 Bolinas Road.

Bridge Directors Agree To Pay Army For Plaza Site

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday agreed to a U.S. Army demand that the district pay $177,500 to relocate facilities on 15 acres the district wants in the Presidio of San Francisco.

"The district has no other alternative than to accept the terms of the Army," Gen. Mgr. James Adam told the bridge board.

The agreement with the Army entails no immediate cost except $8,000 for the Army to plan where to move the facilities now on the 15 acres, he said.

The district wants the acreage, generally west of the toll plaza, to provide space to expand the plaza and approaches to the bridge. The board, however, has not voted yet on whether to go ahead with the $9 million project, so the rest of the relocation expense will not be paid unless the project is voted, Adam said.

Bridge district engineer Robert E. Shields noted that the last appraisal made of Presidio land, in 1961, found it was worth $83,000 an acre. The only cost to the district would be to relocate the Army facilities, he said, so the cost works out to $11,000 an acre.

The cost includes replacing 694 trees, a storage building and water and sewer lines.

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors also:

BAGLEY — Heard former director Charles W. Reinking of Sonoma County sing his version of "Won't you please come home Bill Bagley, oh please come home." Bagley is seeking to change the composition of the bridge board, and several directors are displeased because they may become ex-directors.

TOLL CUTS — Set a finance committee meeting at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the administration building at the toll plaza to discuss proposals that tolls be cut. "There won't be any 10-cent toll, I can assure you," said committee chairman William D. Hadeler of San Francisco.

REGION — Voted to send board president John E. Nelson of Mendocino County to a University of California symposium on regional government Sept. 14 in Berkeley. "I think it's ridiculous," said director E. J. Guidotti of Sonoma County.

RECEIPTS — Awarded a $6,198 contract to Simplex Time Recorder Co. of San Francisco, the only bidder, for 18 automatic receipt printers for toll takers.

TRAFFIC — Learned a new daily traffic record was set on the bridge July 19, with 103,647 vehicles.

Innocent Plea Made To Assault Case

Michael Anthony Gallio, 19, pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to a felony charge of assaulting sheriff's officers.

Preliminary hearing was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Sept. 10. Gallio, of Tiburon, is accused of hitting and kicking Deputies R. W. Barner and Ronald C. Spurrell July 6 after they halted him to warn him his vehicle's tail light was not functioning.

Driver Fined $200

Fred Davidson, 36, of 12 Laverne Avenue, Mill Valley, was fined $200 and placed on six months' probation yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. California Highway Patrol arrested him May 28 on Highway 101.

SPACE-SPACE-SPACE

Remember Fred Allen describing a house so small "even the mice were humpbacked"? Well, because you'll see a real honest to goodness home on a pretty cul-de-sac with space like lumber was going out of style. Older, to be sure, but 3 large bdrms., 2 baths and a South Seas rumpus room that would stir Fletcher Christian off the "Bounty."

NOT HERE

Reagan Facing Cal-Vet Loans Veto Decision

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan today faced the decision of whether to veto or sign legislation aimed at reversing a policy set by his administration in the Cal-Vet home loan program.

The Senate yesterday approved a measure that requires the state Department of Veterans Affairs to pay property taxes for homes financed under Cal-Vet and charge the owner the next year.

This had been the procedure under the program until this year, when Reagan's veterans affairs director, James Johnson, ordered a halt to it.

Johnson decided that the program would have more money for lending purposes if it did not make what were, in effect, loans for property tax payments.

The measure by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, was sent to Reagan on a 21-7 vote. He is expected to veto it.

Medical Bag Stolen, Contained Narcotics

Dr. Edward Callahan of 524 Midvale Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, reported the theft of his black medical bag, containing some $300 worth of narcotics and medical equipment, the sheriff's office said today.

SLEDDING AT SEASIDE, SORT OF

CAMPAIGN 1968

Second-Choice Names Steal The Limelight

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey declared today his goal is "peace—nothing less" and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said black power is the road to black dignity and responsibility.

But Democrats' attention was focused as much on vice presidential prospects as on their two Democratic presidential rivals after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's announcement yesterday he could not accept the No. 2 spot.

"For me, this year, it is impossible," Kennedy said in a statement. " . . . My decision is final, firm, and not subject to further consideration."

But Kennedy, whom a number of top Democrats had urged for the vice presidential nomination in order to strengthen their ticket, said he will speak on vital foreign and domestic policies he believes the party should pursue.

POSSIBLE CHOICES

Humphrey called Kennedy's decision "understandable." Some of his aides listed five possible running mates if Humphrey wins the nomination.

The list includes McCarthy, Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy brother-in-law; New Jersey Gov. Richard Hughes, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma.

Humphrey, in Salt Lake City, Utah, today, listed the pursuit of world peace at the top of his "new agenda."

He said this means working with Red China in the future and the Soviet Union now to reduce tensions; a slowdown in the arms race, and a "stable and lasting peace" in Vietnam for which he promised a specific proposal in days.

NEGRO POWER

McCarthy said Negroes must be given power—with which he said will come dignity and responsibility—by bringing industry, locally-owned businesses and antipoverty programs into their communities.

"The fact is that poverty among black people is no accident," McCarthy said in a prepared speech in Detroit. "Black people are poor because they are powerless, and powerless because they are black."

ROCKEFELLER

On the Republican side, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said in Providence, R.I., that if the United States escalates the Vietnam war, China and the Soviet Union "will take it right up to nuclear war."

"The enemy is plenty sophisticated," Rockefeller said. "They can't win. We can't win. We're at a stalemate."

NIXON-LBJ

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon spent 90 minutes yesterday with President Johnson for a foreign policy briefing, talk of their days together in the Senate and renewal of an invitation to visit the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

"No politics was discussed," Nixon said. He added: "Win or lose, I'll accept the invitation to go to the ranch after the election."

WALLACE, TOO

Third party candidate George C. Wallace also was briefed on foreign policy by Johnson yesterday in Washington. Later Wallace called the nation's capital a dying city and said he would maintain law and order there if it took 30,000 troops.

"The City of Washington is a dying city," Wallace said, "because people in high places have allowed anarchists to destroy the city."

In other political developments:

REAGAN CHANCE

F. Clifton White, an adviser to California Gov. Ronald Reagan, says 50 to 60 per cent of the GOP national convention delegates will more likely favor Reagan than Rockefeller if Nixon can't get the presidential nomination.

Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond Shafer, seeking new Rockefeller support, has urged Nevada Gov. Paul Laxalt and the 12-member Nevada GOP delegation to give up their uncommitted status.

Aerospace Labor Pact Far Exceeds LBJ's Guidelines

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two big unions struck a bargain with the aerospace industry yesterday for increases in wages and fringe benefits averaging 6 per cent annually for the next three years.

The agreement of the United Auto Workers and the International Association of Machinists with McDonnell-Douglas Corp. appeared to have averted a strike that threatened to idle 250,000 workers in aircraft and missile plants across the nation.

However, it was a stiff blow to President Johnson's plea for moderation in wage settlements this year.

The agreement reached by McDonnell-Douglas and the two unions is expected to set the pattern for settlements with four other big aerospace manufacturers whose agreements expire this year. They are Lockheed, Aerojet General, North American Rockwell and Boeing.

A McDonnell-Douglas spokesman said that reports the new contract calls for wage and fringe benefits totaling between 97 cents and $1.04 an hour over a three year period are "substantially correct."

If so, the settlement is even larger than the controversial package won by the United Auto Workers from the automobile industry last year. That pact called for gains estimated at between 91 and 95 cents an hour.

McDonnell - Douglas officials declined to comment when asked whether the federal government exerted pressure for a settlement.

United Auto Workers local unions will vote on the contract offer today. IAM members will cast their ballots tomorrow. Union sources believed the pacts would be accepted.

Burglary Charge Out For Teen-Age Suspect

Felony charge of burglary was dismissed in Marin Municipal Court yesterday against Morson Smith, 19, on grounds of lack of proper identification of witnesses.

Smith, of Marin City, was accused of burgling a Mill Valley self-service laundry June 7. A co-defendent, James Ulton Copening, has been certified to Juvenile Court for handling as a minor. The dismissal came during a scheduled preliminary hearing for Smith.

Local Mental Health Units Get Fund Boost In Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate yesterday approved legislation aimed at shifting the treatment of the mentally ill from state hospitals to local mental health clinics.

On a 27-3 vote, the upper house endorsed the measure by Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, requiring the state to pay 90 per cent of the local clinic's cost, with the county chipping in the remaining 10 per cent.

The bill changes the current 75 per cent state and 25 per cent county cost ratio. It also is intended to supplement the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act passed last year in the field of mental health and scheduled to take effect July 1, 1969.

That act has as its goal the eventual transfer of all patients except those criminally insane to community clinics.

Counties contend the 25 per cent was too high if the patient load was to be shifted to local facilities. The Lanterman bill changing the ratio was sent back to the lower house for approval of Senate amendments.

Tax Relief Bills Struggling Along

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Two new plans to provide Californians with $155 million in local property tax relief this year moved haltingly today toward Senate votes.

One is a wide-ranging Assembly school aid proposal. The other is a Republican assemblyman's bill to give money to county welfare departments.

The fate of both measures rested largely with two senators who voted against an earlier tax relief bill by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

'PLAYING GAMES'

"They're just playing games, frankly," Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, said of the Assembly's school aid measure with property tax relief added. The Assembly voted 69-0 for the bill yesterday after strong urging by Speaker Jesse M. Unruh.

The bill also provides $50 million to aid city schools in poor neighborhoods.

Miller led the successful Senate fight last week to reject Reagan's plan to allocate $155 million to counties for tax relief.

Unruh, D-Inglewood, pushed for speedy approval of the school-aid tax relief plan, an Assembly revision of a bill by Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Railroad Flat. It was up to Teale to call for a Senate vote on the new version of his bill.

Teale said yesterday that he wanted to study the plan. He had joined Reagan's tax relief bill.

SPENDING PLAN

Miller's Senate Finance Committee received yesterday the Republican assemblyman's measure to spend the $155 million in tax relief funds set aside by the 1967 Legislature.

The Senate Social Welfare Committee approved that bill by Eugene Chappie of Cool, after Reagan aides and the County Supervisors Association expressed interest. The bill would pay a portion of local welfare costs.

The supervisors association had helped draw up Reagan's earlier tax relief plan.

Miller said he holds "a dim view" of Chappie's proposal, although "it's better than the governor's plan."

If no property tax relief measure is passed, the state sales tax will automatically drop from 5 cents on the dollar to 4½ cents on Oct. 1.

Assemblymen expected the Senate to reject their new merger of school financing and tax relief proposals. But the lower house had fruitlessly hoped that a vote would come yesterday, so a two-house conference committee could be appointed to work out a compromise as quickly as possible.

"There is some talk about adjourning Wednesday or Thursday," said Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Westminster.

Cory presented the tax relief amendment to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee yesterday morning. The committee approved the amendment and the bill by a split voice vote.

But after caucuses of both parties, the lower house unanimously approved the measure a few minutes later.

Chappie's welfare allocation plan would provide that the state pay the first 15 cents of county welfare expenses on tax bills. Counties would pay the next 10 cents. Then the state would pay 90 per cent of welfare costs over 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

SEN. ROBERT S. STEVENS
Reported bribery try

Bribe Claim Scuttles Bill For Freeway

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A dramatic charge of attempted vote buying in the Senate was disposed of yesterday when the Rules Committee decided the evidence did not warrant a full investigation.

Sen. Robert S. Stevens, R-Los Angeles, voluntarily scuttled legislation he was supporting because he said at least three senators were offered "benefits if they would vote for this bill."

Stevens said the alleged bribes were refused but "no bill is worth passage if it has been tainted."

CLOSED HEARING

The Rules Committee, headed by Senate leader Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, held a brief closed-door hearing on the allegation. Stevens and several other senators were questioned.

"There has been no evidence up to this point that there have been any cold-blooded propositions offered to the members for their votes," Burns told a news conference.

"In all my years (as a legislater, I have never had a flat offer of reward for supporting legislation and I don't think anybody else has either," Burns added.

He said no further investigation would be justified but "we never close the books on anything."

Stevens was upper house manager of a bill to construct a four-lane highway along a nine-mile stretch of Mulholland Drive in the Santa Monica mountains overlooking Los Angeles.

He urged the Senate to vote against the measure after he said he would "not condone by silence any attempt to improperly influence votes on this floor."

ONE SUPPORTER

The bill by Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, was defeated 1-33. It had passed the Assembly in April. The only favorable vote came from Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez.

Both Stevens and Priolo predicted the bill could have passed "on its own merits." Miller said he favored the bill and suggested any bribery charge be sent to the district attorney.

"It is still a good bill but it has been tainted by overzealous people who gave us help we didn't want," Priolo said.

Both supporters and opponents of the bill said construction of the highway would add millions of dollars to the value of property in the Santa Monica mountains.

Offering a bribe to a public official is a felony. However, neither Burns nor Stevens said they planned to discuss the matter with law enforcenent agencies.

Robert Puglia, deputy Sacramento County district attorney, said no one had presented anything to his office.

"Unless Senator Stevens knows the names of senators who allegedly were offered bribes and makes them available, there isn't anything to investigate," Puglia said.

Burns said Stevens was justified in abandoning the bill because "no one wants to handle a bill to which there is some taint attached."

But Burns suggested the bribery reports might have been circulated by opponents of the measure.

"A very nice and easy way to give a bill a black eye is to spread a rumor there is a pay off on it," Burns said.

Property Tax Curb Blasted In Assembly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A San Diego assemblyman has asked his colleagues to brand a property tax limitation initiative as a "cruel hoax" which "will inevitably prove to be disastrous if enacted." (See story on page 25.)

Republican Assemblyman Pete Wilson introduced a resolution yesterday which, if approved by the Assembly, would put the 80 members on record as opposing the plan which will be on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

The initiative seeks to impose a limit of 1 per cent of market value on property for non-property services.

It is known as the Watson initiative because it was pushed by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip Watson.

Wilson's resolution goes before the Assembly Rules Committee, and if it is approved there, to the full Assembly.

$500 Reward Offered For Tools Recovery

Fred Grange, owner of Grange Debris Box Rentals, 2031 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael, is offering $500 reward for information leading to the recovery of an estimated $3,000 in tools taken from his shop.

Grange said burglars have broken into his place three times in the past week, the last time breaking down the office door to gain entrance. Police are investigating.

Big Upsets In Net Meet

There were a few surprises at yesterday's Marin Junior Tennis Tournament.

The event, co-sponsored by the Independent-Journal and the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, ended its week-long competition with two top seeded doubles teams biting the dust.

In Boys 16 doubles, Bob Klyce, and Waddell Smith, of San Rafael, defeated San Anselmo's Jerry Suyderhoud and his partner John Spillane of Corte Madera in a long winded 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 match.

Meanwhile, Mike Gomez and Dan Tierney were busy upsetting the number one seeded team of Gary Walter and David Kushner in Boys 14 doubles action.

Both Klyce and Tierney won in their singles division with Klyce defeating Joe Weiss of San Rafael 6-2, 6-0 to win the Boys 16 singles title and Tierney sent Greg Geisen of San Anselmo to the shower room with his 6-0, 6-3 win.

On the female side of the courts, Suzanne Smetana, 16, of Tiburon, conducted a waltz to the tune of a 6-0, 6-1 victory over rival Debbie Lauch of Woodacre and went on to accept the Girls 18 singles title.

It was Patricia Gomez all the way in the Girls 14 singles competition. The 11-year-old Belvedere tennis player went three sets with Lori James of Tiburon before finally winning the division championship 6-4, 0-6, 6-4. Patricia was scheduled to meet Jennifer Gobershock on the courts to battle it out for the Girls 12 singles title, but Jennifer was eliminated from competition due to an accident. So it was Gomez for the Girls 12, too.

Gary Walter defeated Jim Lowe after three long rounds of play in the Boy 14 singles division. The score of that tilt: 5-7, 6-0, 6-1.

Rodney Lee of San Francisco aced out Gerald Lowe 6-0, 6-0 to win the Boys 10 singles crown.

In the only other contests of the day, San Rafael's 15-year-old Claudia Wood went a long second set to win over Ann Welisch of Belvedere, 6-1, 8-6.

Betsy Oller and Ann Welisch teamed up to beat the Beatty sisters, Sue and Tracy, 6-3, 6-1 in Girls 14 doubles play.

A Nostalgic Return To Houston For Frustrated Giant Manager

HOUSTON — Herman Franks always is happy when he is re-visiting Houston. It was here that Franks spent some of his happiest days in baseball. Thirty years ago he was catcher of the Houston Buffs. Pudgy was his nickname then.

Pudgy Franks has come a long way since the 30s. One thing he learned then was how to take care of a dollar. The depression taught such lessons to ambitious young ball players.

The depression was a down to earth era and Franks always has been an earthy, unassuming, uninhibited and unglossed fellow. Perhaps his immunity to flattery is his greatest asset. Nobody cons Franks.

Diplomatic approaches in baseball or business never appealed to Franks. When he went after the job of managing the Giants he made no secret about it. As soon as he found out that Alvin Dark's days with the Giants were numbered, Franks told Horace Stoneham and everybody else that he wanted the job. And Stoneham gave it to him at the end of the 1964 season, on the day the 1964 season ended, in fact.

An Amicable Agreement Ends

Now, on the final day of the 1968 season Franks and Stoneham will end what has been an amicable four-year arrangement. It wasn't as productive as the four-year relationship of Dark and Stoneham who did not see eye-to-eye on many matters. But at least Dark won a pennant in 1962 for Stoneham.

Franks has had many happy moments during the past four years but overall it has been a frustrating experience. With the Giants it always is a dismal season if they don't win. They are a team not meant to finish No. 2, as they did in 1965-66-67. This year they won't finish in second place. It will be the second division.

So Franks is leaving. He is somewhat disillusioned, also disappointed. He believed that the same formula he used in successful business enterprises in Salt Lake City could be applied to baseball. He is puzzled why it didn't work.

Not Quite The Same Business

"The key to success in business is in knowing your men, getting along with them," said Franks when he became manager of the Giants. "It's the same in baseball."

Not quite. Franks knows that now. And he also knows why his successful business formula failed him in baseball. In business if one of his employees didn't do the job, Franks could hire a new employee or do the job himself. Not in baseball. The talent is spread very thin now.

But Franks did bat and field for himself in Salt Lake City business deals such as one in 1961 when he agreed to operate the Coast League franchise of the Bees with the understanding he would keep the profits or sustain the losses himself.

"We drew 109,000 fans in 1961 and I made $65,000," Franks now recalls.

What had the Bees drawn the year before when the team ended in the red and almost folded?

"They drew 146,000," said Franks.

So how did he make $65,000 on 37,000 fewer customers?

"I sold the radio and advertising myself and we had just three men in the front office — a ticket manager, secretary and myself."

Nobody Is Happy With Parks Deal

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco 49ers suddenly have rookie lineman Kevin Hardy and a first-round draft choice, the New Orleans Saints have receiver Dave Parks and neither team is happy about it.

The decision by Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle which sent Hardy and New Orleans' first-round 1968 draft choice to the 49ers comes under some complicated rules. But the simple matter is that neither the 49ers nor the Saints are very pleased.

"The commissioner's decision is not to our liking," said 49er president Lou Spadia, but he added he's "glad the matter is settled."

The Saints were jolted by the decision last night.

"It's Commissioner Rozelle's mandate and we must abide by it," said Saints owner John Mecom Jr. "I was surprised and disappointed that he took an active player off our roster as compensation for Parks."

Parks played out his option with the 49ers last season, then went job-hunting. He signed with the Saints Wednesday. He was injured and a disappointment most of last season with the 49ers.

Hardy was the Saints' No. 1 choice in the last draft. A star tackle at Notre Dame, he was being groomed as a defensive end and has been labeled as a possible star.

KEVIN HARDY

DAVE PARKS

When Parks became a free agent, he was able to sign with any club. But under NFL rules, the Commissioner must decide what the new club must pay—in this case Hardy and the No. 1 choice—to the team that lost the free agent.

And John Gordy is back in the news. Another walkout. But this time it was a twosome, not the whole National Football League. He and Roger Shoals, a tackle, left the Detroit Lions' training camp. Neither has signed his 1968 contract and both reportedly are dissatisfied with salary offers from the Lions.

Gordy, a guard, is president of the NFL Players' Association and was at the center of the recent threatened player strike subsequent owners' lockout and negotiations.

The Lions conducted an intrasquad scrimmage yesterday night and Gordy and Shoals did not dress for the scrimmage, a team spokesman said.

Mistakes In Spades By The A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Manager Bob Kennedy expected his young Oakland A's to make mistakes, but he didn't expect them all to come in the same game.

The A's made six errors and lost 10-4 to the Minnesota Twins last night. Despite the one-sided score, Oakland outhit Minnesota 16-11.

"Can you imagine that?" Kennedy asked after the game. "We get 16 hits and we are never in the game."

The problem for Oakland was that the hits didn't come at the right time. They did for Minnesota.

"I had too much stuff," Dobson said. "I didn't even know where the ball was going."

Dobson walked the bases full in the first inning and then gave up a two run single to John Roseboro.

Lefty Jim Kaat of Minnesota was thumped for 13 hits before leaving the game in the eighth inning.

"I've had games like this before, but I usually don't win," Kaat said. "We got the hits when we needed them and Oakland didn't."

He noted improvement in the Oakland team. He thought they were tailoring their type of baseball to the spacious Oakland Coliseum.

"Last year they were swinging harder," he said. "Now they just try to meet the ball."

Sal Bando had three of the Oakland hits, including a double to drive in three runs.

Rick Monday, the leading hitter in the American League, had a triple and single in five tries.

The big hitters for the Twins were Bob Allison, with two hits and two runs scored, Roseboro, with two hits and three runs batted in, and Ted Uhleander, with two hits and a pair of runs batted in.

The win lifted the Twins into a tie with Oakland for fifth place, 14½ games behind the league leading Detroit Tigers.

Oakland and Minnesota meet again tonight at 6 o'clock with Jim Perry, 7-6, pitching for the Twins and Jim Hunter, 8-8, for the A's.

GIANTS LOSE

The Scoreboard Signals Defeat

HOUSTON (UPI)—It wasn't much of a night on the playing field but at least the 250 San Franciscans who traveled to the Astrodome saw Houston's great animated scoreboard in action.

In fact, it's been quite a spell too since the Houston fans saw the exploding scoreboard light up.

Jim Wynn touched it off last night when he blasted his 14th home run of the season, a three-run job, to pace the Astros to a 4-1 victory over the Giants. It was the first Houston homer in the Astrodome since June 28.

Up until Wynn's blow in the eighth, Ray Sadecki and reliever Frank Linzy had shackled the Astros on just three hits, all by Dick Simpson.

One of the safeties, however, drove in Houston's first run in the fifth inning as it followed a walk and sacrifice. Simpson's double and an intentional walk to Rusty Staub set the stage for Wynn's blow.

The Giants tallied their lone run in the ninth. Pinchhitter Dick Dietz singled to lead off the inning and after the next two batters were retired by winner Denny Lemaster, Jay Alou singled to score pinch-runner Bob Schroder. Reliever Steve Shea then replaced Lemaster and caught Willie Mays looking at a third strike to end the game.

The two teams meet again tonight with Mike McCormick (7-12) going for San Francisco against Houston's John Buzhardt (3-2).

It's Twin Cities, Gallinas In Finals

Twin Cities of the Larkspur-Corte Madera area and Gallinas Valley All-Stars were clashing at Novato this afternoon for the District 3 (Marin County) Little League championships.

The winner will represent the district in next weekend's Sectional Tournament at the Twin Cities Park in Corte Madera against teams from Vallejo, Santa Rosa and Sacramento.

Last night the opportunistic Twin Cities All-Stars eliminated the Novato National Leaguers 4-2 at Sausalito while Gallinas Valley nipped Kentfield-Greenbrae 4-3 at Novato in the exciting semi-final games. Novato and Kentfield-Greenbrae met in a preliminary consolation game at Novato early this afternoon.

Manager Aldo Pasquinelli's Twin Citians collected only one hit, but it was a key two-run double by catcher John Troppmann in a walkathon third inning rally for all four runs. Four walks and an error sandwiched aroung Troppmann's two-run double undid Novato.

The losers got an unearned run in the first inning when Matt Lagle was safe on an error and George Hoberg tripled him home.

After falling behind 1-4, Novato made one last effort in the sixth inning on Bobby Digrazia's home run, but it was too little, too late.

Fireballing Gene Frey, hero all week for Twin Cities, went the distance on the mound, striking out 13 batters. In two games this week he struck out 27 batters.

In the other semi-final last night Gallinas Valley scored the winning runs in the third inning.

Frantic Race Nears End

With only one game separating five teams at the top of the heap, the Marin County Joe DiMaggio Baseball League faces a frantic race to the wire with four games left for each team.

A couple of upsets this week left Annex Motors of Novato, Toby's Truckers (Marin Catholic) and Herb's Pool Service (Terra Linda) in a three-way tie for the lead, each with an 8-3 won-lost record. And breathing down their necks with 7-4 records are the Mill Valley Chiefs (Tamalpais) and Indian Valley Lumber (Redwood).

Biggest upset of the week came Wednesday when Maggi's Florists (Drake) of San Anselmo (2-9) startled Toby's 6-0 behind Dave Lilienquist's four-hit pitching and Bob Sutherland's four-single hitting.

Another mild upset Wednesday saw Indian Valley edge Annex Motors 5-3 with Mike Mantooth getting two hits in four at-bats and Jim Meyer slamming a two-run double.

Wednesday's other game saw Van Ness Dodge (San Rafael) edge the Presidio Toros 6-4 in a game called after six innings due to darkness.

They'll start separating the men from the boys tomorrow with three key games on tap: Herb's Pool Service vs. Annex Motors, Toby's Truckers vs. the Mill Valley Chiefs and Van Ness Dodge vs. Indian Valley Lumber.

San Rafael Braves In Final Loop Series

Litchfield's San Rafael Braves play their final Western Baseball Association home games this weekend, hosting the Milton Freewater, Ore., Twins.

First of the three-game series is tonight at 8 o'clock at Albert Park, followed by a doubleheader tomorrow starting at noon. Following this series, the Braves, tied with Eureka for the lead in the WBA, head north for a rugged nine-game road trip which will put the lid on the WBA season.

A trio of righthanders will pitch for the Braves in their final home stand. Tonight it will be Gregg Tellis, who is usually used in relief. His 0.43 earned run average is tops in the league and his record is two wins with no defeats.

Pitchers for San Rafael tomorrow will be Bill Clark (3-1) and Ben Burch (3-1). Ron Cole (4-2) will be in the bullpen for emergency action.

The Braves are batting .291 as a team, led by first baseman John Burnett who is hitting at a .378 clip. He's followed by Dave Texdahl, .325; Art Blunt, .324; Steve Small, .319; Tom Corder, .306, and Rich Menise, .300.

The San Rafael nine won't get much time for rest, leaving for the road trip immediately after tomorrow's games. The team will travel by chartered bus.

First stop will be Bellingham, Wash., for a game Tuesday night and a doubleheader Wednesday; then on to Yakima, Wash., for a single game Thursday and doubleheader Friday, then to Milton Freewater for a twin bill Saturday and single game Sunday. That comes out to nine games in six days, about as hectic a schedule one could ask for.

Strange Prep Shrine Game, Weird Trip To Los Angeles

By GARY TISCHLER

It was a weird trip and a weird game Thursday.

The trip amounted to a round trip PSA airline ticket to Los Angeles and it zig-zagged to busy Los Angeles airport, through busy Los Angeles rush hour traffic, to the busy, thick-carpeted Biltmore Hotel in busy, downtown Los Angeles, thence to the Los Angeles Coliseum, which was also a pretty busy place.

The football game was the 17th annual North-South Shrine classic pitting the top preppers from the Southland, and they were tip-top, against the best of the North, which wasn't good enough.

The South, as you might have heard won one of the most lopsided 14-10 games in the history of any football game, and that includes old vacant lot battles.

The Shriners, if not North fans, were happy and pleased about the whole thing, and understandably so. They put on a whale of a show, the benefits from which went to the aid of crippled children. There were Shriner bands, Shriner drills, a huge spotlighted flag, a lacrosse exhibition and a long introduction of players. And there were Shriners. The Coliseum seemed blanketed with dark red fezes. It looked like the Arabian Nights.

I sat right in the middle of enemy territory — a pack of Southland fans mixed in with one man who had a bet on the North. There was a super-grid fan who had to choose this game to initiate his toddler-sized son into the mysteries of football. The little fellow, who liked the pageant just fine, kicked the back of everybody's chair through the game, impatiently hoping and waiting for the next band to strike up.

This was one of the few games in my memory that they forgot to play the National Anthem, although the flag was spotlighted in the end-zone section. But everyone stood up to recite the Pledge of Allegiance, and this being far from Berkeley, there was no riot over the issue.

One thing you can say about Los Angeles fans, they throw the most beautiful paper airplanes around. Nobody in Kezar, where it would be a good pastime, can quite match the ones thrown Thursday night.

The North All-Stars didn't have time to watch paper airplanes. They barely got to see the football.

The South has so many sub-10-second dashers, it looked like one of those numerous Olympic tryouts by starlight. And Grady Hurst, the South quarterback, made sure that the North defensive backfield made most of the tackles with some pinpoint passing.

Trying to get a post-game interview after that particular game was like trying to get a date with Kim Novak. Deep in the depths of the Coliseum, pervaded by a slight aroma of a recent stay of horses, were the locker-rooms, thickly guarded by police and Shriners. You had to have a little white pass to get in and without it, you stood and waited with noisy relatives and well-wishers. No tickee-no talkee.

The game, strange and disappointing though it was, seemed perfectly natural after making the trip to the City of Angels.

Until Thursday, I thought the L.A. smog was an exaggerated joke made up by disgruntled San Franciscans who never made it in Hollywood, sort of like Southern Belle jokes they tell in Northern prep schools.

By golly, it's real, just like Disneyland. But it's kind of purplish pretty, if you like pretty smog and you don't live there.

I was warned about it by a Los Angeles native on the plane trip. He had something to do with the food industry. He also told me most of the canned and frozen foods you eat are not good for you, that the natives in Watts are arming and other cheery bits of conversation.

The plane landed around 4 p.m., just in time for a grand bus trip through the fabled rush hour traffic. It took nearly two hours, including one memorable traverse of one city block in 20 minutes.

The disgruntled bus driver, who seemed mad at the world-and his clutch, didn't help much.

Then there was the Biltmore Hotel, which seems to have almost as many bellhops as guests. The place was filled with conventioneers, surrounded by charter buses and all-night rent-a-cars.

Me, I settled for Bus 49, lugging a bulky typewriter.

Still, going to football games in Los Angeles is educational. I can't wait for College of Marin to start its season.

Rookie Erases Tiger Worries

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Tigers had some painful moments after Earl Wilson left with an aching leg, but relief was just 13 Daryl Patterson pitches away.

The rookie right-hander, who has been a real tonic to the Tigers' bullpen this season, was called to the mound in the sixth inning last night against Baltimore after the aching Wilson and John Warden loaded the bases with none out.

Patterson wasted little time easing matters—he struck out Fred Valentine, Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson on 13 pitches—protecting a 2-0 lead that turned into Detroit's 4-1 victory.

The American League-leading Tigers thus closed part of the cut the charging second-place Orioles had made in a runaway lead by restoring it to 6½ games in this first contest of a three-game weekend series.

Still more soothing was New York's 5-0 victory over third-place Cleveland behind Mel Stottlemyre's seven-hit pitching that put the Indians 7½ games behind.

Elsewhere, Reggie Smith's sensational game-ending catch saved Boston's 2-1 triumph over Washington, Duane Josephson drove in three runs as the Chicago White Sox stopped California 3-1 and Minnesota bombed Oakland 10-4.

Detroit was ahead 2-0 on run-scoring fifth-inning singles by Bill Freehan and Dick McAuliffe against loser Jim Hardin, 12-6, when Patterson came on the scene.

Patterson, a fast-balling 6-foot-4, 195-pounder who entered the game with a 1.64 earned run average in 22 games, struck out two more hitters to give him 33 in 42⅓ innings this season.

Riessen Rooting For Aussie

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP) — There will be at least one American rooting against Arthur Ashe today when the No. 2-ranking U.S. tennis ace meets Australia's Allan Stone in a semifinal match of the 69th annual Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Championships.

He will be Marty Riessen. Don't get Riessen, wrong. He likes Ashe. As a matter they're doubles partners.

It's just that Riessen, from Evanston, Ill., who earned a berth in tomorrow's final by defeating Ray Moore of South Africa 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 yesterday would rather not play Ashe in the finals.

Riessen says, "Who wants to play Arthur Ashe on grass?"

Ashe isn't about to argue with his friend and possible finals opponent.

"I wouldn't want to play me on grass," said Ashe.

The women's final will be played today with Kristy Pigeon, a 17-year-old high school girl from Danville, Calif., versus Vicky Rogers, 19, a UCLA student from Rye, N.Y.

Miss Pigeon reached the final yesterday beating Denise Carter of Los Altos, Calif., 9-7, 6-3.

Second-seeded Miss Rogers, No. 8-ranking American, tripped Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif., 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Ashe and Riessen will face Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, in one of two semifinals matches in men's doubles today. The other half has Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico and Clark Graebner of New York going against the South African team of Bob Hewitt and Ray Moore.

Simpson To Become 49er In '69?

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — How about O.J. Simpson in a San Francisco Forty Niner uniform? If things fall into the right place, the USC flash just might don the cardinal and brown of his hometown professional team in 1969.

The possibility of obtaining Simpson came yesterday when pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle awarded highly regarded rookie lineman Kevin Hardy and next year's No. 1 draft pick of the New Orleans Saints to the Forty Niners as fair exchange for former all-pro end Dave Parks.

Should the Saints, now only in their second year in the NFL, finish last next season, San Francisco would stand to get first pick in the 1969 draft. And that choice could very well be Simpson, one of the most publicized players in recent history.

Hardy, an All-America at Notre Dame, was the Saints' first pick last season.

Parks signed with the Saints earlier this week after playing out his option with San Francisco last season. He starred for three seasons but was injured most of 1967.

TREVINO OUT

Gallery Looking For New Hero

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Pete Brown and Harry Toscano resumed their quest for the biggest payday in their pro careers today, while the gallery at Keller Golf Course had to find a new hero with U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino failing to survive the cut yesterday.

Brown, the 33-year-old Pomona, Calif., pro who has won only one tournament in his five years on the tour, and Toscano, a 26-year-old tour sophomore from New Castle, Pa., whose best finish has been a tie for 11th place, were tied for the lead at nine-under-par 133 going into today's third round of the $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic.

Trevino, who posted four straight subpar rounds to win the Open, couldn't crack par in three days of trying on a course the pros have been burning up for years. He shot a 76 in the pro-am Wednesday, 74 in the first round Thursday and 72 yesterday to fall by the wayside with a 146.

It took a one-over par 143 to make the cut and 79 pros survived it and teed off today in search of the $20,000 top money.

Sixty of Trevino's fellow pros are under par for 36 holes in this tournament and 10 others have matched par.

Whether Brown, Toscano and the others remaining can capture the imagination of the galleries remains to be seen.

Most of the top winners on the tour elected to pass up the classic after playing in Milwaukee two weeks ago, then going to San Antonio and battling the Texas heat in the PGA championship.

Three others who had been tied for the first-day lead fell back. Jim Colbert of Overland Park, Kan., slipped one stroke and is in third place at 134.

Moving up to fourth place was Tommy Aaron, who charged around Keller's 6,702-yard, par-71 layout in 66 for a 134 total.

Then came Tom Weiskopf, Ken Still and Joel Goldstrand tied at 136.

Women Golfers Ponder Slow Play Problems

TORONTO (AP) — Professional women golfers have been asked for suggestions to speed up play in an effort to avoid the type of penalty that cost Marilynn Smith the Cincinnati Open championship last weekend.

Miss Smith lost the tournament to Carol Mann by one stroke after she was assessed a two-stroke penalty for slow play.

The penalty was a key topic of discussion at a meeting yesterday of the Ladies Professional Golf Association. It was one of the regular meetings of the women on the professional tour and was held in conjunction with the women's open golf tournament currently under way here.

Kathy Whitworth, LPGA president, said after the meeting that members were asked to consider an amendment to the rule affecting slow play, or to come up with suggestions which would "keep the girls moving" on the course and prevent "imposition of further penalties of this nature."

Torre Strikeout Propels Braves To Phillie Killing

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three strikes and you're out. Well, Atlanta's Felipe Alou wasn't, but the Philadelphia Phillies soon were—out of the ball game.

With two out in the ninth inning last night, relief pitcher Grant Jackson struck out Alou. But catcher Clay Dalrymple failed to handle the pitch and Alou reached first base.

Dalrymple was charged with a passed ball. The Braves were just charged up.

Felix Millan followed with a single and Hank Aaron unloaded his 20th homer for a 5-4 Atlanta victory.

The second-place Braves also won the second game of the doubleheader 3-2 and struggled to within 11½ games of the National League-leading St. Louis Cardinals who trounced Pittsburgh 9-1 and then lost 5-4 in 10 innings.

The New York Mets blanked Cincinnati 2-0, Houston topped San Francisco 4-1 and Los Angeles edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in other National League action.

Philadelphia built its 4-2 lead through eight innings of the first game on a three-run homer by starting pitcher Rick Wise and a solo blast by Don Lock. Atlanta scored twice in the eighth when Joe Torre doubled home Hank Aaron and scored on Tommie Aaron's single.

Torre sparked a two-run Atlanta second inning in the nightcap when he led off with a double, then sealed the Phillies' ninth straight loss with a homer in the eighth. Richie Allen homered for Philadelphia in the fourth and beat out a bunt and scored on John Callison's triple in the ninth.

Julian Javier, Roger Maris and Mike Shannon were the big guns in St. Louis' first-game victory. Javier doubled home one run and batted in two more with singles, Shannon singled in two runs and Maris hit a two-run homer.

Pittsburgh won the nightcap on pinch-hitter Jose Pagan's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the 10th inning.

Maris tied the second game for the Cardinals, who had won five straight, with an RBI single in the eighth after Roberto Clemente had given Pittsburgh a 4-3 lead with a home run in the sixth.

Jerry Koosman became the winningest left-hander for a season in Met history when he made Cincinnati his 14th victim.

Jim Fairey keyed Los Angeles' victory over Chicago in the only day game. He tripled home two runs and scored on Zoilo Versalles' fly in the second.

Grier To Work With Juveniles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Massive Roosevelt Grier, former defensive lineman for the Los Angeles Rams, yesterday was sworn in as member of the California Delinquency Prevention Commission.

"I dig kids, I really dig 'em," he said. "I'm sure I'll enjoy helping kids in trouble and helping keep other kids out of trouble."

Grier resigned from the Rams last week.

Today is Saturday, July 27, the 209th day of 1968 with 157 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning star is Saturn. The evenings stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1789, the U.S. Department of Foreign Affairs was established, later to become the Department of State.

In 1909, Orville Wright set a world record by staying aloft in a plane for one hour, 2 minutes 40 seconds.

In 1919, 38 persons were killed when a race riot broke out on a Chicago beach.

In 1954, Britain and Egypt agreed on terms ending the 72-year British occupation of the Suez Canal.

A thought for the day: French writer Alexander Dumas said, "Business? It is quite simple. It's other people's money."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

By Refusing Spade Trick South Can Pull Off Three No Trump

If you got the ghastly East hand in the national bridge tournament now in progress in Minneapolis, you wouldn't complain about your luck. Your score would be compared only with other players who held that terrible East hand.

SHOULD REFUSE

Most experts would come a cropper with the East hand because they would be too busy moaning about their bad luck to see that East can make a key play.

South would refuse the first spade trick but would win the second and would lead a diamond to dummy's king. The average East (even many experts) would play the eight of diamonds. Then declarer would lead another diamond from dummy, and East would have to win with the jack.

Now East returns a heart, but South takes the ace of hearts and leads another diamond. South still has the ace of spades, and makes two spades, one heart, three diamonds and three clubs, making his contract.

SHOULD UNBLOCK

East should unblock the diamonds by dropping the jack under dummy's king. If declarer continues the suit, West gets in with the ten of diamonds to knock out the ace of spades. West gets in again with the ace of diamonds to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

SEEMS CRUEL

South does no better if he abandons the diamonds. If he takes the ace of hearts and leads a heart toward dummy, declarer gets two heart tricks but needs three to make his contract. West has time to defeat the contract with the spades.

It seems cruel that when you hold a hand with no high card except one jack you must throw away your jack at your first opportunity. Lady Luck is a joker.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ Q J 10 9 5
♥ K J 9 3

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade or pass.

Some experts would open this borderline hand, but others would pass it. If the jack of hearts were changed to the queen, the hand would be a clear opening bid.

Uranus, Venus Still Pose Mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — Astronomers don't understand all about the solar system yet, says Pace College professor of astronomy, Dr. Sune Engelbrektsen. Why the planet Uranuis is tilted 97 degrees on its axis and why Venus rotates and revolves clockwise when most planets and satellites spin counterclockwise is not known.

Today Is 9 Thermidor, Anniversary To Ponder

Today is 9 Thermidor by the French revolutionary calendar, the anniversary of the end of the Great Terror.

France can never forget the Terror. Paris is marked, physically, mentally, and morally, by what went on there for 13 months in 1793 and 1794, during the darkest period of the revolutionary government. Nor was the Terror confined to Paris. It was carried out also in those provinces which had revolted against the Jacobin regime. The city of Lyons was virtually destroyed by order of the Committee of Public Safety — or of Maximilien Robespierre, who headed it.

During the 13 months of the Terror, 1,982 died under the blade of the guillotine in Paris — 1,366 of them during the last three months, after the "Law of 22 Prairal" took away the right of an accused person to defend himself against the charges. Those who thus died ranged from the former nobility to the common people of Paris. Thousands more filled the prisons, and would have been put to death had not Robespierre and 22 of his henchmen died in their stead, the last victims of the revolutionary guillotine after his overthrow on 9 Thermidor.

YET ALL THIS came about because of high idealism.

The members of the Fench National Convention, which created the Committee of Public Safety to start the Terror and passed the Law of 22 Prairal to take away the last legal rights of the citizens, were not a throng of bloodthirsty cut-throats. They were, in the main, idealists. They dreamed of an ideal society. What they did was done to the motto of "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity."

Maximilien Robespierre pushed through each more restrictive and more terrible law in the name of "public virtue."

But Robespierre, his fellow Jacobins, and the delegates he so strongly influenced became victims of their own idealism. They became convinced that a dark conspiracy was afoot to overthrow the newly born republic. And so, to protect their ideal society against this imagined menace, they plunged Paris into the Terror.

THE MIND OF MAN has not changed so much since 1794.

In those 13 months of the Terror, the guillotine claimed 1,982 lives in the name of "liberty, equality, fraternity."

In the last seven years, more than 25,000 Americans have given their lives in Vietnam in the name of "liberation from the communist menace." Since the U.S. assumed the role of fighting partner of South Vietnam, our military command claims to have killed more than a quarter million of the enemy. There are no figures on how many civilians have been slain there.

Like the French revolution, the U.S. involvement in Vietnam was undertaken with high motives. And just as the Jacobins found need for greater and greater excesses to protect and defend "liberty, equality, fraternity," we have found need for deeper and deeper involvement, for greater and greater sacrifice of our own youth and of the Vietnamese population, to "liberate" South Vietnam from communism.

There may be a lesson in that to ponder on 9 Thermidor.

Blackberry Tangles

When we were kids and read about Br'er Rabbit escaping from Br'er Fox by plunging headlong into the briar patch, we knew, of course, that the briars were sharp and thorny. But it was hard to imagine anything prickly enough to slow down a hungry fox with a rabbit dinner on its mind.

Since moving to Marin many years ago, we ceased to be bothered by the image. For growing all about the old house we bought were immense blackberry tangles. They would stop the fox, maybe the rabbit too. They certainly caused us to pause for moments of thorn-inflicted suffering.

Over 20 years have passed and although they are banished from our garden, they must constantly be fought. Birds carry the seeds to start new plants, and ancient plants send out green, young, thorny branches from unused land next door to remind us that we may have won the battle, but we haven't won the war.

Leave your garden alone for a year and we'll take over again, they seem to be silently saying. They appear to be waiting.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to Dixie School District trustees for cutting the tax rate by 15 cents, and for taking a hard look at the activities of organizations to which the district pays membership fees.

BRICKBAT to Gov. Ronald Reagan for vetoing Assemblyman William T. Bagley's AB740, which would have prohibited self-perpetuating "lame duck" appointments by local boards.

BOUQUETS to producers of the Marin Shakespeare Festival, off on another great season, and of the Marin City Afro-Arts Festival last week end.

NEW PROTECTION FROM SHARKS

A "shark shield" can now protect fliers and others who find themselves adrift in shark-infested waters.

The device, tested successfully both in the Atlantic and Pacific, is a black plastic bag carried in the pocket of a life vest.

The survivor can open it to a length of five feet, fill it with sea water, slip inside and orally inflate three rows of air-flotation chambers at the bag's top. The strange-looking object tends to frighten sharks and relieve the fears of the man inside.

Researchers find it effective even against famished sharks, which avoid the bags although pieces of fish were thrown to them nearby.

Man's resourcefulness against hostile forces is one reason for his continuing survival.

Sadly, our most persistent threat comes from other people and the undisciplined forces within our own human nature. The twofold remedy, put at our disposal by a loving Creator, consists in a prudent but generous love of others and growth in self-mastery.

"He encircled him, He cared for him, He kept him as the apple of His eye."
(Deuteronomy 32:10)

Stir up in our hearts, Lord, a spirit of outgoing love to surmount the onrush of fear.

News item: "A survey of seven days of network television shows revealed 81 killings in 85½ hours of programming in prime evening hours and on Saturday morning."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Precious Liberty Of Dogs Threatened

Who does Mrs. Eikrem think she is? (Bjorn Eikrem, "What Our Readers Say," July 22.) Is she not aware that the Constitution guarantees the right of all to possess dogs, and that their liberty may not be infringed? It is just as we dog nuts feared — first licensing, and now a move to lock them up.

The well trained animal has special characteristics. The depositing of large and fragrant messes will always be done on a neighbor's property, to spare the owner the cleanup chore. It is perfectly all right, and indeed shows a lively spirit, to bite other people's children; but strictly against the rules to bite one of the family, resulting in an immediate trip to the pound. Barking, especially in the middle of the night, is considered excellent exercise for the vocal cords, though the superior canine makes sure that this activity is indulged in at least a block from home.

Mrs. Eikrem, in suggesting that people should be put ahead of dogs, you are attacking our fundamental rights. I would recommend a public retraction, or you will find yourself being ostracized at the PTA.

In the Far East, the cow is sacred and they eat the dogs. Here, we eat the cows and worship the dog. It takes all kinds, I suppose, and both systems have some merit, though perhaps a middle course might be more intelligent.

Writers Display Own Irresponsibility

For weeks now your paper has been flooded with letters defending guns and the right to use them, nor do they want to license them as we license our cars, boats, trailers and dogs. This in itself shows they are not tesponsible citizens and are the very people who should never have a weapon of any kind.

A responsible citizen would be glad to license their guns and be relieved in the fact that when they disposed of said guns they would be duly recorded and not apt to fall into the wrong hands. . . .

Let us hope there are enough of us who deplore violence to maintain the humane standards of the American people and to help erase the vicious image we are fast acquiring throughout the world. This will not be easy inasmuch as our own governor is touring the country at this moment encouraging people to arm themselves against each other. Surely this is deplorable to any decent-thinking American and shows so clearly how dangerous the wrong leadership can be. . . .

Who Would Replace Recalled Reagan?

Since the Marin chairman and other leaders of the Recall Reagan campaign are Peace and Freedom members, I wonder:

What candidate will this extremely active group support for governor?

If the recall should manage to qualify, and should pass, a separate vote on the same ballot will elect our new governor. A tiny minority of California voters could easily choose him.

Before you sign — before you vote — think!

Silence Of Left Again Deafening

For years our left has proclaimed a desire for more freedom, more decent treatment of our citizens and a strong opposition to United States "intervention" in Vietnam. All over the world the left has assaulted our embassies and demonstrated against our country.

Now a small country, this time in middle Europe, struggling for some freedom is threatened by a large country, Russia. When Israel's existence was threatened by Russian armament intervention and Arab aggression our left and the world's left was silent (although the people of this country certainly weren't). Again not a demonstration before Russian embassies, no demonstration anywhere, no sit-ins, no teach-ins, no word from Candidate Drath, etc.

Surely there must be a segment of the Left somewhere that is not only motivated by a "hate America" emotion and truly believes in freedom and humane relations for everyone. The silence is again deafening.

Auto And Horse Both Indispensable

Thank you for your wonderful editorial of Saturday, July 20.

While the automobile is indispensable to today's civilization and economic well-being, it is also true that for many of us the horse is indispensable to our emotional and physical well-being.

You are so right — let's keep horses, health and happiness available to all who want them.

GOP Governors Blow It Again: Fail To Solidly Support Rocky

CINCINNATI — The Republican governors have blown it again.

They are the most prestigious, potentially most influential group of GOP political leaders and it is evident by now that their power at the nominating convention next month is going to be more than zero — but not much more.

All along the substantial majority of them wanted to nominate Nelson Rockefeller, but it appears they will end up helping to nominate Richard Nixon.

At the very least most of them were hopeful that they could build a sufficiently big bloc of favorite son delegates that would keep the nomination open for two or more ballots to see if second thoughts couldn't be generated.

IT ISN'T WORKING out that way. The evidence is that the favorite-son holding operation isn't holding, and the prospect is that the Republican host to the governors' conference — Ohio's popular Jim Rhodes — knowing a trend when he sees one, may add his crucial 58-vote delegation to Nixon's total.

Today Republican governors govern 26 states containing nearly 60 per cent of the population and possessing more than enough electoral votes to elect the next President. And what is the peak position which they will command at the convention? Deputy chairman of the platform committee!

THE GOP GOVERNORS blew it in 1964 when they couldn't even find a candidate to contest Goldwater until it was too late.

They are blowing it in 1968 because — though they have a candidate the majority would prefer, Rockefeller — they simply do not have the will, the leadership, and the cohesion to do much about it.

It would be wrong to leave the impression that the governors who like Rockefeller dislike Nixon or think his nomination would be a calamity. They think Nixon would be a good candidate but that Rockefeller would be a better one. They think that Nixon could well win but that Rockefeller would be more certain to win.

Then why, on this thinking, have the Republican governors proved themselves so impotent in the most vital decision of the party — the choice of its presidential nominee?

Recurringly, nearly every four years, there is tall talk that the GOP governors, especially when they rule in the big states, will combine to exert a deciding influence on the nomination, but this concerted influence never seems to materialize.

THERE ARE AT LEAST two reasons this year.

One is that a considerable number of Republican governors do not have effective control of their own party organizations either in selecting delegates to the convention or in determining whom they will support. They may be popular governors, they may be strong governors. For example, Volpe of Massachusetts, Agnew of Maryland, Shafer of Pennsylvania, Rhodes of Ohio, and Romney of Michigan not only can't agree on a candidate but they couldn't be sure of delivering their delegations if they could agree.

Rockefeller himself must bear some of the responsibility for the inability of the moderate governors to coalesce behind him.

In retrospect, it seems to me that he made what have proved to be three mistakes: (1) he pushed Romney when he should have gone after the nomination himself from the start; (2) when Romney faltered, Rockefeller, instead of jumping into the race, said he would not actively seek the nomination; (3) then, too late, he decided to go after it in a climate of crash desperation.

As far back as I can remember, the Republican governors have not decisively influenced a presidential nomination. And from the way things are now going they will not do so in the year 1968.

If the convention should surprisingly reject Nixon and Reagan in favor of Rockefeller, it won't be the governors who do it.

A SENATOR'S NOTEBOOK

Much Done In Advance On Republican Platform

By EVERETT McKINLEY DIRKSEN

In another week the Republican Party's quadrennial convention to nominate a presidential candidate will be held in Miami. An all-important function of the convention — and the Democratic convention three weeks later — will be to adopt a party platform for the edification and guidance of the voters.

How did political platforms and, in fact, political parties come into being? They developed out of great necessity.

Although the Constitution is silent on the subject of parties, it was inevitable that they should develop from the simple fact of human differences over policies of government.

POLITICAL PARTIES, party platforms and formal election campaigns have been realities in the life of the United States ever since 1856, when the Democrat convention in Cincinnati nominated James Buchanan for President and the Republican convention nominated John C. Fremont.

Within the framework of the party platform and the campaign, candidates bearing party labels are nominated and elected. They base their appeals to the voters in part on the platform. The platform, however, cannot include every suggestion for a plank. If such were done, then every platform would become a veritable book as to length.

Probably the shortest platform ever drafted was that of the Republican Party in 1856. It contained 350 words in all. The Democratic platform of 1932 was also quite short. And you can be sure that those platforms were more readily and easily read and, of course, understood, than the 10,000-word platforms that are the usual bill of fare.

OVER THE YEARS a specific pattern for the development of the party platform has been followed. In the case of the Republican Party —and of the Democratic Party, with some modification —a man and a woman from each of the states and territories or possessions are selected to become members of the platform committee. This is then divided into subcommittees. The members take testimony and hear witnesses and then submit their recommendations to the full platform committee.

The 1968 Republican platform-makers are lucky. In addition to the wisdom and background which the 106 members have brought to the task of drafting the platform, they have 47 position papers from which to draw. Those papers have been developed by task forces — consisting of very knowledgeable people — for the benefit of the Republican National Coordinating Committee, organized in 1965.

Then there is also the voluminous report which was compiled by the Republican Governors' Conference. The conference designated a number of governors to appear in nine cities to hold hearings so that the Republican Party could get the benefit of the public viewpoint. Other studies, including the statements of the Joint Republican Leadership in Congress, also were available to the platform-makers.

The testimony has been digested, the recommendations have been made, the entire platform committee has taken action and the whole result is about to be presented to the national convention in Miami for adoption or rejection.

They're Going To Cool Chicago's Amphitheater For The Democrats

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO — The International Amphitheater, which has housed more Democratic and Republic national conventions than all but two cities, is ready to do it again.

The Democratic National Convention, opening Aug. 26, will be its fifth.

It's an old function. But new touches have been added since the most recent nominating session.

Air conditioning has been installed in the wings of the main hall — called the Arena — and additional cooling has been placed in the Arena itself to offset heat from extra lights.

The rostrum will be built in the center of the north side. It will be flanked by benches for working newsmen. An island will be constructed in the middle of the Arena for cameramen. The rest of the floor will be used for seats and aisles.

The delegates, numbering 3,000, will have seats on the main floor level.

Alternate delegates, numbering 2,512, will occupy seats at two levels on the south side.

Newspaper, magazine, news service and radio and television newsmen, numbering 2,000, will have two levels of seats on the north side.

Spectators will occupy boxes surrounding the main floor and at the east and west ends of the upper level seats.

The total, said Meek, will be 10,000.

The wings, to the north and south of the Arena, will contain news workrooms, radio-TV studios, convention offices, caucus rooms, candidates' quarters, a cafeteria and a lounge.

The amphitheater, built in 1934, is made of white stone and brick. It stands at Forty-third and Halsted streets at the eastern edge of the Chicago stockyards. It is five miles southwest of the city's main business district.

At the thump of the opening gavel, the amphitheater will be tied with St. Louis in the number of Republican and Democratic nominating conventions each has handled since 1856 — five. Philadelphia has had seven.

Democrats met in the amphitheater in 1956 and Republicans in 1960. Both met there in 1952.

Will Taxpayer Revolt On Nov. 5?

Plebiscite Set On Sharp Property Tax Reductions

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Nov. 5 is the date for a revolt by disgruntled California taxpayers if indeed they are ready to revolt.

On that day, the state's voters will have an opportunity to clamp a strict limit on property taxes, which raise an estimated $4 billion a year for operation of local governments.

The general election ballot proposition is called the "Watson initiative" since its prime mover is Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson.

It's a way for the property taxpayer to vote a 50 per cent cut in his tax bill, Watson supporters say.

Legislators, state finance officials and other cringe at the financial problems passage of the proposition could create.

TWO BARRELS

The initiative has two basic features:

1. Beginning July 1, 1969, it would limit the property tax imposed for government services, other than education and welfare, to 1 per cent of market value of the property.

2. It would phase out entirely the levying of property taxes for support of education and welfare by mid-1973.

Everyone agrees the property tax has become too burdensome, says Deputy Finance Director Charles Dixon, but the Watson approach creates more problems than it would solve.

Watson's reasoning behind his plan:

"The people of California have been promised property tax relief by every candidate, every member of the Legislature, and the governor for the last five years, but all they've gotten is promises.

"It seems apparent that unless the people take direct action to force the Legislature to move toward an overhaul of the total tax system there is never going to be any property tax relief."

'THEIR PROBLEM'

Watson has no recommendation of his own on where the $2 billion or so in lost tax revenue should come from. One day in the Assembly last week he waved his arm toward the seated legislators and said, "That's their problem."

Problem indeed, says the Assembly's Republican leader, Robert T. Monagan of Tracy.

"I shudder to think of the reaction to a state income tax bill that was three times the amount paid this year," Monagan said in a statement.

Nobody has reached the point of drafting an alternate financing plan. They cross their fingers the plan will lose. But most fiscal experts agree the sales tax and the income taxes are the most likely sources of revenue to make up for the property tax loss.

The sales tax could be boosted from the present 5 per cent to 11 cents on the dollar "and that still wouldn't cover the minimum $2 billion required in the initial phase of the Watson plan," Monagan added.

"For the sales tax to make up this loss it would have to be applied to items which are now exempt, possibly even food and medicine."

PHILIP E. WATSON
Controversial plan's author

Gov. Ronald Reagan pressed the Legislature this year for approval of a bill to give counties $155 million in property tax relief funds, but the measure was rejected by the Senate last Monday. Whether any alternate plan can get through the Legislature before adjournment is a matter of pure speculation.

ADDED FUEL

Rejection of the $155 million property relief plan, pledged by the Legislature and Reagan in passage of the $1 billion tax hike in 1967, was certain to add fuel to the Watson drive.

But already, a highly organized opposition is battling for defeat.

The group is called "Californians Against the Tax Trap Initiative" and its slogan is "don't walk into the tax trap."

Cochairmen are Robert C. Brown of the California Taxpayers Association, Jack Rees of the California Teachers Association and Joseph Diviny of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

They contend that "only major land speculators and landlords" will benefit from the Watson plan, even though it appealingly is billed as a general tax relief measure. The result would be "disastrous bedlam," said Brown, Rees and Diviny.

Watson calls such opposition "pure hysteria."

LOBBYISTS BLAMED

Watson says legislators have listened to the pleas for property relief from businessmen because "those are people who have lobbyists in Sacramento."

"A classic example is in the motion picture industry on the plea it is a distressed industry," Watson said.

The 1968 Legislature has voted more than $2 million in property tax relief to the motion picture industry and the bill is on Reagan's desk.

"But the homeowner doesn't have a lobbyist and isn't organized and can't make himself felt," Watson says.

"When the people have property tax revolts they come and storm the (county) supervisors' meetings or hang the assessor in effigy because they're relatively close to the supervisors and the assessor. It's much more difficult to descend en masse on the Legislature."

The property tax has been the backbone of local government financing in California. This past year's rates ranged from $4.92 for each $100 of assessed property valuation in Plumas County to a high of $11.15 in Alameda County.

The average is $8.84, the state Board of Equalization says.

This means the property owner pays about $440 a year in taxes on a house worth $20,000 on the market.

In previous statements, Reagan has agreed with the Watson contention that there is no clearly established relationship between the ownership of property and financing of education and welfare.

REFORM WARNING

When he proposed a total tax reform study, Reagan said, "One requirement is careful study of whether real property should continue to be the principal tax supporting local government. Ideally, taxes should be based upon benefits received as well as upon ability to pay.

"Heavy taxation of real property frequently violates both of these objectives. Even worse, too high real property taxes can and do discourage the attraction of new capital to California," the governor said.

But a sudden massive shift of the tax to the sales or income tax could have the same effect, if the Watson proposal wins, notes the finance department's Dixon.

The only way significant tax reform can be accomplished realistically, he added, is on a piecemeal basis. Otherwise, special interest groups would team up to defeat a comprehensive reform program.

Behind The News

This Week In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

William McMillan stepped out of his city tow truck on a quiet street in east Cleveland to take a look at a 1958 Cadillac, apparently abandoned, that he and his partner had been summoned to haul away.

Three shots from a nearby building shattered the still night and McMillan fell, wounded.

Minutes later three white policemen were dead and 10 policemen were wounded. They had been caught in a blistering crossfire when responding to the urgent plea for help radioed by McMillan's partner.

The ambush touched off a gunbattle that raged through Tuesday night and into Wednesday morning in the predominantly Negro area.

When the initial violence was over, 10 were dead and 45 wounded. Dead in addition to the policemen were three alleged Negro snipers and four Negro men who were apparently caught in the crossfire. The wounded included 19 policemen and McMillan.

Mayor Carl B. Stokes, a Negro, said the snipers were black militants. He summoned National Guardsmen to help police restore order. Then, after conferring with Negro leaders, he ordered the guardsmen and white policemen out of the troubled area.

Around The World; Around The Clock:

Saigon: The U.S. Command announced that 107 American troops were killed during the week, the smallest number since the week ending last Oct. 7 when 102 Americans were killed.

Saigon: Truong Dinh Dzu, the peace candidate in South Vietnam's 1967 presidential election, was found guilty by a military tribunal of "actions against the anti-Communist spirit of the people and the armed forces." Dzu, who advocated negotiations with the political arm of the Viet Cong, was sentenced to five years at hard labor.

Moscow: Soviet leaders agreed to meet with Czechoslovak leaders on Czech territory to discuss the Moscow-opposed reforms taking place in the Czech government. But the dispute has grown so bitter that doubts were expressed about the meeting taking place.

Washington: The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a $1.9 billion foreign aid bill, the smallest authorization in the history of foreign aid, and $48 million under the House version of the bill.

Memphis: James Earl Ray pleaded not guilty to the charge that he murdered Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. His trial was set for Nov. 12.

Washington: The House approved by a vote of 304 to 118 a bill to curb interstate mail order sales of long guns and pistol ammunition. The Senate is expected to act on the measure in September.

Sacramento: Gov. Ronald Reagan signed into law what he praised as the nation's most stringent law for outlawing smog emissions from automobiles, the law sets progressively tighter controls on auto manufacturers, and — eventually — on owners of used cars.

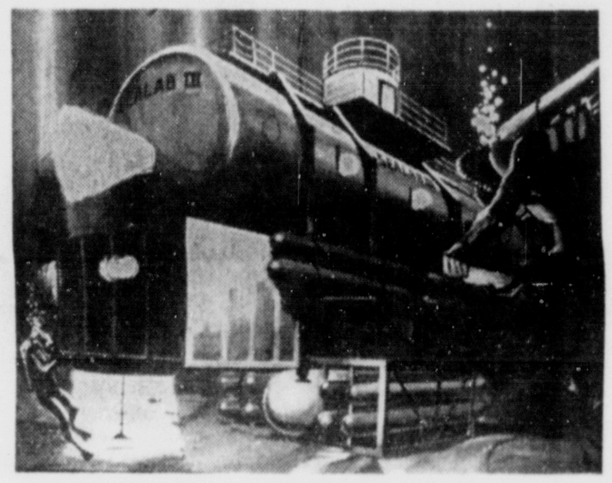
A NEW CONTINENT TO EXPLORE

Sealab III May Open Door To Ocean Shelf Expanses

By SCIENCE SERVICE

Earth's continental shelves, defined as that land sloping down beneath the ocean to a depth of 600 feet, amount to a continent in themselves. Together they cover some 11,500,000 square miles — equal to the area of Africa. In October, at least 40 men will join in the first true attempt to live and work at the deepest limit of the continental shelf.

Their home will be Sealab III, an elaborate dwelling anchored in 620 feet of water near San Clemente Island off the California coast. There, five consecutive eight-man teams of aquanauts will live for 12 days each, opening a gateway to man's exploration and use of the wet continent.



SEALAB III — Navy divers will live in "inner space" 620 feet below the ocean surface, working for the first time on the surface of the continental shelf.

The main reason for the need to live at such depths, apart from the "because-it's-there" philosophy applied to most frontiers, is the troublesome requirement for decompression when returning to the surface world. As a man descends farther into the water, he must breathe gases at ever-increasing pressures, to equalize the growing pressure of the water around him.

These gases are absorbed by the tissues of his body. If the diver surfaces too rapidly, however, the sudden change in pressure will cause the gas stored in his system to try to escape more rapidly than it can be expelled through his lungs.

The result, which can produce effects ranging from mild fatigue to bubbles in the blood bringing paralysis and death, is called the bends. The cause of this affliction has been known since the 1870's, when it was discovered by French physiologist Paul Bert.

Bert had been investigating the deaths of scores of divers and laborers working on tunnel construction. He concluded that the answer was to take care to return the workers to the surface gradually. In 1893, the first decompression chamber, designed for treating bends victims, was installed in New York to aid laborers working on the first Hudson River Tube.

If man is going to do extensive underwater work, however, especially at depths of several hundred feet, safe decompression times grow until they allow only a tiny fraction of a diver's time in the water to be spent at his maximum depth. The U. S. Navy's depth limit for hard-hat divers spending half an hour on the bottom, for example, is 380 feet, and decompression takes three hours.

It thus becomes much more economical for divers working on the ocean floor to refraim from returning to the surface at all. The technique that makes this possible is called saturation diving, and therein lies the key to man's assault on the deeps.

The groundwork research toward saturation diving began in 1957 under Captain George F. Bond, then assistant officer in charge of the Naval Medical Research Laboratory at New London, Conn. In a project named Genesis (after the "dominion over the sea" promised in the first book of the Bible), Dr. Bond first kept a variety of white rats, guinea pigs, squirrel monkeys and goats in a pressure equivalent to 200 feet of water for two weeks.

Bolstered by this success, together with additional tests of helium instead of nitrogen as the inert component in the breathing mixture, he submitted a five-page proposal for manned experiments which was later to grow into the elaborate Sealab program.

The first diver to reach saturation at significant depth in open water was Robert Stenuit, a young Belgian who spent 24 hours at a depth of 200 feet in a "submersible decompression chamber" designed by Edwin A. Link, inventor of the Link flight trainer.

In June, 1964, Stenuit and another diver made what is still the deepest saturation dive, when they sepnt 49 hours in a new Link-designed capsule, 432 feet down in the Atlantic, off the Bahamas. The following month, Dr. Bond finally got his first Sealab.

By comparison with its successors, Sealab I was a simple affair, made of two old mine floats, sectioned and welded together into a 40-foot cigar, 10 feet in diameter. Four aquanauts lived there for 11 days.

In September of 1965, Sealab II opened for occupancy off La Jolla. Besides being much larger than its predecessor (three 10-man teams lived 205 feet down for 15 days each;, Sealab II was sited in dark, cold waters, to tax the working divers to the utmost.

Sealab III will be the climax, at the full depth of the continental shelf. The aquanauts will test salvage and construction techniques, try out three kinds of heated suites (one equipped with an experimental nuclear power source), and conduct scientific research.

SOFT DELEGATITIS?

Nixon Able To Count On Midwest Support Only In Early Ballots

By DAVID SMOTHERS

CHICAGO (UPI)—The only malady Richard M. Nixon suffers in the Midwest right now is a slight case of soft delegatitis.

It probably won't amount to much on the first call of the roll at Miami Beach.

But if there is a second ballot or a third at the Republican national convention, soft delegatitis could spread. Given enough time to fester, it could be fatal to Nixon's high-flying hopes for the presidential nomination.

WITH YOU, BUT

A soft delegate is one who is with you, but not all the way. There are quite a few of them in the Middle West.

At least 14 of Iowa's 24 Republican delegates, for instance, can be counted on to vote for Nixon on the first ballot. But Iowa Republicans badly want some broad coattails to ride on and many of them have fond memories of a young sports broadcaster who used to be known around Des Moines as Slim Reagan.

In South Dakota, Nixon has the delegation sewed up in the early running by virtue of a solid primary victory and deep rooted loyalties. Yet one of his staunchest friends on the delegation says, "Let's face it. After the second ballot, we'll be looking around."

If that happens, South Dakota delegates will probably start looking at Ronald Reagan. Reagan could also do himself some good in Nebraska and Indiana. Nelson A. Rockefeller might move in on delegations from Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and possibly Iowa, despite Reagan's old ties there. Illinois and Wisconsin could become cliff hangers.

On the surface and on paper, the Middle West is Nixon country. He has worked hard at tilling it and a tally sheet of probable first ballot votes in the nine-state midwest area shows Nixon with 162, Rockefeller with 28, Reagan with 12, and 48 either uncommitted or pledged to Michigan Gov. George Romney, which may or may not amount to the same thing.

NOT YET SOLID

But the Midwest is not yet ready to deliver a solid delegation for Nixon. Minnesota's 26 votes are split down the middle, with party wheels putting on leverage to swing a majority to Rockefeller. North Dakota will send only eight delegates to the convention, but four of them could wind up voting for Rockefeller.

Michigan, with the second largest delegation in the midlands, is a special case. With the possible exception of four incurable Reagan fans from Detroit suburbia and some incipient Nixon bolters, the 48-man delegation will probably weigh in for Romney.

And there are still other devout Romneyites in and out of the delegation who have not lost the faith. Somehow, they dare to hope, the disaster of the New Hampshire snowfields will be wiped out and the Romney dream will come true at Miami Beach.

Romney maintains he isn't interested in the vice presidency. But there is a young senator from Illinois who seems made to order as running mate for a presidential candidate from either the East or West Coast.

Despite his quick-blooming national prominence, Charles Harting Percy cannot truthfully be called a favorite of the Illinois delegation. A tentative bid to win him favorite son status flopped early last spring and he does not even figure to rank as one of the major voices of the delegation.

It is unlikely, also, that any early cataclysm will shake Illinois from Nixon's tree at the convention. He should be able to count on 45 of the 58 delegates.

Still, a vice presidential nomination for one of its sons would not insult Illinois.

As a mover among Minnesota Republicans put it, "many people feel it should be either (Sen. Edward) Brooke of Massachusetts or Percy for the vice presidency if Nixon is nominated.

ON THE MOVE

Mennonites Feel Mexico Crowded

By J. PAUL WYATT

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A religious sect that "fears progress" has begun an exodus from Mexico.

The Mennonites, a small denomination of evangelical Protestants founded in 1632, emigrated from Canada to the northern Mexican state of Chihuahua in 1896.

Now, their leaders say, the desert promised land of Mexico's least populated state has become "too crowded." Farm land is no longer available in Chihuahua and, meanwhile, the number of Mennonites has increased.

About 17,000 Mennonites have picked up stakes during the last few years and headed for Bolivia. There, in the lonely forests of the Santa Cruz region, they have bought land.

Some have stopped off in the Mexican state of Zacatecas on their way to Mexico City and settled there. Zacatecas still has some land undistributed by Mexico's agrarian reform.

There are only 3,000 Mennonites left in Chihuahua.

"Chihuahua is becoming overpopulated," said Peter Van Dorck, one of the sect's patriarchs. He is a descendant of the Dutch Mennonites who fled Holland in the 15th Century during the religious persecutions.

"Mexico has progressed very much," Van Dorck told reporters who cornered him and some other Mennonites in the passport office of the Mexican foreign relations department. "It is growing. In Chihuahua we are too many now."

The Mennonites, who came to Mexico City to arrange for their passage to Bolivia, caused a sensation in the modern foreign relations building. Smartly dressed secretaries stopped what they were doing and stared.

The men were dressed in light tweed overalls, with criss-cross suspenders and wide-brimmed hats. Some of them carried hoes and other farm utensils.

The women, including the girls, wore calico dresses which fell to their ankles, high-button shoes, copper earrings and kerchiefs on their heads.

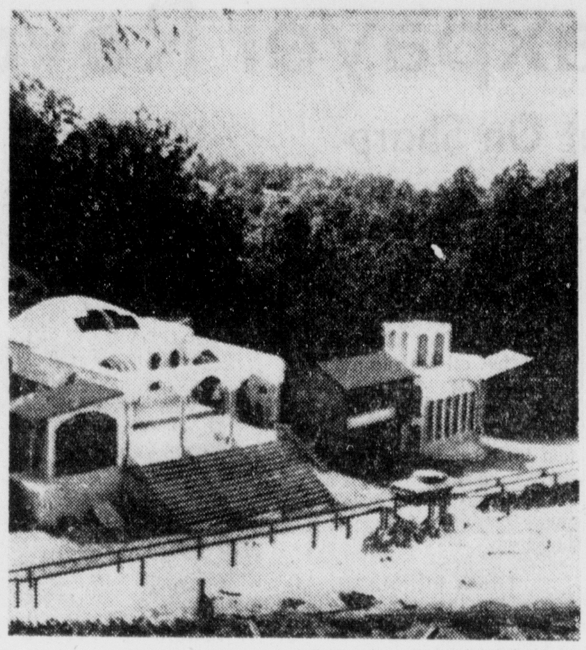
"We love the open spaces. The fertile land which man has hardly touched.

"We have bought land in Bolivia. Very fertile, beautiful land. There we will establish ourselves again, but not forever. We like to move from generation to generation."

Asked about their life in Mexico, Van Dorck replied: "Mexico has been a land like few others for our children. An entire generation was born here. Some of us arrived as early as 1896. Therefore we only have words of gratitude."



STATUE IS SETTING FOR PASSION PLAY

A giant new stage in sight of a towering statue of Christ near Eureka Springs, Ark., is the site of Passion Play performances this summer. On stage the ancient streets of Jerusalem have been reproduced with lifesize building and sets and a cast of 250 depicts the last week of Jesus Christ's life on earth. The 65-foot high statue of Christ is on adjacent Magnetic Mountain. (UPI Telephoto)

VIETNAM WAR

World Unit Asks End Of Suffering

UPPSALA, Sweden — An end "to the mortal suffering of the Vietnamese people" was called for in a resolution recently adopted on the final day of the Fourth Assembly of the World Council of Churches.

Although 20 delegates voted against it and 30 abstained, the statement was passed by an overwhelming majority, said to be in excess of 300 by Dr. Ernest A. Payne of England, and chairman of the business session.

Successful conclusion of the Paris talks was stressed as "the first priority," and each party was asked "to take risks for peace" and "modify its original position" if necessary.

The United States was urged to halt the bombing of North Vietnam and to stop using weapons of mass destruction "immediately and unconditionally." All parties were urged to stop military activities in South Vietnam.

Two American delegates, outspoken in their opposition to the Vietnam conflict, said they personally could wish for a stronger statement, but were in favor of the one before the house.

Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, professor of religion at Stanford University said the United States "bears the highest responsibility for the world horror Vietnam has become . . . not only because we have done the most damage, but because we are the strongest power."

Although there is increasing dissatisfaction in the United States over its involvement in Vietnam, Brown said "it will take world opinion to bring us to our senses."

Harold A. Bosley, one of the drafters of the statement, said "the world is too small anymore for us to say we are very far from anywhere else."

Bosley, who is senior minister of the Methodist Church in New York City, added: "Small states of the world fear the large states and justly so. Whatever we say here and whatever action we take will express the fear of the small states."

He called for a "responsible discipline" of power within the world community and said American churchmen "give you our pledge — no more Vietnams so far as we are able to prevent them, and we ask churchmen from other countries to join us in this pledge."

The document emphasizes the self-determination of the Vietnamese people and requests a strengthening of the United Nations since "the guarantee of peace should be the responsibility of international organizations."

A political solution must, in the final analysis, "be dependent upon the choice of the Vietnamese people themselves," the statement explains.

Immediate consideration for post-war aid was called for with planning of programs by churches "pushed forward as quickly as possible."

In addition, the need for massive inter-governmental aid was recognized. It should be "adequate and acceptable to the Vietnamese people," it was said, and planned for now by the world community so that it can be put into action as soon as the opportunity arises.

Eugene Carson Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, said the document would be transmitted at the highest level in Paris to Ambassador Averell Harriman and the head of the Vietnamese delegation. It also would be sent routinely to the heads of governments of the parties involved, and to the United Nations.

Church Union Step Nearer In England

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Two of Britain's Protestant churches moved closer together when the Congregationalists and the Presbyterian Church of England voted, at their assemblies in May, for union by 1970.

The new United Church, as it will be called, is expected to have nearly 300,000 members with 1,500 ministers serving 2,000 churches throughout England and Wales.

However, in approving unanimously the general principle of union, the Congregationalists made a reservation that final decisions about the form of church government as it affects a single pattern of eldership and the diaconate should be left until later.

OUTLINE COMING

This will be borne in mind when delegates from the two churches draw up their formal outline for union, which is expected to be ready by next year. The outline plan will then be studied by individual member churches of the two denominations before final acceptance, which is expected in 1970 with ratification following a year later.

The grouping together of Congregationalists and Presbyterians in the new United Church will mark the first occasion on which union is achieved between historically separated churches in this country. But the Church of England and the Methodists are discussing union, too.

NUMBER HIGH

There are about 260,000 Congregationalists in England and Wales. Presbyterians number under 40,000, although there are many more in Scotland and Northern Ireland, who are not affected by the present merger.

The laity is expected to be given an important role in the United Church, presiding at Holy Communion when necessary. Men and women will be strictly equal, with women also eligible for the ministry. Local churches will have lay elders chosen by the church to share in preaching and pastoral work.

Mass Music Draws Crowd In Mexico

By J. PAUL WYATT

CUERNAVACA, Mexico (UPI) —Siesta time in the picturesque town of Cuernavaca can be a swinging religious experience if you happen to be near the Cathedral.

To escape the burning midday sun, residents of the town, which lies in a valley about 50 miles southwest of Mexico City, can either retire to a sidewalk cafe for refreshment, sleep in a shady place or attend the "Pan American Mass" in the cavern-cool Cathedral downtown.

The most popular choice of late has been the Mass.

Said twice every Sunday since Easter Sunday 1966 at noon and at 8:00 p.m., the Pan American Mass features the folkloric songs of Mexico, Brazil and Chile played by Mexican mariachis, complete with trumpets, guitars, mandolins, violins and maracas.

Who comes to witness the Pan American Mass?

The Cathedral is packed with the poor in huaraches, who come from the villages around Cuernavaca, with the rich in leather sandals, who make the short trip from Mexico City on the weekends, and with the foreigners—Americans, French, Germans and South Americans for the most part.

MANY CURIOUS

Some come to criticize. Popular music should not distract the congregation from serious meditation, they think. Others are regular attendants, caught by the feeling of brotherhood and good will the Mass engenders. But most are just plain curious.

The crowd is so large that it spills out of doors. Many people quietly sit or stand around the pondlike baptismal font, at least a football field away from the altar, and just listen to the music.

The mariachis, who play exclusively for the Cathedral and recently made a record, don't play during the entire Mass.

Women's Zionist Group To Meet

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Mizrachi Women's Organization of America, a major religious-Zionist group, will hold a two-country convention this year. The 43rd annual meeting will open in Jerusalem Aug. 5 and close six weeks later in New York.

Between the two sessions, touring delegates will visit Mizrachi Women's projects, participating in special sessions held in vocational high schools, children's villages, settlement houses and community centers operated in Israel by American Mizrachi Women.

156 New Churches

Archbishop Asks For Lustier Hymns

LONDON (AP) — The church needs to "get with it" in modernizing its music, says England's Archbishop of York, Donald Coggan. Saying there ought to be some lusty new hymns for the church, he added:

"Why should we make lusty young men and women refer to themselves as 'frail and trembling ships,' or sing hymns which make them tell the Almighty that they desire 'to flee this world of tears and arrive on heaven's doorstep forthwith'?"

Return To Sudan

Church Service Sending Tons Of Food To Biafra

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Five tons of Church World Service-donated food and medical supplies have been sent by air to 13,000,000 starving Biafrans penned inside blockaded Eastern Nigeria.

Other shipments of split beans (276,000 pounds) and additional medical and hospital materials (1,213 pounds) sailed for Lagos, Nigeria, from New York July 13.

CWS contributions to Biafra and Nigeria refugees now total approximately a quarter of a million dollars. CWS has previously sent several hundred thousand dollars worth of food and medicines to refugees within the warring nations. The five tons of food and medicine were flown to Biafra aboard a World Council of Churches charter flight.

A shipment of 500 tons of stockfish (dried fish) donated by the Norwegian churches was recently delivered to Fernando Po island and is being shuttled into Biafra for distribution.

Some 3,000 tons of food, medicines and other relief materials donated by voluntary agencies are presently only a few hours transportation distance from starving Biafrans. Another 1,700 tons of supplies are stockpiled in Lagos. All the food and materials are immovable until the officials of Biafra and Nigeria agree on an acceptable shipping route into Biafra.

Retarded And Handicapped Enjoy Wednesday Sessions

By ELIZABETH VON KAHL

"Here comes Miss Hochade!"

Pupils at the MARC (Marin Aid for Retarded Children) Marin Work Training Center in Lucas Valley look forward each Wednesday to the arrival of their attractive young teacher for a dancing class.

Of the 28 training center pupils now enrolled, coming from as far away as Cotati, more than half usually participate in this hour of ballroom instruction donated by a volunteer worker who owns a dancing studio.

"ALL OF THE students aren't here on Wednesday. Otherwise, there would be even more attending this class," according to Mrs. Lorraine Barry, program coordinator at the center.

Teacher Veronica Hochade finds that the dancing hour "brings out sociability, as well as poise, coordination and balance" in these young adults, who are trainable mentally retarded or physically handicapped.

Although the dancing hour provides a fun period in the trainees' week, the training in muscular coordination serves a dual purpose. As students step to the beats of waltz, cha cha, rhumba, or swing records, they are developing better coordination for their work hours.

THE STEREO record player at the center was provided by Robert Kelly-Denham, owner of the Arthur Murray Dance Studio in San Anselmo. Proceeds from a studio dress rehearsal for a dance exhibition were used to purchase the machine as a replacement for an obsolete model.

Students at the center learn on the job to do assembly production work for various industries under contract to the program. They handle such jobs as assembling winch-holders and binocular-holders for boats, putting out an average of 300 a day.

The accomplishment of simple assembly work by the trainees cuts the cost for manufacturers and provides valuable rehabilitation as well as modest pay for the students.

NEXT STEP, for those who qualify, may hopefully be a job with one of the companies involved, according to Mrs. Barry.

Buildings which house the center were provided by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. Salaries for the staff, headed by J. Louis Yetter, are paid by community service groups, such as United Cerebral Palsy, and by a Babcock Endowment grant.

The center was recently approved for state and federal funding, as well.

Students, not less than 16 years old, are referred to the center by their parents, the Marin County Welfare Department, the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, or by other agencies involved with handicapped or retarded children. There is no maximum age restriction.

Three years ago, Robert Kelly-Denham offered to establish the Wednesday dancing class and was its first teacher for a year. Since then, he has sent a man or woman teacher, sometimes both, to instruct the class.

At the center, Arthur Murray doesn't always teach dancing in a hurry. The instruction requires great patience, according to Miss Hochade, but she finds it is "rewarding work to see improvement in the students' personalities, as well as in physical movements."

Only a few of the many students at his San Anselmo studio are aware of Kelly-Denham's charitable activities. Aside from the class, he sponsors a champagne party each November to raise money for LARC (Ladies Aid to Retarded Children), an auxiliary to MARC.

Among other volunteer jobs, he has provided a dancing class for the blind in the Bay Area for 10 years.

Nature Study For Teachers

Fairfax Faculty Members Learn Of Environment

Conservation and environmental education are two of the most important and most challenging fields confronting man and his schools today.

"How can the lessons of conservation most effectively be taught in our schools?"

A pilot program tested this past spring in the Fairfax School District and scheduled for further use in another Marin district during the approaching school year is being eyed as one of the more promising answers to that question.

LAST SPRING, the Fairfax district granted 12 teachers in its Manor, Deer Park, Central and White Hill schools "released time" from their regular teaching duties so that they could study environmental education.

The teachers of kindergarten through the eighth grade classes did their studying in an unusual program co-sponsored by three organizations — Natural Science Education Resources, a group of professional biologists who developed and conducted the program; the National Audubon Society, which provided the funds to hire the NSER personnel, and the Fairfax Board of Education which voted the finances necessary to give the teachers the required released time.

THEY WERE Dale Elliott of Mill Valley, the director of the program; Rembert Kinsley of Ross, NSER coordinator, and Virginia Havel of Ross.

NANNY THE GOAT, a long-time resident of the Richardson Bay Wildlife Sanctuary maintained by the Audubon Society, becomes the focal point for a discussion of herbivores between instructor Dale Elliott, right, and teacher-student Ellen Brenemen of Fairfax's Central School. The occasion is one of the sessions held at the sanctuary as 12 Fairfax faculty members received a special indoctrination in environmental education. (Photos by Gerrie Reichard)

Their program had two prime objectives: to acquaint the selected teachers with the natural areas around their schools, and to show them how to use those outdoor areas and the available life forms in their science courses.

The training was divided into four phases. First, there was a backgrounding in ecology, stressing man's interaction with the natural world. Then a study of the natural history and ecology to be found in the plants and animals in the immediate vicinity of each school. Next, professional assistance in analyzing those specific biological communities.

The Fairfax faculty members were released from their classroom responsibilities for three full days that were spent at the Richardson Bay Wildlife Sanctuary at Tiburon, and for another series of three two-hour sessions conducted in the natural area around each of the schools.

At the sanctuary, owned and managed by the Audubon Society, teachers received their introduction to ecology, outdoor teaching and other basic concepts of science and its instruction.

AT THEIR OWN individual schools, the teachers then had an opportunity to apply those concepts to the environment just outside their classrooms, and to develop material for their individual teaching needs.

A major portion of that workshop time was spent out-of-doors where the teachers were engaged in "learning by doing."

Sensory training was emphasized, so that the teachers in turn could later help their students to sharpen their own senses for best learning.

The teachers were familiarized with the plants and animals in the natural areas contiguous to their schools, and with the over-all processes and inter-relationships of the whole natural world — with nature's balanced scheme of things.

AS EVERY TEACHER knows, one of the best ways of learning is by doing. So Fairfax teachers Isabel Cartwright, Katherine Manley, Lucy Bozeman, Ellen Brenemen and Sharon Tierney furthered their outdoor education by using the ozalid process to produce silhouettes of some of nature's patterns.

THE WORKING OUT of a balanced freshwater aquarium provided them with a striking demonstration of how the vital inter-relationships of plants and animals can be dramatized.

Hand-rubbed ink prints and ozalid prints were activities that integrated nature and art, and which served to develop an awareness of shape and form in nature.

The participating teachers mapped lesson plans. Then, in their closing session, they worked directly with their students to test those plans under supervision of the Natural Science Education Resources staff.

At its conclusion, instructors and their teacher-students alike rated the program a complete success.

The 12 participants this fall will be putting to even greater use the knowledge and experience they accumulated in the spring, much more comfortable and assured now in their approaches to outdoor teaching.

The teaching methods they have worked out, they believe, will stimulate their young pupils, leaving them dissatisfied with easy answers and causing them to seek solid satisfaction for their curiosity.

THE TEACHERS, themselves, have gained a new enthusiasm,

"What Can I Do With The Many Summer Stains?"

We appear to have more stains on clothing in summer than at any other time. Perhaps it is because we wear lighter-colored garments, because we perspire more, use more deodorants and submit to the hazards of picnic-play and lunches.

Summer stains, if ignored, tend to set and become more difficult to remove. It is well to rinse a stain at once and then turn your garment over to a professional cleaner who knows what to do with difficult stains. He has the spotting equipment and is trained in spot removal of all types. It is best to let him know just what caused the spot you want removed.

Beverages containing sugar will make brown stains when exposed to heat; coffee, especially when cream and sugar have been added, make a difficult spot; mustard, catsup and berries can give even a professional a headache.

So rinse a stain immediately, then have your stained garment placed in your cleaner's expert hands. He'll know what to do with it and how to do it.

THE IDEA behind the Fairfax School District program was to prepare the teachers so that they could in turn inspire interest among their students in nature and stimulate creativity. Paul Hesse, left, and Fred Harris make hand-rubbed ink prints from botanical forms collected in the vicinity of the Deer Park School.

And, unanimously, they expressed the belief that their colleagues in other Marin County schools should have the benefits of the same training. Some fellow teachers not selected for the program, it was noted, have already been borrowing material from the resource manual and experimenting with outdoor teaching on their own.

Pleased with the outcome of the pilot program, the National Audubon Society has agreed to sponsor a similar training course for the teachers of another Marin district during the coming school year. Interested districts have been invited to contact Mrs. Kingsley or Miss Elliott for information.

Cooperating again with Audubon will be Natural Science Education Resources, also highly elated by the success of the latest wrinkle in its varied program of field trips, extension courses, workshops and other outdoor programs, by which it attempts to bring home to adults and children alike a realization of the riches of nature, and of the importance of safeguarding and securing that treasury.

THE STREAM that runs through the grounds of Fairfax's Manor School became a beehive of activity as fifth graders enjoyed the excitement of nature discoveries. They were accompanied by Kenneth Lucas, principal of the school, and Dale Elliott of the Natural Science Education Resources staff.

THE FACES of John Williams and Ron O'Callaghan mirror their interest and in- they observe nature outside their Deer Park School and collect spores they will grow in a mold garden, using scientific methods.

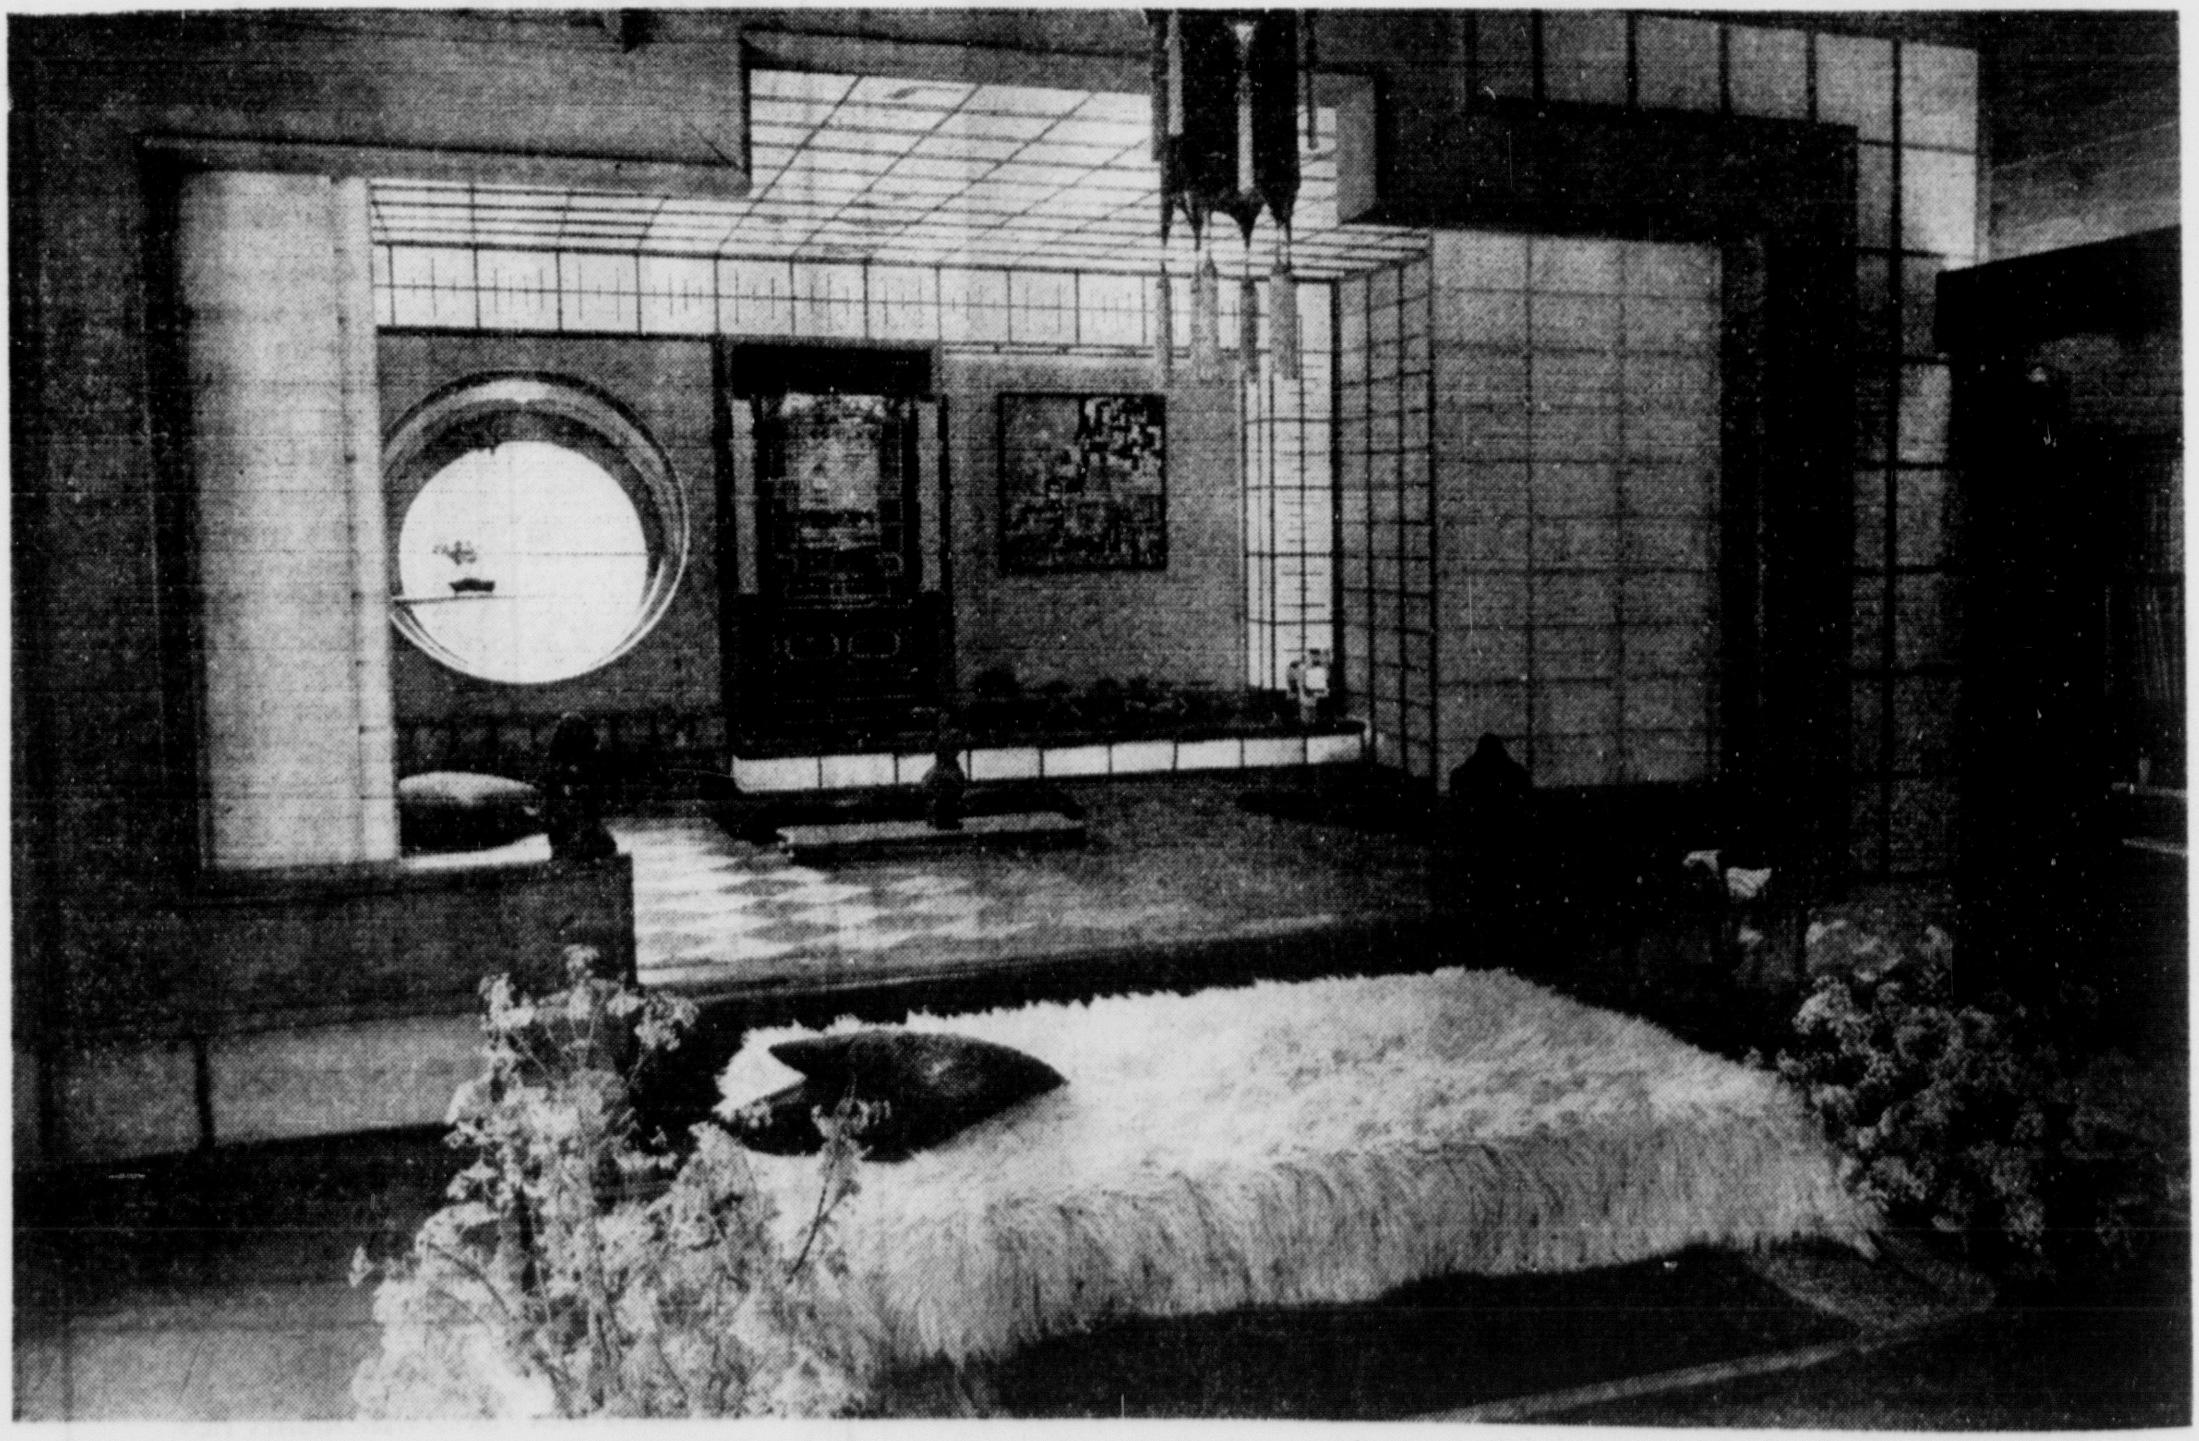
LIVING AND SLEEPING areas flow together in the Mount Tamalpais home of designer Roger Somers. The king-size bed is recessed to floor level and surrounded by colorful ceramic tile. A dining table that doubles as a bed sits in a pit below the raised meditation room. Diners sit comfortably on velvet padded seats with a backrest provided by the floor itself. Sliding Japanese doors adjust for privacy in all areas of the house.



RELAXATION AREAS that do double duty are an interesting feature of the Somers home. Here the recessed Japanese-style dining table has become, with the addition of a queen-size mattress and hand-loomed throw, a luxurious guest bed or lounging area. An authentic carved Buddhist shrine is the focal point of the raised meditation room.

American Bedrooms Are Focal Points In The New Homes

Certainly they are reflected in the bedrooms of his own secluded Mount Tamalpais home. And in many of the newly built or remodeled and expanded older homes of Marin County.

THERE'S A NEW emphasis, he says, on such amenities as the dressing room and the bath suite. There is a freer flow between the living and sleeping areas. Indeed, the bedroom today is far more than just a place for sleeping. It is often a waking hour refuge for its occupants.

And to accommodate the increased length of the human frame, beds have become truly "people-size," as opposed to the restrictive, cramped space of the old so-called "double bed."

The king-size bed reigns as the ultimate, offering 50 per cent more sleeping space than the old 54-inch double bed. And, says the designer, a room as small as 12-by-14-foot with well-placed doors and windows can accommodate a king-size bed with good grace.

THE NEW standard-size double bed is now referred to as "queen-size." Its 60-by-80-inch innerspring mattress is six inches wider and five inches longer than the old double size.

The increase in creativity and imagination being shown by Americans in their home decor is demonstrated strikingly in the bedroom by the use of such devices as headboards covered with furs, velvets, brocades and leather that add richness to the bed and make it the focal point of the room.

Bedspreads provide another opportunity for the utilization of individual ingenuity and artistic taste. Today's are more colorful and more beautiful than ever before, Somers says.

With increased bed and room space, with greater comfort and color, with more attractive surroundings, the bedroom challenges the kitchen and the living room as the principal point of pride in today's home.

SUMMER is carnival time in Marin County. And all around the county, the traveling fun shows have been setting up on open fields, playgrounds and shopping center parking lots. Here the Mill Valley hills formed the backdrop as the Great Western Show prepared to open under auspices of the local Optimist Club. Early arrivals were already on the grounds, and testing the rides. It's Summer And Carnival Time Again

By GIL PEARSON

Uninhibited shrieking from young throats and the staccato chanting of the pitchmen attest once again, these days, to the popularity in Marin County of the time-honored summer carnival.

The thrills and fun of the ferris wheel, the merry-go-round, the fluffed-up and sticky cotton candy, the catchy hurdy-gurdy tunes, the flickering colored light bulbs and the gratification that comes from a triumphant ringing of a dolly with a wooden hoop are apparently as much a part of the season in 1968 as they were a generation or more generations ago.

"Step right up and try your luck!" barks the apple-cheeked, straw hatted pitchman in red-striped shirt with black arm bands, his 10-inch cigar flapping to and fro as he waves aloft his natty yellow bamboo cane.

AND STEP RIGHT up, they do — kids, and kids-at-heart. In a rush. Every summer. All around the county as the carnivals make their rounds.

It has been pretty much that way since around 1835 when P. T. Barnum presented his first exhibition, which consisted of Joice Heth, who, he claimed, was the nurse of George Washington.

The other day we dropped in on Ray Cox, owner of the Great Western Show, as he was setting up his carnival in Mill Valley.

"CARNYS" ARE spin-offs from the original Barnum circus internationally touted as "The Greatest Show on Earth," according to vigorous and affable Cox, a married man with a son in the Navy.

"While Barnum and Bailey along with Ringling Brothers employed thousands, my payroll consists of some 21 regular hands," he revealed. "In addition, we usually hire on-the-spot roustabouts at each engagement. This leaves some money behind, as is also the case when percentages are distributed to local sponsors, such as the Optimist Club here in Marin."

Cox recalled that promoters of the old-time big shows were compelled competitively to be far-reaching in imagination when it came to scrambling about for publicity. For instance, there was the outrageous stunt pulled off on a bewildered cop who investigated a traffic snarl-up only to find the sideshow armless man sitting behind the wheel. Such doings did grab front-page space.

"SOMETIMES local sponsors who set up booths along with the regulars in our carnival really get into the spirit of 'show biz' and are quite ingenious," Cox said.

"At one town I learned that some of the service clubs were going all out in the matter of dressing up their booth attendants in colorful old-time carnival clothing styles. I couldn't wait to get a look at them. With the exception of my pitchman all my workers today dress casually and I'd pretty much forgotten about fancy attire as worn in early days.

"I was fascinated. They did a great job in attracting crowds."

AS FAR AS the kids are concerned, it is the ferris wheel which intrigues them most of all. For them, you can't have an honest to goodness carnival without one. We asked Ray Cox about the "Big Wheel."

The original ferris wheel was a monster.

The name "ferris wheel" was unknown until George W. G. Ferris, head of the Pittsburg Bridge Co., built the Great Wheel for the 1893 Columbian Exposition in Chicago.

It is claimed that the creation of this giant structure was inspired at a banquet given by the directors of the fair for their architects and engineers. One of the speakers deplored the fact that American engineers had failed to propose an outstanding attraction for the fair, referring to the Eiffel Tower of Paris as a spectacular example of what could be accomplished in such projects.

G. W. G. FERRIS, an engineer, took to heart the rebuke to his profession. The result was his design, construction and erection of what became known as the ferris wheel.

The diameter of that wheel was 250 feet while its total height was 264 feet. The two steel towers that supported its axle were 140 feet high. The main axle was 32 inches in diameter and 45 feet long, and weighed 140,000 pounds.

Each of the 36 cars, which were 26 feet long and 13 feet wide (larger than cable cars), accommodated 60 passengers, providing a capacity for 2,160 people per trip. The total weight of the wheel was 2,807,498 pounds.

THIS GREAT wheel was powered by two 1,000 horsepower steam engines, and it was equipped with Westinghouse air brakes. One of the engines operated the wheel and the other was held in reserve. The speed was one revolution in 20 minutes, two revolutions constituting a trip.

In 1904 this first ferris wheel was sold to a wrecking company which scrapped it by dynamiting.

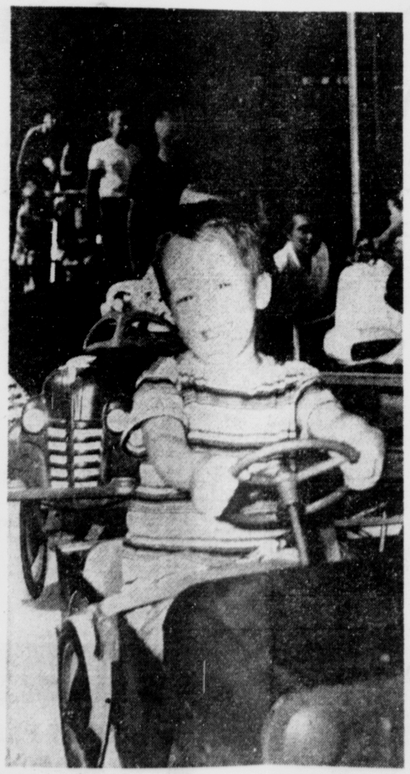
But six and a half decades later, its offspring are still with us. And no carnival, in Marin or elsewhere, would be complete without one.

ONE OF THE BIG thrills for any carnival-goer comes when he or she tosses the hoop and rings a dolly, then walks off with a prize. Such games have been a traditional part of the carnival for decades and have lost none of their popularity in this sophisticated age.

THE PRANCING HORSE of the carnival merry-go-round is an exciting sight for the tykes. Big brother and big sister may prefer the giant ferris wheel. But for the little ones, the merry-go-round still reigns as the favorite.

FOR THE YOUNG SET, the rides have to have a jolt, a swoop, a steep climb, a wide swing, or some other sudden motion guaranteed to bring shrieks and gasps from the young riders.

THE FUNHOUSE is yet another requisite for any genuine American carnival. Great Western Show calls their funhouse Giggleville. And the wild artwork on the outside alone suffices to send some of the youngsters into hysterics and then to lure them, and not a few adults, inside for the merriment.



FOR THE CHILDREN, the carnival means rides and eats. Above, a youngster proudly displays his driving skill as he steers a miniature automobile "just like daddy." It matters not that his route is an oft-traveled circle. And at right, a young miss gets double the enjoyment as she not only rides the merry-go-round, but also enjoys the sugary cotton candy that is so much a part of carnival fun.

Film Lures Visitors To HemisFair

The Travel Pages

The most controversial film ever shown at a world's fair is drawing record crowds to the U. S. Pavilion's Confluence Theater at HemisFair '68 in San Antonio, Tex.

Attendance in the theater is close to the one and one-half million persons mark and has already surpassed the attendance at the American film showing at Expo '67 in Montreal, Canada, according to a U. S. Pavilion spokesman.

THE FILM IS "US," a 23-minute color spectacular made by Francis Thompson and Alexander Hammid.

The movie offers a sweeping look at America past and present, but it is the film's concern with contemporary social and economic problems — poverty in Appalachia, urban decay and racial inequities — that has aroused controversy.

Critics say the movie's emphasis distorts the American story by emphasizing only the ills of our society and not our successes. Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson felt the film was one-sided in its presentation and Edward Clark, commissioner of the pavilion, wanted the film removed.

President Lyndon B. Johnson saw "US" on his Fourth of July visit to the world's fair, but offered no comment on the movie.

NATIONAL FILM reviewers have praised the movie for its photographic excellence and probing insight. Foreign dignitaries have expressed admiration that the U. S. government is showcasing a film that so forthrightly cites some of the nation's most pressing problems.

The Confluence Theater, with its soaring pillars and high, tinted windows, is one of the most eye-catching structures at the fair.

The interior is divided into three 400-seat theaters, each with its own standard-size movie screen. The "US" movie is beamed onto these screens by separate, but synchronized, projectors. Then, five minutes into the film, the dividing walls "fly" into the ceiling, the screens rise out of sight, and a 70-millimeter projection system beams the final 18 minutes of the movie onto a giant curvilinear screen, the largest in the world.

THE MOVIE IS shown 24 times a day in the Confluence Theater and admission is free.

The San Antonio fair has already drawn more than three million visitors to its downtown 92-acre site.

Other highlights of the fiesta-flavored international exposition include 17 foreign government pavilions, a Central American republics pavilion, an Organization of American States pavilion, Texas and Arkansas pavilions, 19 private exhibitor pavilions, and a 50-million-dollar display of Spanish art.

Tips To Make Motoring More Pleasurable

Americans love to travel by car, especially in summer and particularly in August.

According tto the American Automobile Association, some 60 million people will drive 100 billion miles this summer, seeking fun, escape, and a change of scenery. That represents at least 25,000 round trips to the moon and a lot more jostling and fatigue than any astronaut encounters getting there and back.

WHY ALL this vacation traffic?

Because people have more money, lots of leisure time, and bigger, stronger cars. Also, you can credit improved sleeping and eating accommodations and more and better roads.

In fact, the vacationing motorist faces 3,700,000 miles of roads and streets—more than one mile of road for every square mile in the continental United States!

If you plan to take to the highway during these warm-weather months, perhaps a few tips will help make your trip safer and more enjoyable.

TO BEGIN with it will pay you to have your car inspected by a competent Marin mechanic before departing. And, on the road, you should continue to give the car a personal going-over periodically.

Check the lights and signals. See to it that your tires are properly inflated and without visible defects. Test your windshield wipers (it may not rain in Marin in August but it does elsewhere) and horn.

Prepare a checklist of things you need to take and do. Do you have maps and literature describing the areas you want to visit? Schedule your rest stops and accommodations.

Since there will be little opportunity to wash clothes, pack as many drip-dry garments as possible.

A MEDICAL kit is a must. As part of the kit, you'll certainly want such items as sterile bandage pads, adhesive, and an antiseptic. Also, adult and children's asprin, milk of magnesia, a fever thermometer, a medication for possible car sickness, a medicated skin cream—and any other items your doctor may prescribe.

Think of ways to keep the children occupied during the trip. Here are a few suggestions:

Give a road map to each youngster who can read. Then at the start of the day's travels prepare a number of questions: where on the map is the town, city or village you are passing through? How far is it from one to another? What is the population of each place? And so on.

ALSO YOU could have the children name and list things they see beginning with the "A". The first one who completes the alphabet wins.

For the younger ones, buy a supply of crayons and coloring paper, finger puzzles, comic books and card games. Inexpensive transistor radios with ear plugs for individual listening also hold the youngster's attention.

One precaution: As soon as you step into the car, fasten your safety belt. And see to it that the rest of the family does the same. According to a survey, seat belts reduce fatalities and serious injuries by 40 to 90 per cent.

ONCE ON the road you should pay strict attention to your driving. The AAA suggests that you move your eyes every two seconds when driving. Start from a center point high enough to give you a broad view of the road. Then move your eyes to one side and back to center; to the other side and back; to the rear-view mirror and back. Repeat.

Remember to use your signal at all times to indicate any change of speed or direction that will affect other drivers.

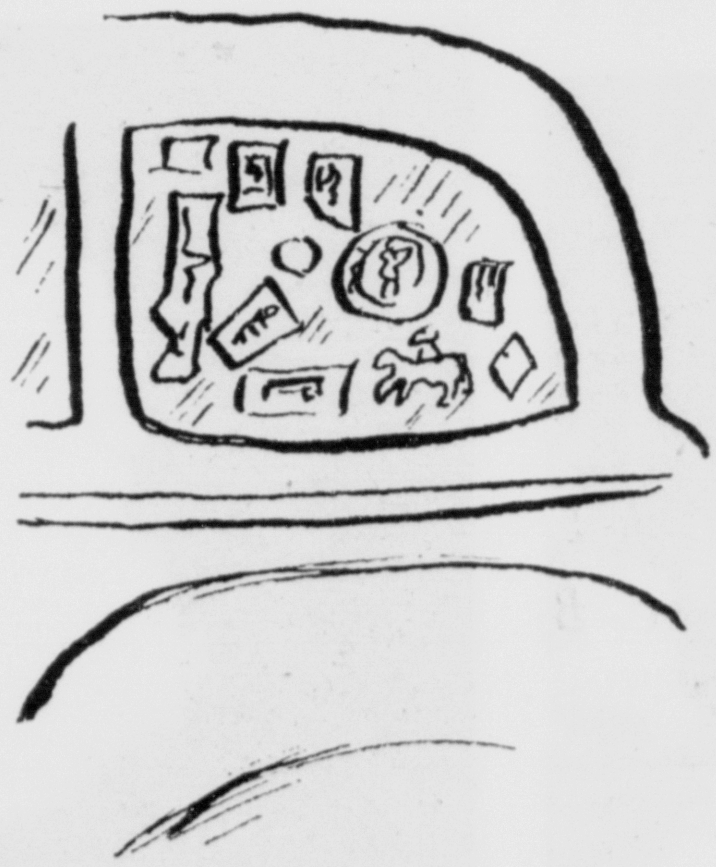
Don't let anyone call you a "bumper hugger." Remember to allow at least one car length between you and the driver in front for every 10 miles per hour of speed.

NIGHT-TIME is a hazardous time, so slow down. Even if you maintain legal highway speed —say 60 to 75 miles per hour— you're probably "overdriving" your headlights. You can see very little beyond their beams.

Lower your beams when passing or when following before passing. Allow more space between you and the driver in front than you would during the day—at least one and a half car lengths for every 10 miles per hour.

It is wise to take a "road-break" at regular intervals to avoid driver fatigue. In the car you can ward off fatigue by shifting your driving position from time to time or by letting fresh air in. Changing speed for short intervals also helps to keep you awake.

Remember, you pass your driving peak between the fifth and sixth hour at the wheel. So when you've reached that stage begin to look for a place to rest or to stay.



MORE TRAVEL, LESS EXPENSE

Although Americans are traveling more and more, the U.S. consumer today is spending exactly the same percentage of his dollars on trips abroad as he did in 1929 — .7 of 1 per cent.

The reason: The shrinking costs of foreign travel, especially those made possible by the time-saving merits of modern airliner transportion.

'Hallo' Instead Of A Handshake

For centuries, handshaking has served as the German greeting and the Germans have become known for the custom around the world.

But just as many foreigners have asked "is this really necessary?," Germans themselves appear today to be questioning the practice.

ESPECIALLY under consideration are many of handshaking's aspects. Though the greeting is frequently no more than a quick pump of clasped hands, just as often it means several seconds or even minutes of shaking interrupted by occasional hand-holding pauses.

According to a recent poll in West Germany 30 per cent of those asked expressed disapproval of the practice — especially when used everytime friends or acquaintances meet. Just a few years ago, the percentage of disapprovers was so small as to practically be non-existent and even last year only 23 per cent said they were against it.

However, opposition seems to depend largely on regional differences in the country. For example, this year fully 45 per cent of Bavarians said they rejected the practice. On the other hand, only 11 per cent in North Rhine-Westphalia were against it.

ORIGINALLY, handshaking was a sign of friendship. But it has long since lost this narrow meaning in Germany and is now surrounded with a string of Emily Post-like do's and dont's — For example, who should extend the hand first under various circumstances — which appear to be costing it popularity in the country.

Arguments against the practice on grounds it is unhygienic, impractical and meaningless are also becoming increasingly frequent.

One sign of the growing trend against handshaking is the appearance of other forms of greeting on the German scene. Today, many Germans are inclined to greet each other with a simple "hallo" (the "e" has been changed to "a" in German), or with a nod of the head.

A Resort In Wales That Americans Have Overlooked

Looking for an overseas summer vacation spot that hasn't yet been overrun by American tourists?

Give some thought to Wales.

And particularly to the seacoast city of Llandudno.

Virtually unknown in the United States, Llandudno has a long, sweeping and beautiful sand beach that would be the envy of many a Riviera resort.

There are amusement facilities along the promenade, but they are carefully planned and located so as not to create a cluttered look.

And even if American tourists do not throng to Llandudno, there are many, many large and comfortable hotels, most of them fronting on the beach and ocean. This is because the city is a popular vacation spot with the English, the Scottish and the Irish.

Other Llandudno attractions: Wide streets, many flowers, golf courses and friendly people who speak the same language as Americans.

Nearby is scenic Snowdonia National Park and Snowdon Mountain. Also such historic castles as Conway and Caernarvon. Sightseeing bus tours leave Llandudno regularly for the nearby attractions.

Frank Lloyd Wright Hotel Gone, But Lobby Is Spared

Visitors to Tokyo with a wave of nostalgia for Frank Lloyd Wright's recently razed Imperial Hotel will still at least be able to visit the lobby.

Plans are under way to remove the entire lobby section intact to the Meiji Village near Nagoya, where numerous relics of the Meiji Era (1868-1912) are being preserved.

The compromise was reached after efforts to preserve the famous hotel lost out to the demands of progress.

Replacing the venerable structure will be 1,000 new rooms to be completed in time for the opening of the 1970 World Exposition to be held in Osaka. Construction is already under way on a three-and-a-half million dollar parking facility which will accommodate 7,000 automobiles on a site adjacent to the Imperial Hotel's present 600-room main building.

Meiji Village, where the lobby will be reconstructed, is an unusual "outdoor museum" covering approximately 120 acres of wooded area, only an hour's drive from Nagoya Station. The village meticulously details the style of the late 19th Century when Japan first opened her doors to influences of Western culture under Emperior Meiji.

In addition to the Imperial Hotel lobby, 20 original buildings of the era comprise Meiji Village, together with a variety of artifacts of the same period.

How Much For A Motel Room?

The 1968 Mobil Travel Guide, which lists and rates 14,482 motels throughout the country, says the average price is $10.35 per night for a single room, and $15.28 for a double.

The prices listed in the guidebook show the most expensive motel to be $25 per night for a single, $40 for a double. The lowest prices are $3.75 for a single and $7 for a double.

The editors of the guide note that in some localities, motels charge considerably more than their regular listed prices on weekends, on some holidays and during local celebrations. They advise that the traveler make certain the room rate is agreed on before he registers.

Neither Aircraft Nor Ship, But They Can Really Move

One answer: When it's a hovercraft.

This controversy over semantics has reached high levels. The British Parliament is expected to establish this year that the home-grown hovercraft is a new class of vessel/vehicle/craft in its own right. This could get around certain legalities in the U.S. and Canada which up to now have prevented the hovercraft's introduction over here.

A major snag in the U. S. is the quaintly named Jones (Foreign Bottoms) Act, which prevents "foreign-built hulls" from engaging in intra-coastal trade. But if its hull hovers above the water, the hovercraft can't be considered a wet-bottom ship, can it?

Meanwhile, Canada persists in regarding the hovercraft as an aircraft, which it can't be — it can't fly.

Still to be resolved, also, is the wrangle between aviators' and mariners' bodies as to just who will operate the new craft.

An article in the British Overseas Airways Corp. publication, Incentive 68, documents the birth and rapid growth of the air-cushion vehicle. Invented by Christopher Cockerell, it made its maiden flight/voyage/lift-off in Britain just nine years ago.

A brilliant future is foreseen for the hovercraft's use in mass transportation. It could render unprofitable, and thus obsolete, many ferry boats, air shuttle services and highway-tunnel projects. Right now a campaign is on to introduce hovercraft in the Puget Sound area.

And there's a good possibility they may eventually turn up in the Caribbean, the Persian Gulf and the South Pacific. They could hover their way around these island-studded areas to connect with airline trunk routes, says the publication.

A Novel Of Youth And Love

GAZAPO by Gustavo Sainz, Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 181 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Gary Tuschler.

This is a novel of the European "now" generation, a la Mexico City. As such it is less related to Berkeley or Columbia and what is happening in the United States than it is to the barricades of Paris, even though none of the principals in the novel have any hopes of violent rebellion.

The characters would seem to be children of Jean Luc Godard.

The book is a record of a single, ordinary week, and dips and bends through dreams, diaries, tape recordings and reruns of events, sometimes like good Godard, more often like bad Godard.

Although a good chunk of the novel is vague and blurred, like jottings written on trees, one singular quality comes through and it correlates with a quality about today's youth that is sometimes missed in all the tumult and fears over anarchy, rebellion and too much sex. That quality is a freshness of freewheeling thought and surprisingly innocent and basically good ideas about love.

The quality tends to get blurred in translation, and again in the outward cynicism and disgust the characters hold for their elders, but it is obviously there, making this flimsy little book worth the effort.

Readable Biography

MR. LINCOLN by J. G. Randall; Apollo Editions, 392 pages, paperback, $2.25. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

J. G. Randall's four volume "Lincoln the President" is one of the better biographies of Abraham Lincoln. For "Mr. Lincoln," editor Richard N. Current has drawn from it sections that deal with Lincoln's personal life, with only the necessary amount of historical background.

The result is a very readable volume, actually giving a more human picture of the Civil War President than the more extensive biography from which it was drawn.

Buckley Is Still Swinging Away As Spokesman Of Conservatives

THE JEWELER'S EYE by William F. Buckley Jr.; Putnam's, 378 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by James Williams.

It would certainly seem after "100,000,000 speeches, 5,000 articles and six books" anyone would be a little drained for words; but not William F. Buckley, spokesman and watchdog of the ultra conservative wing of the nation. He's still in there swinging away.

"The Jeweler's Eye" is really a Buckley primer. It has something about everybody and everything current — from Gov. Ronald Reagan to a reasonably mild essay on Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. following his assassination in Memphis, Tenn.

One does not have to agree with Buckley's pronouncements — some of which seem rather childish—, but they make a better pastime than watching the late, late movie on television.

The book is broken into 10 segments and, as said before, the range is wide. The essays date back to 1962, including some from national magazines and Buckley's own National Review.

He is often witty. A good example of this is his tome from Esquire Magazine of December, 1967, on "the politics of Truman Capote's ball" which social wags billed as one of the great parties of the century.

In a contemporary society such as ours, it is good to have a man such as Buckley around — for he is not afraid to tackle man or beast. And he represents a viewpoint not always well articulated.

Anyone For Smorrebrod Or For Rodgrod Med Flode?

THE COOKING OF SCANDINAVIA by Dale Brown; Time-Life Books, 206 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Is there any place in the world where the preparation and consumption of food are enjoyed with greater zest than in the Scandinavian countries?

You'll have a hard time convincing the traveler who has been there that there is, and it will do you no good to cite France.

"The Cooking of Scandinavia," another volume in Time-Life's splendid Foods of the World series, reflects the enthusiasm that the Scandinavians put into their meals.

In Denmark, in Norway, in Sweden and in Finland, there are distinctive cuisines that have sprung from their various histories and resources. Some dishes they share. But each has its own specialties.

Brown gives you some 100 recipes, all hearty and tasty. Along with them he also gives you a wealth of really fascinating background on Nordic gastronomic traditions and practices. Time-Life does what it always does so well, illustrates the book beautifully, in mouth-watering colors. And as with predecessor volumes in this series, you get a smaller spiral booklet in which the recipes are repeated for handy kitchen use.

Anyone for frikadeller, rodgrod med flode, gravlax, spinach pancakes, spitsar, wienerbrod, spinatsuppe, or any of the hundreds of smorrebrod sandwiches of the Danes or the countless smorgasbord delicacies of the Swedes?

One Man's War With Surplus Weight

THE TRANSFIGURATION OF A FAT SLOB by Jeremy Ets-Hokin; Diablo Press, 120 pages, $2.45. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Jeremy Ets-Hokin has been a rotund as well as a colorful figure in San Francisco's civic and cultural life.

He's still colorful, but no longer corpulent.

The businessman and cultural gadfly tells how he slimmed down from 242 pounds on his five-foot-nine-and-a-half-inch frame at age 37 to 160 pounds at age 40 in "The Transfiguration of a Fat Slob," an appropriately thin paperback from Berkeley's Diablo Press.

As an "ex-fatty" myself who trimmed down from 181 to 120 pounds at about the same age and in a comparable period, and who has held steadfastly to that last figure for a number of years, I claim some competence to comment on Ets-Hokin's book and program.

Generally, that commentary is one of agreement.

The Ets-Hokin regimen is the really only effective approach of combining wiser eating habits with greater exercise. As anyone who has fought the battle of avoirdupois knows, one doesn't work without the other.

To us, it seems that Ets-Hokin may overdo the exercise bit at the expense of the food reduction. Not everyone can spare the two hours a day he commits to walking, weight-lifting, calisthenics, swimming, etc. But a lesser time will suffice if the curbing of the caloric craving is sufficient. Ets-Hokin, while now selective in his eating (he spurns all animal fats and sugary desserts while emphasizing lean meats, seafoods and fresh fruits and vegetables), continues to consume his chosen dishes in what seem gargantuan portions.

Ets-Hokin, however, does not propose that his readers follow his own example exactly. Most can satisfy the inner man with lighter but still nourishing meals, as we do, and then fit their exercise programs into the time available.

Generally, the exercises he outlines seem sensible and practical, although he may have gone a bit overboard on weightlifting at the expense of more varied calisthenics. And he overlooks the virtues of bicycling, one of the best of all exercises for reducing and for fitness, whether performed outdoors on a mobile bike or indoors on a stationary exercycle.

As with most subjects, Ets-Hokin has some interesting and controversial ideas on weight and health, and no qualms in expressing them — stay away from chiropractors, avoid massages, etc.

We are, however, puzzled by his disdain for the attributes of commonsense and willpower. Knowledge acquired through study and experimentation may, indeed, be superior to intuitive commonsense. But without willpower, the campaign is doomed. But, perhaps this is simply a matter of semantics.

Certainly, Ets-Hokin must agree that the person undertaking a weight-reduction, physical-fitness program permanently can expect a struggle every remaining day of his life against the temptations of his old bad habits.

The small, unpretentious book seems to us to offer as much or more help to the fat and flabby than do the available larger and weightier hardcover volumes in the field. After all, as Ets-Hokin notes, those authors are quite likely to be doctors who are themselves sadly overweight, or spa operators who are naturally lean and mean, and who have never personally experienced the trauma that occurs when one faces up to his overweight and first takes the pledge to eschew pastries and the easy chair in favor of green vegetables and exercise.

An Inside Look At Politics, California Style

DANCING BEAR — AN INSIDE LOOK AT CALIFORNIA POLITICS by Gladwin Hill; World, 269 pages, $6.50. Reviewed by Paul E. Peterzell.

Gladwin Hill, head of the New York Times bureau in Los Angeles, has been reporting on this state's politics for 20 years, so he is used to trying to explain California.

This reviewer, and a fair share of the readers of this newspaper, still are new to California, and will find that Hill's amusing, but scholarly, account of how California politics got this way helps explain where the state is likely to go in the future. Even the natives will find his "inside look" has a lot that will be fresh for them, too.

From Hiram Johnson to Ronald Reagan, Hill detects "what might be called a politics of pragmatism — a milieu or opportunism and improvisation, in which party structures are weak, party loyalties are flimsy, 'party responsibility' is unknown, and in which continuity, in personalities and policies, is tenuous and electoral consistency is rare."

And California's politics may be a forerunner of politics in other states, Hill suggests.

The title, Hill explains, was taken from Samuel Johnson's remark about a dog walking on its hind legs — that it might not be done well, "but you are surprised to find it done at all."

Hill concludes that "California's unique political system, by that token seems doubly wondrous; you are surprised not only that it works at all, but that it works quite well."

The Story Of A Multi-Millionaire

By DON KEOWN

ONASSIS by Willi Frischauer; Meredith, 277 pages, $6.95.

SAN FRANCISCO IN COLOR by T. H. Watkins; Hastings House, 95 pages, $4.95.

Biography falls generally into two broad categories, that meant to inspire or edify us through the examples set by other men, and that intended simply to satisfy our curiosity.

"Onassis" by Willi Frischauer would seem to belong in the second classification.

The second category may be less momentous than the first, but it is not necessarily less interesting. Human beings are curious animals, insatiable in their quest for personal information about their fellow creatures, and particularly about the celebrities among them.

Frischauer, biographer of Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, is a veteran writer of Viennese origin whose best known previous book was about Hermann Goering.

To fully satisfy our curiosity about his subject, a biographer must impress us as unbiased and as utterly candid. In "Onassis," Frischauer does not accomplish this. He seems utterly bedazzled by his subject's immense wealth, his fame and glamor, a condition that is understandable, but nonetheless unfortunate.

We are told on the dustjacket that Frischauer had the cooperation of Onassis in the gathering of material for the book. Perhaps, it would seem, Frischauer has paid a price for that assistance and has produced a book that appears to be pretty much an unobjective praise-piece. Whether from appreciation or awe, the biographer seems to regard everything Onassis has said or done with unqualified admiration and acceptance.

This glossy veneer leaves Aristotle Onassis devoid of the more human qualities he must possess.

Still, the book is not without interest. There is a vicarious satisfaction from the glimpses it provides of how high finance is conducted on the multi-multi-million dollar plane, and of how the ultra-ultra rich get their pleasures and their kicks. There is some inside information on the Onassis-Churchill relationship (although the attachment is never really explained), on the Onassis-Rainier feud (although one suspects he is getting only one side of the argument), of the Onassis-Callas affair (although one is certain he is not being told all the story).

Frischauer's writing style is very good, making for easy reading. Only the too uncritical point-of-view leaves one with serious reservations about his book, providing one regards the Onassis story as more entertaining than meaningful. Still, for only $6.95, you can learn something about a man who probably doesn't even recognize the existence of such a piddling sum.

THE FIRST RULE for anyone planning a pictorial book on a city or a region is to avoid the cliche subjects in selecting the photographs.

In launching its new Profiles of America Series, Hastings House flouts that guideline, and, thanks to its choice of cities, gets by with it.

For what would a color portfolio of photographs of San Francisco be without pictures of the Golden Gate Bridge, the Palace of Fine Arts, Chinatown, Fisherman's Wharf or a cable car?

"San Francisco in Color" contains 32 full-page plates in four colors, all focusing upon subjects that are well established as points of pride for the citizens and as prime attractions for visitors.

Represented are photographers George Knight, Carlos Elmer, David Muench, David M. Mills, Josef Muench and Hans Hannau. If originality has been sacrificed, quality has not. Each plate represents a superbly beautiful depiction of the familiar scene.

The text is by T. H. Watkins, managing editor of American West and a confirmed "San Franciscophile." He gives the reader a bit of history, a bit of geography and a bit of sociology of the city, all written from an admiring stance. He also contributes some excellent captions for the pictures.

The book is not by any means a critical study of San Francisco. But the admirer of San Francisco as "America's most beautiful city" will treasure it as confirmation of his good taste.

At the same time, Hastings House has issued a companion book in the new series, "Tidewater Virginia in Color," with more to follow.

VINCENT VAN GOGH is the latest painter to receive combination color slide and book treatment from McGraw-Hill in its Great Masters Series.

Grose Evans of the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C., has written the text, briefly detailing the artist's story. Inside the book's cover are 20 color slides of Van Gogh's work from the great museums and private collections, and for each there is some history and description.

Hundreds of art-lovers must be compiling complete collections of the books in this highly original series. When complete, they'll have themselves a treasure trove that will be the next best thing to the fabulous paintings themselves.

SAY "VIENNA" and one immediately thinks of cream-filled pastries and wienerschnitzel.

There is, of course, a lot more to Viennese cooking.

And "The Cooking of Vienna's Empire" goes beyond that city and indeed past Austria's present boundaries to the neighboring countries of Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

The book is the most recent volume in Time-Life's superb Foods of the World series. Joseph Wechsberg, well-known as a foods writer and authority, is the author, assisted by three expert consultants and Time-Life editors. Marin's Fred Lyon is again the photographer, and he makes those scrumptious Viennese desserts simply irresistible.

Like earlier books in the series, it is not exclusively a recipe collection. There is also a great deal of fascinating information about regional food traditions and practices. And again, the recipes are repeated in a smaller, spiral booklet for handy kitchen use.

"The Cooking of Vienna's Empire" is not for the calorie-conscious. Just looking at Lyon's color photos alone must be fattening. But there's a wealth of creative cooking and satisfying eating in its pages, as well as an abundance of absorbing reading for the intellectual gourmet.

A BOOK with appeal principally for aficionados, and, no doubt, of intense interest to them, is Dover Publication's paperback reprint of Ambrose Heal's "London Tradesmen's Cards of the XVIII Century."

The book first appeared in 1925. It includes not only Heal's learned discussions of what for English shopkeepers were the "yellow pages" of their time, but also contains reproductions of more than 100 of the trade cards, from bunmakers to chimney-sweeps and lamplighters.

The publisher suggests the $2.50 book might also be of interest and use to artists, designers and students of English social history.

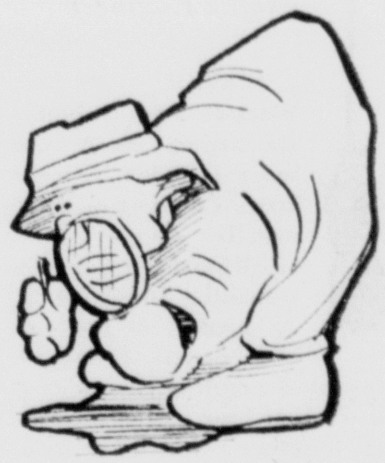
Sleuths & Suspense

THE SAINT RETURNS by Leslie Charteris; Doubleday, 181 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

This is the second Simon Templar (Saint) book incorporating two stories rewritten from television plays actually done by others, but with the approval and flavor of Charteris.

"The Dizzy Daughter," about a girl who fears she is being chased by Nazis in Ireland, and "The Gadget Lovers," about someone who is homing in on foreign spies with radio-controlled explosives, are both good. They could have been better as full-length "whodunits." Both appear to be exactly what they are: Prose versions of television plays.

"Daughter" is whimsical with a good twist ending, and "Gadget" is a bit heavier with what must have been snappy dialogue on the tube.



Charteris explains that if everyone likes this rewrite arrangement, more will be pub'ished. His long-winded preface explaining all this needn't be read.

SOME NEW BOOKS FOR THE JUNIORS

Marin youngsters 12 and older should feel a regional interest in Dorothy and Joseph Dowdell's "Sierra Nevada: The Golden Barrier" (Bobbs-Merrill, $4.50).

The Dowdells, both native westerners and ex-teachers, describe the California mountain range as to geology, biology, botany and climate. They then trace its colorful history from the earliest Indians down to today.

Some other new books for the junior readers:

"Hurrah, We're Outward Bound" (Doubleday, $3.95) with illustrations by Peter Spier is part of "The Mother Goose Library" series. It is not, however, the customary rhymes associated with Mother Goose. Rather, it tells in verse and song of the voyage of a 19th Century ship. It has the rollicking sound of the sea chanty. And Spier's artwork is fascinating in its detail, appropriate to the verse and historically authentic.

There's more than a touch of the old-fashioned fairytale in Joan Aiken's "Armitage, Armitage, Fly Away Home" (Doubleday, $3.95). But it also has something of the feel of the modern-day fantasy yarn. And it is for fourth through seventh graders, instead of for the tykes. Mrs. Armitage on her honeymoon wishes for two children who will have lots of "interesting and unusual" experiences so they will never be bored. And experiences Mark and Harriet do have, from encounters with a witch and an unfriendly lizard to a meeting with a ghostly governess.

There's excitement at the circus in "Small Clown and Tiger" (Doubleday, $2.95) by Nancy Faulkner, with illustrations by Cyndy Szekeres. Pete the Small Clown is already a familiar hero to many youngsters. This time his adventures involve an escaped tigers — albeit a little one. The circus setting should appeal to beginning readers, whether or not they have previously met up with Small Clown.

Next time there's a sick child around — one that can't come out of his room but can have a crack in the door open — there's a sugar-coated drama for him. It's "The Lollipop Princess," written and illustrated by Eleanor Estes (Harcourt, Brace & World, $2.50). The book is a play for paper dolls in one act. Cut out some paper dolls for each part, put them by the crack in the door, using the floor as the stage, and read the parts. It's about a princess who is ill because she craves a lollipop she's never had before. Well, the prince finally finds her one, wins her hand and they live happily ever after, and hopefully, it will all make a sick child less sick, and more happy.

Eighteen stories make up a bookful of strange and magical lore in "The Bull Beneath The Walnut Tree and Other Stories," (McGraw-Hill $3.95) by Anita Hewett. There's a queen who loves pink, a funny strawberry patch, and five men who look alike and confuse their wives. There's added punch in Imero Gobbato's drawings.

Youngsters cannot help these days but be aware of the civil rights movement. But do they really understand what it is all about? Do they really know why it began, and when? History books are only starting now to give real answers. "Tear Down the Walls!" (Doubleday, $4.95) by Dorothy Sterling, for 20 years a civil rights worker, tells the story honestly and understandably of why American Negroes are demanding full citizenship, and of how they are going about it. It's a good tool for making certain your child really understands an issue that effects us all, including the very young.

SERVICE — Modern electronic equipment is becoming more and more complex. Circuits are confined into smaller spaces. One small part the size of a transistor (the size of an eraser on the end of a pencil) called an integrated circuit or IC now does the work of four or five transistors together with their associated parts. In most cases, servicing modern equipment requires more time than formerly required. Units have to be brought into the shop and tested with instruments. Often, parts have to be ordered. This means long delays.

Our service department like many other service departments has often been 3 or more weeks behind. Equipment waits its turn for service and then more time may be consumed in waiting for parts. Because of these delays and in fairness to our customers, our service department only services those items that have been purchased in our store. Our store is primarily engaged in selling high quality stereo music systems for the home. Together with these sales goes the proper guidance in the selection of the correct components for the budget, proper guidance in the installation of the equipment, where necessary, proper design of built-in systems, and of course service to the components when necessary. When required, our service department is prepared to make complete custom installations in the home. Custom installations are provided only when the music system is purchased from our firm. Although many calls are received for installation of equipment purchased elsewhere, this service is not available.

A policy such as ours may seem discriminatory, but actually it is a policy of fairness to our customers. Custom installations, for example, are not just a matter of hooking up units. It involves the proper integration of parts. For best results an organization should be involved in the entire project and not just a portion of it. As a dealer, we assume a responsibility toward the customer who purchases a component system from us. The main purpose for the existance of our service department is to provide this service.

When considering the purchase of a home music system, thought should be given to the service that will be available from the dealer after the purchase. Purchasing from a dealer in your home town who can provide this service will save you money.

CLINGING LEAVES

An old dying tree was gnarled with age,
The branches seemed twisted in such a way,
That only God himself could explain.
Three leaves were still clinging
In their twilight age
To make their life last another day.

HAMILTON BASE — ARTHUR KAISER

THE MOMENT OF LIFE

Build these freeways
Through the woods,
Across the streams,
Through all this natural wonder.
Kill the deer,
For the bear!
For the puma!
The Indian are gone.
Kill the squirrels,
For, squirrels live
Only in a squirrels' world.
Kill the quail,
And other birds,
For they only live
In their world,
Linked by smell!
Sound! and color.
They do not comprehend,
Nor understand machines,
Or nature of thought;
Do you?
Speed kills,
And differentiates time,
And there is always death
Along the freeways;
It is the walk,
That keeps the songs of Spring,
Living things alive.

A Bay Area Group Comes Up With New Jazz A La San Francisco

By JOHN SUNIER

LUNA — "Space Swell" — Arhoolie ST 8001:

Luna is an 11-piece group of Bay Area musicians devoted to a variety of improvisatory "new music" which strikes me as sort of a San Francisco sound version of the so-called "new jazz."

Pianist Lee Cronbach and bass clarinetist Pat Wallace seem to be the leaders, and share the composing tasks. There are seven tracks, with Zen-ish quotations the only liner notes.

An interesting experiment, but rather formless.

EMIL RICHARDS — "Stones" — UNI 73008:

Vibist Richards' second LP on UNI Records employs unorthodox percussion instruments built on a 22-tone-to-the-octave scale, much like Harry Partch's instruments. An electronic synthesizer is also featured.

Twelve original compositions describe the 12 birthstones.

Richard's habit of playing around with multiple rhythm patterns is exploited to the fullest extent, and, as with Don Ellis' similar work, adds great excitement to the music.

A weird and yet easy-on-the-ears stereodisc.

Marin Is Container Gardening Country

Garden Page

It's not surprising, since just about every Marin home has a patio or deck. So do a good many apartments.

And a patio or deck can appear pretty stark in the summer without the cool ornamentation of shrubs and plants. And the best way to provide that decoration is by growing them in containers.

Then they are not only there, but they are mobile, and can be moved about at will.

THERE ARE TWO aspects to container gardening, both of which pose creative challenges to the gardener. There is the selection of the container. And there is the choice of the plant material.

Redwood is no doubt the most popular container choice in Marin. However, terra cotta and various ceramic pots are also widely used. Pre-cast concrete containers, plastic bowls, and wire baskets are also popular. And nurserymen say that renewed interest in the traditional red clay pots has been shown by container-growing enthusiasts.

ONE OF THE most attractive and most useful of the many containers in which Marinites can grow their plants is the hanging basket. It adds a cool and creative touch to the patio decor. (Photo courtesy of California Association of Nurserymen)

You realize after visiting a nursery that anything will grow in containers. It's simply a matter of choosing the right combinations and achieving the effect you desire.

Insofar as color right now is concerned, your nurseryman has several perennials for summer color.

The marguerites — in white, yellow, and pink — head the list. The blue felicia is attractive, as are the geraniums, which helped make container gardening as popular as it is today.

Both the Zonal and Ivy geraniums should be given consideration.

FOR SPECIAL landscaping effect, use larger plant material in containers. The Dwarf Japanese Black Pine is a real standout and lends itself to most any surrounding. Don't overlook the charm (and fun) of dwarf citrus with its many choices.

Ask your nurseryman for his recommendations for the location you have in mind to garden in containers. He may suggest such flowering specialties as hibiscus or roses (especially the floribundas) or gardenias. Or, such foliage beauties as Tropical Philodendron and Glossy Aralia (Rice Paper Plant).

Maybe even a lovely Japanese Maple.

Whatever the location and exposure, your nurseryman can offer suggestions for container gardening which will add beauty and charm to your outdoor living area.

ONE FINAL WORD of advice: After your container plant is set, don't forget that it will need somewhat more frequent watering than does the same plant growing outside a container. On the other hand, its accessibility makes watering an easy chore.

If Short On Space, Choose Shrubs That Show Restraint

When space is a limiting factor, as it is for many Marinites, thankfully there are shrubs that show restraint.

The evergreen Raphiolepis is a good example. It is a slow-growing shrub and ideal for foundation plantings. It remains low and requires little pruning.

The introduction of the Pink Indian Hawthorne variety 30 years ago started Raphiolepis on its climb to fame. Clusters of light pink flowers adorn shiny-bronze foliage for weeks and weeks early in the year through spring.

YOUR NURSERYMAN can also show you other shrubs suited for small spaces, plus those that are self-shaping and require little attention. Conifers, undoubtedly, head the list.

There are a number of low-growing coniferous evergreens in prostrate or upright forms.

The Arcadia Juniper, for instance, has many uses. Its low, spreading growth is suited for planting under windows or it may be used for ground cover. The Bar Harbor and Tam Junipers are of the same family that does an admirable job with little care.

WHERE SOMETHING taller is desired, other junipers are there to help. Lovely blue-gray or silver-gray foliaged varieties, recently introduced, will thrill you with handsome coloration and semi-columnar upright habit of growth.

Longtime favorites such as Dwarf Golden Arborvitae, Italian Cypress, Podocarpus and Yews also show restraint. They're self-shaping and don't require a lot of room.

Use Liquid Food For House Plants

For their convenience and quick availability, use liquid fertilizers on your house plants rather than a dry form.

They're sold as liquid concentrates or as powders to be dissolved in water.

For foliage plants choose a complete fertilizer high in nitrogen. Plants grown for their flowers need more phosphorus and potassium.

A Perky Canopy For Garden Room

Set four-by-four inch Douglas fir posts at the corners and connect them with beams to form an open square. Four-by-fours or doubled two-by-fours make good beams. Next, run one-by-10s crosswise, spacing them three to five feet apart and nailing them narrow edge down.

Now weave wide strips of colorful canvas under and over the one-by-10s and staple the canvas ends to the end beams, or tie them through screw eyes.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

- Because we have had an unusually dry spring in 1968, light although frequent watering of shrubs and other plants just won't do. Deep watering is essential. If your shrubs aren't doing well, insufficient water is probably the reason.
- In July and August we are suddenly aware of the need for more shade trees. Fruitless mulberry, ash, elm, maple and other trees now available in containers will, if planted now, fill that summer void in future years.
- All annuals and many shrubs, especially roses, will bloom longer if fading blossoms are picked. Be sure to pinch off faded fuchsia blooms before they form seedpods.
- Plant berried shrubs now to enjoy their color this fall and winter.
- Water roses generously, but avoid overwatering, and spray them regularly for aphids and mildew to enjoy the maximum summer bloom. Some nurserymen recommend that you dispense with the feeding of roses in August to give them a late summer siesta. Feeding can resume in September.
- Support and tie tomato plants to keep the crop off the ground.

Cord And Chalk Play Roles In Laying Of Floor Tiles

The proper use of these two items insures that the tiles will be installed in straight lines and that the border tiles on opposite sides of the room will be of equal size.

The cord and chalk are necessary so that the tiles can be laid from the center of the room outwards, not from wall to wall.

BEGIN THIS procedure by marking the center of the two end walls of the room, using only the main dimension and ignoring irregularities. Using tiny nails, connect these two centers with a taut string, heavily coated with chalk. Snap the string to transfer a chalk line to the floor.

Now do the same thing with the two other opposite walls.

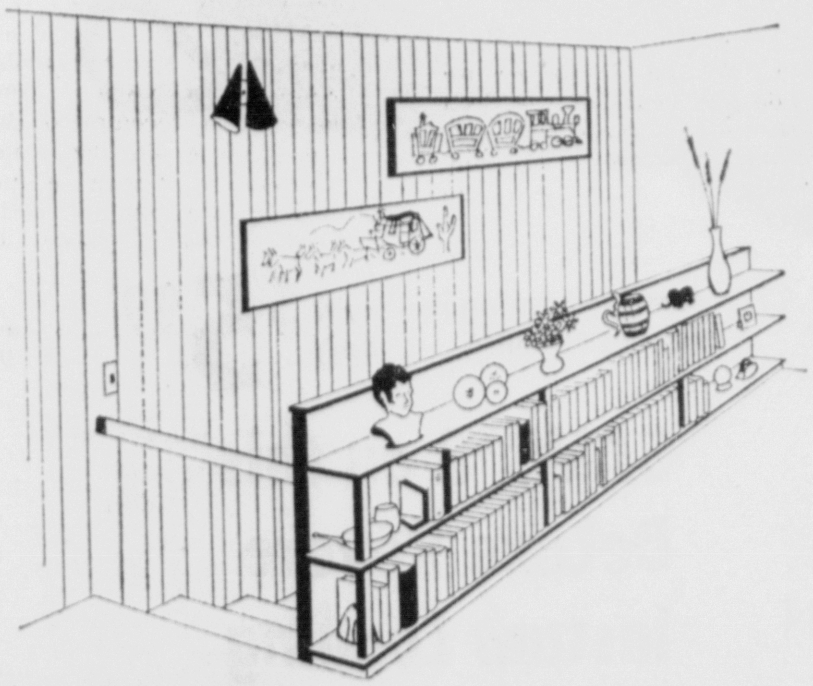
When you snap the second string, there will be a point at which the two chalk lines cross.

Next, lay uncemented tiles in two rows, starting at the meeting point of the chalk lines and extending one row to an end wall and one to a side wall. When you have done this, the two rows of tiles will form a right angle. Also, there will be equal borders at opposite walls. If these borders are too small or unsatisfactory for any other reason, an adjustment of the chalk lines will correct the condition.

AN IMPORTANT repeat reminder is that these two rows of tiles are laid without adhesive.

Once you have determined that the chalk lines are at a right angle, which they must be, and that the borders are satisfactory, you can proceed with the installation, certain that the tiles will be in a straight line.

If they are not, you have made a mistake someplace and you had better find out what it is before you go ahead.



A RAILING AROUND an open stairwell that's a not-too-difficult project for the home handyman yields storage space for books and art objects, thanks to shelving added on the outside. Railing can be matched with stairwell paneling. One-by-eight-inch pine board will do quite well as bookshelves.

15 MILLION COLOR SETS

NBC's latest count on the number of color video sets in American homes is 15,270,000, a gain of 48 per cent over a year ago. NBC says this means that 27 per cent of all television households have one or more of the tinted instruments.
